PARENTS, KIDS PLEASED . . .

Special Reading Project Praised

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

A special summer reading program for youngsters with "specific learning disabilities" has won high marks from teachers, parents and students alike.

"We are overwhelmed with the progress the children have made," said Goldie Quinn, reading specialist for the Lincoln School District's Title I program.

"The children are pleased with what's happened," she added, "and the parents are grateful"

Old Approach

The recently completed pilot project had at its hub a 45-year-old phonetic reading approach long virtually ignored by educators who rejected its medical basis.

Known as the Orton-Gillingham-Stillman method, it was developed in the 1920s by an Iowa neurologist with the help of reading specialists.

In the six-week summer session, Lincoln teachers put the method to work, along with some of their own innovations, to help children with problems ranging from underachievement to reversals in reading and writing.

'A Bright Child'

The learning disability child, Mrs. Quinn explained, is a bright child whose verbal abilities may belie his reading and writing problems.

Two to 10% of the average school population is made up of children with such disabilities, which occur in five boys for every girl.

Though the causes have not been pinpointed to everyone's satisfaction, Mrs. Quinn said they may be related to genetic factors or to chemical imbalance.

Other Methods Failed

For the Title I summer school pilot, Lincoln teachers chose youngsters for whom all other methods had failed and who had made "very little gain in the past."

One of the youngsters, a sixth-grader who had been failed twice, came to the summer school with a first-grade reading ability. At the end of the session, his reading and writing had improved, and his self-concept was up.

"We tried to see if we could make a difference in six weeks," said Mrs. Quinn. "We could."

Thick Files

Most of the children came to the session with thick files representing years of unsuccessful attempts to help them. Some were considered just "lazy," others may have been thought retarded.

Sometimes the problems can go undiagnosed and parents may be unaware their children suffer from such disabilities.

To help them, the teachers put together a program which combined the Orton-Gillingham method with language development exercises, math, crafts and even physical exercises to improve "perceptual motor skills essential to learning.

Hear, See, Feel

The reading exercises and physical activities helped the children hear, see and feel words and sounds to provide all possible stimuli to the brain and to make learning fun.

During the three-hour daily sessions, the kids could have been found tracing words in sand trays, learning to "put it all together" in sentences or bouncing on a trampoline while calling out words and numbers.

Many of the children have trouble distinguishing similar letters, such as "d" and "b," so the sand tray was used to help them "feel" the letters.

Word Reversals

Difficulties with left and right and word reversals ("saw" for "was") were also aided in the gymnasium where games were employed to improve word and letter recognition and self-concept.

In relay races, the kids stepped on letter-cards in grids on the floor as teachers called out the letters. In the reading labs, the children were taught each letter sound and then helped to blend them into words.

"These children can learn through this process," Mrs. Quinn said. "Things have to be learned in small bits."

First Time

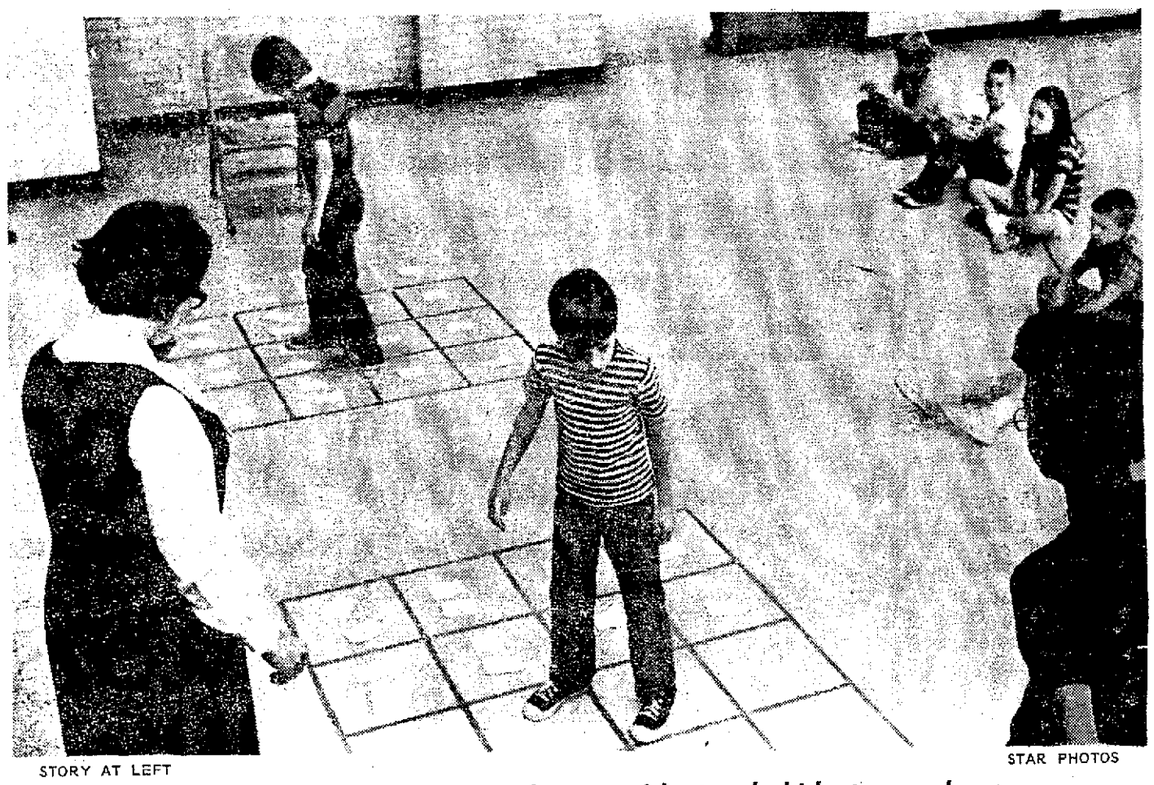

For many of the children it was a case of achieving for the first time.

One mother said her child wanted to go to school each day for the first time in memory. At the end of the session an eighth-grade student said he could hardly wait to go back to school this fall.

"I have never seen Joe so anxious to learn," was another mother's comment.

Tax Earmarking Opposition Seen

. . . LUEDTKE AGAINST SHIFT

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Chief sponsors of cigarette tax earmarking for a new University of Nebraska fieldhouse and a new state office building Wednesday acknowledged that their projects may be in financing trouble.

Sens. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln and Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff both said they are aware of legislative sentiment to undo the earmarking package and plow the revenue into the state's general fund.

$6.9 Million

That would capture for the general fund an estimated $6.9 million a year which would be used to help take the pressure off sales and income tax rates.

Luedtke said he will "strenuously oppose" such an effort.

Carpenter said he will not join in any proposal to repeal the 1971 earmarking decision, but he seemed to indicate that he might end up voting for it.

"This is not to indicate that I have changed my position," he said, "but we will be confronted with the facts of life and one of them in 1972 will be the fact that the revenue cupboard is bare.

Constituents Desire

"If and when a decision is to be made, I will exercise my judgment based on the desire of my constituents."

As of now, Carpenter said, "not a single person in my district has said anything complimentary" about the earmarking decision.

The 1971 Legislature—over the veto of Gov. J. James Exon — increased the state cigarette tax from eight to 13 cents a pack, and earmarked the anticipated additional $6.9 million in annual revenue for the fieldhouse, the office building and for a recreation center at the Beatrice State Home for the mentally retarded.

For Beatrice

The first $695,000 raised by the tax increase went for the Beatrice project.

The remaining funds are to be accumulated for construction of the fieldhouse and the office building.

Now some senators are concerned about holding 1973 sales-income tax rates at 1972 levels, a goal which Exon has already pledged to attempt to accomplish.

Tax rates for 1972 will be set later this year, and are expected to return essentially to the 1970 level of 2½% sales and 13% personal income. Current rates are 2½% and 10%.

Combination

The sharp legislative division over the earmarking decision earlier this year and the public criticism which followed enactment of the proposal combine to endanger the financing venture.

Another factor also intrudes next year — 25 legislative seats will be filled by the voters.

"It will be an election year," Luedtke noted, "and some people are looking for a way out again not to increase sales-income tax rates."

Stem The Tide

All those people are doing, Luedtke said, is "trying to stem the tide of the future."

Luedtke said he is "angry and disgusted" by the fact that "the opposition to every effort to build this state never gives up.

"If we start undoing things in the Legislature . . . if this ever starts . . . there will be no end to the infighting," he said.

More Can Play

"Remember, two can play at that game. Not only two, but three, and all the way up to 49."

The fieldhouse and the office building are the beginning of "a building program for Nebraska," he said.

"And the fieldhouse is more than a fieldhouse. It is an all-purpose building for the people of the state. It promises to provide total promotion of the state as a national center for meetings," Luedtke said.

"I would serve notice that an effort to undo what's been done, to spin our wheels on these projects, could result in other projects in other areas facing the same fate."

Thompsons Ordered To Stand Trial

Omaha (AP) — James Thompson and his wife, Theresa McCline Thompson, were ordered Wednesday to stand trial in district court on charges of first-degree murder stemming from the May 24 knife-slaying of retired Army Col. Robert F. Bates of Palmetto, Fla.

Both defendants were ordered held without bond by Municipal Court Judge Elizabeth D. Pittman.

A cocktail waitress at Romeo's, an Omaha night club, Cheryl Vosler, testified she saw Bates with Mrs. Thompson in Romeo's the night he was killed.

A Prairie Village, Kan., man, Hartmann Goetze, testified Thompson robbed him at knifepoint the night of April 30 in the Thompson apartment. Goetze also testified he had paid Mrs. Thompson about $30 to commit an act of prostitution.

Mrs. Mildred Reed testified she saw several figures apparently assist someone from Thompson's apartment building and then carry something into the alley between her home and the street.

Bates' body was found about 11:30 p.m. in a garage about 20 feet from the Reed home after Mrs. Reed had called the police.

$23.2 Billion Budget Deficit Is Recorded

Washington (UPI) — Federal spending exceeded revenues by $23.2 billion in the fiscal year which ended June 30, the second highest budget deficit since World War II, the government reported Wednesday.

The deficit was $4.7 billion higher than President Nixon estimated last January. Outlays totaled $211.57 billion during the fiscal year while receipts totaled $188.3 billion.

The deficit came within $2 billion of equaling the $25.2 billion deficit recorded in the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1968, the highest red ink total since 1945. It was in sharp contrast to President Nixon's pledge, when he submitted the 1971 fiscal year budget to Congress, to keep the books in balance.

Joint Statement Issued

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr. issued a joint statement with George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, which said the budget would have shown a $2.5 billion surplus "had the nation's economy operated at full employment throughout the fiscal year."

Connally and Shultz said the existing tax system would have produced $214.2 billion in revenue if the economy had been operating at full blast during the 12 months. Actual revenues were $25.9 billion less than the full-employment level because of the effects of last year's recession.

In a later statement, White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said the deficit did not surprise the president, and also stressed the point that the budget would have been balanced had the economy been operating with everyone at work.

'Expansionary Phase'

"We feel the economy is in an expansionary phase and is moving along to a great degree," he said.

Chairman Lawrence O'Brien of the Democratic National Committee called the deficit report "another indication of the abysmal failure of the Nixon economic policy." He said the deficit "will do little to help to get the economy moving and could do much to push up interest rates and kill off what little recovery we already have."

Total spending in the fiscal year was $10.8 billion more than the $200.8 billion Nixon requested when he sent his budget for the fiscal year to Congress Feb. 2, 1970.

'Fulfills That Pledge'

"I have pledged to the American people that I would submit a balanced budget for 1971," Nixon said in his budget message to Congress. "The budget I send to you today — the first for which I bear full responsibility as president — fulfills that pledge."

As originally submitted, the 1971 fiscal year budget showed a surplus of $1.3 billion. That as revised to an estimated deficit of $18.6 billion last February.

In their joint statements Connally and Shultz concentrated on the full employment balance.

"For the third year in a row, a full employment balance or surplus has been achieved in the fiscal year 1971 after three successive years of full employment deficits totaling more than $40 billion," they said.

The budget for the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1970, showed a deficit of $2.8 billion. for the year that ended June 30, 1969, the budget showed a surplus of $3.2 billion.

Deficits, of course, are nothing unusual for federal budget planners. The 1969 fiscal year is the only one in the last 11 in which government revenue exceeded spending.

The final figures showed that defense spending, grew by $991 million over the $74.5 billion estimated last January. The increases largely reflected higher spending for personnel and procurement partially offset by lower outlays for research, development, testing, evaluation, construction and military assistance.

Higher than anticipated outlays for unemployment compensation and manpower training added $402 million to the budget.

Apollo 15 Overcomes Leak, Short Circuit

Space Center, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 spaceship sped into the grasp of the moon's gravity early Thursday, shortly after the crew plugged a leak that sprung in their water supply.

Following instructions from Mission Control, Commander David R. Scott turned space-age plumber and plugged the water tank leak that left the command ship looking like a laundry room, with towels hung up to dry.

As they hurtled toward Friday's scheduled landing on the moon, he and astronauts Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin were given a new procedure with which to by-pass a short circuit in the engine that will fire them into lunar orbit Thursday.

'Lot Of Thought'

"It sounds like you've done a lot of deep thought on this," Scott radioed Mission Control.

The short circuit and the water leak were two of a series of bugs that have developed in the spacecraft.

Scott was preparing to chlorinate the ship's water supply, a nightly chore before retiring, when he called to Mission Control:

"We find we've got a leak. You might take a look at that right quick and see if you can come up with any ideas. We're getting a fair-sized amount of water."

'Pretty Quick'

As the problem was pondered, Scott called again: "We need to isolate this thing pretty quick."

Finally, he was given instructions on use of two tools to tighten the chlorine injector port and the problem was solved.

It turned out that a similar leak developed in the spacecraft in a pre-launch check and the system for dealing with it was prepared on the spot by a member of the launch crew, Chris Perner.

"That was good thinking," Scott said, "because we about had a small flood up here. All we have to do now is hang out a few towels to dry."

Capsule communicator Karl Henize told Scott his wife had called and said it was about time he took a bath, anyway.

The astronauts were given the procedure for by-passing the short circuit after Scott and Irwin checked the lunar module, Falcon, for a second time and reported nothing wrong.

Tested Technique

Astronaut Richard Gordon of the Apollo 15 backup crew had tested the by-pass technique in a spacecraft simulator and said the rocket should be fired at critical times using both of its electrical circuits. He said the good circuit only would be used to start and stop the engine.

After coming within the moon's gravitational pull the spaceship increases in speed to about 5,700 miles per hour when the astronauts loop around the moon's backside later Thursday.

A short circuit in the command ship was discovered in the circuit A of the rocket engine control system on Monday, and although tests showed the short affected only a light, Mission Control wanted to play it safe. For this reason, circuit B, which is trouble free, would be used for the delicate ignition and shutdown of the engine.

Trade Position Worst Since 1946

Washington (AP) — The nation's trade position floundered in June to a third straight monthly deficit, marking 1971 to date as the United States' worst year in world commerce since 1946 and perhaps this century.

The Commerce Department reported imports exceeded exports by $363 million in June, giving the nation a deficit from April through June of $803 million, the worst quarterly red-ink figure since 1946.

The deterioration in trade left the nation with a six-month deficit of $373 million. Since the government began keeping seasonally adjusted trade figures in 1946, no similar half-year deficit has been recorded in trade.

The June trade report added credence to a warning Tuesday by Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans that the nation may wind up 1971 with its first annual trade deficit since 1893.

The department said imports totaled $4.023 billion in June compared with $3.66 billion in exports.

The Commerce Department reported imports exceeded exports by $363 million in June, giving the nation a deficit from April through June of $803 million, the worst quarterly red-ink figure since 1946.

The deterioration in trade left the nation with a six-month deficit of $373 million. Since the government began keeping seasonally adjusted trade figures in 1946, no similar half-year deficit has been recorded in trade.

The June trade report added credence to a warning Tuesday by Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans that the nation may wind up 1971 with its first annual trade deficit since 1893.

The department said imports totaled $4.023 billion in June compared with $3.66 billion in exports.

New York Times News Summary

U.S. Halts Spy Flights Over Chinese Mainland

(c) New York Times News Service

Washington — Administration officials said Wednesday that the United States has suspended all manned and unmanned reconnaissance flights over China in order to avoid any incident that might interfere with President Nixon's planned visit to Peking. An official informant added, however, that U-2 planes flown by Chinese Nationalists from Taiwan are not under United States control and could continue overflights.

Bodyguard Is Suspect

New York — Sources close to the investigation of the shooting of Joseph Colombo Sr. said that Philip Rossillo, who is described as a bodyguard of Colombo, was a prime suspect in the killing of Jerome A. Johnson, who is thought to have been the man who shot Colombo.

Drug Testing Expanded

Saigon — Military sources in Saigon said that drug tests would be expanded to virtually every American serviceman in South Vietnam in an effirt to find heroin users "before they get ready to go home." Currently, such tests are given to servicemen only as they leave for the United States at the end of their tours of duty. (More On Page 33.)

Huge Deficit Told

Washington — A one-year deficit of $23.2 billion would be enough to put any business out of business, but governments operate by different rules, and so the near-record deficit for the federal government for the year ended June 30 was said by government officials to have resulted entirely from the sluggish economy. If there had beeen full employment, one official said, there would have been a small surplus. (More On Page 1.)

Astronauts Relax

Houston — The three American astronauts in Apollo 15 spent an uneventful day in space as the time neared for their scheduled landing on the moon Friday. They were reported ready to undertake the maneuvers Thursday that will send them into a lunar orbit. A faulty switch was not considered an obstacle. (More On Page 1.)

Debate To Continue

Washington — Two votes in the Senate heartened supporters of the bill to provide government money to save Lockheed Aircraft Corporation from bankruptcy. First, an amendment to give Congress a second chance to veto aid to Lockheed was defeated 60 to 35. Soon after a motion to limit debate on the bill was defeated by only seven votes. (More On Page 2.)

Market Entry Opposed

London — Approving the recommendation by Harold Wilson, the party leader, the British Labor Party's executive voted 16 to 6 to oppose British entry into the Common Market in the terms negotiated by Britain's conservative government. It was the first time that Wilson's position on the issue was made known officially.

Lost Boy Found

Casper, Wyo. — "Hi, Kevin," a searcher said softly, spotting the mentally retarded, epileptic 9-year-old boy who had been the object of an 11-day search in the mountains of Wyoming. "Do you want to go home? Do you want to see your parents?" Kevin Dye replied "yes" twice, ending the adventure in which he had eluded as many as 3,000 volunteer searchers. A doctor later pronounced the boy in "remarkably good" condition. (More On Page 35.)

Committee OKs Funds

Washington — Members of a House-Senate Conference Committee were reported to have agreed on an appropriation of $81.2 million for the national arts and humanities endowment for the current fiscal year, double the funding for both endowments in the last fiscal year. The agreement provides virtually all the money requested by President Nixon.

Peking Demands Recognition

Hong Kong — Premier Chou en-Lai told a group of American graduate students last week that Peking must be recognized as the sole legitimate government for all of China — including Taiwan — before diplomatic relations can be established with the United States. The students, now in Hong Kong, released the text of the Chinese premier's remarks. (More On Page 2.)

Formosa Major Topic For Nixon-Chou Talks

World News

Hong Kong (AP) — Chou En-lai has told visiting Americans that Red China rejects any attempt at a "two-Chinas" solution for the Formosa issue and will refuse to enter the United Nations if the Nationalist regime remains.

The Chinese premier says the United States must get out of Vietnam as well as the Formosa Strait, but his discussion of obstacles to better U.S.-China relations made it appear he ranks Formosa affairs ahead of Vietnam.

What he had to say nine days ago to a delegation of American students in Peking was not new, but its repetition and the ranking Chou gave to a catalogue of issues gain importance in the light of President Nixon's acceptance of an invitation from Chou to visit him before next May.

The Only Government

The suggesion is that establishment of state relations will be impossible unless Washington recognizes Peking as the only legitimate government of China. As of now, the United States recognizes the claim of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist regime, based on the island of Formosa since late 1949 and holder of the U.N. China seat, as the legal Chinese government.

Chou rambled over a wide assortment of issues in 3½ hours with 15 visiting students from the Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars, who released the full transcript on their arrival here. Some of what Chou told them had been reported earlier from Peking.

The transcript revealed that Chou sees four major obstacles to normal U.S.-Peking relations. He ranked them in this order:

1. Formosa—or as the Chinese call it, Taiwan.
2. The Vietnam war.
3. The state of war which still exists in Korea and the U.S. military presence there.
4. U.S. aid to Japan, which Chou insists fosters a resurgence of Japanese militarism.

Nixon in accepting Chou's invitation said the United States would continue to stand by its "old friends," presumably including the Formosa-based regime.

No 'Two Chinas'

Both Peking and the Nationalists insist there can be no "two-Chinas" solution. Both insist there can be no "independent" Formosa, either, because they claim the island has been China's for 1,000 years.

Chou told his visitors any theory of a separate Formosa was "absurd." And each regime, too, says it will not be a U.N. member if the other is represented there.

TheUnited States is bound by a 1965 treaty to protect Formosa and the Pescadores or Penghu frrom Red Chinese attack.

Chou says the treaty is "illegal and null and void." Moreover, he repeated Peking's insistence that the Americans withdraw all their military units and installations from Formosa and the strait separating it from the mainland.

Complete Support

On Vietnam, Chou repeated Peking's pledge of "complete" support to the seven-point peace proposal proffered in Paris by the Viet Cong's Liberation Front as the only way to end the war. He stressed again the necessity of U.S. withdrawal from all Indochina.

Here, from the transcript, is how Chou stated the Formosa issue:

"First: If state relations are to be established with China, then it must be recognized that the government of the People's Republic of China is the sole legitimate government representing the Chinese people.

"Second: Taiwan is a province of China and it is an inalienable part of Chinese territory.

"Third: The so-called theory that the status of Taiwan is yet unsettled, which is the theory that is going about—some people in the world are spreading it—is absurd.

Fourth: We oppose any advocacy of a two-China policy, a one-China, one-Taiwan policy or any similar policy. And if such a situation continues in the United Nations, we will not go there.

"Fifth: we are resolutely opposed to the so-called 'Taiwan independence movement' . . . not a native movement but a movement which has behind it special manipulation of foreign forces.

"Sixth: The United States should withdraw all of their present military strength and military installations from Taiwan and the Taiwan Strait. And the defense treaty which was concluded between the United States and Chiang Kai-shek . . . about the so-called defense of Taiwan and Penghu' is illegal and null and void, and the Chinese prople do not recognize that treaty."

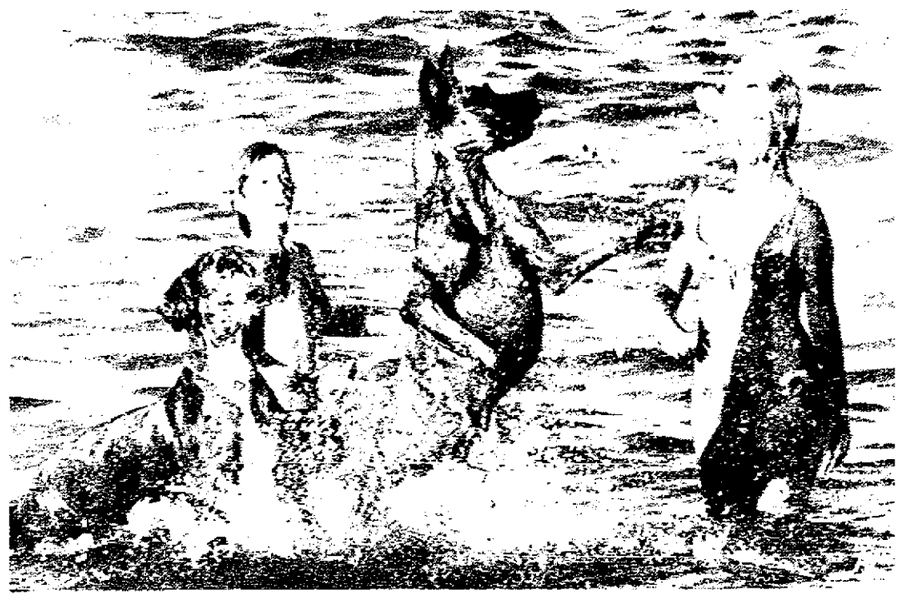

Chou called upon Politburo Member Yao Wen-yuan to discuss Japan.

Yao told the visitors that "the revival of Japanese militarism is being fostered singlehanded by U.S. imperialism." It is being revived, he claimed, because "the Japanese economy is developing in a lopsided way." To this, Chou added the claim that Japan is cooperating with the United States and Australia in building a nuclear reactor, and can manufacture guided missiles, "so the only problem remaining is how to manufacture a nuclear warhead to put on these missiles."

Chou made no direct reference to Red China's ideological feud with Moscow's Communist leadership, but without naming the Soviet Union he contended that "big-power chauvinism" threatens peace. Supposedly he referred to competition between the United States and Russia.

Chou had been criticizing the American Peace Corps for its activities around the world when he brought up the matter of that competition. He saw a danger to world peace "because in the world there is another country that is learning from you, that is sending out its hand everywhere and competing against you."

"Economic competition," he went on," is bound to bring with it military competition. And economic competition combined with military expansion is bound to occupy various places throughout the world, having carved up various continental areas, now wanting to carve up the oceans."

Judge Catches Defendant Who Escaped Court

Titusville, Fla. (AP) — Joe A. Cowart Jr., a court of record judge, had just sentenced 18-year old Patrick Bertrand to two years on a breaking and entering charge Tuesday when the defendant yelled an obscenity at him and bolted from the courtroom with bailiff Harold Yeager in pursuit.

Cowart, black robes trailing behind him, leaped off the bench and ran through his private courtroom entrance just in time to catch Bertrand as he ran down a hall.

Yeager slapped a pair of handcuffs on the prisoner.

Strike Motion Approved By United Steelworkers

Pittsburgh (AP) — Rank-and-file United Steelworkers have overwhelmingly given their union the authority to strike the country's nine major steel firms if no agreement is reached on a new industry contract by this Saturday at midnight.

The vote, taken nationwide July 16-26, was 93% in favor of a strike, a union source said here Wednesday.

The source said he did not know how many steel workers voted out of the 350,000 employed in the nine major companies.

The result of the balloting was to be released later in Washington, where the Big 9 and the union have been negotiating since July 7.

Earlier in the week, the union notified its 600-man basic steel industry committee to be on the alert for weekend meetings to vote on any offer the companies might make.

It had been rumored that the Big 9, bargaining as a bloc for the entire basic steel industry, would present its first firm set of wage proposals earlier this week.

Thus far, there had been no confirmation that the proposal was submitted.

USW President I. W. Abel said before the talks that his half-million steel industry workers would accept no less than the wage package won by the union in the can and aluminum industries, reportedly a 31% increase over three years.

The companies, claiming declining profits and eroding markets, have said they can't afford such a package and the White House said it would consider such a settlement inflationary.

If there is no settlement before the contract deadline, the resulting strike would be the first in the industry since 1959, when the steelworkers walked off their jobs for 119 days.

Abel has already told the union there would be no extension past the Saturday midnight deadline, when the current contract between the industry and union expires.

Lockheed Loan Debate Shut-Off Move Rejected

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The Senate Wednesday refused for the second time to shut off debate on emergency loan legislation designed to rescue the ailing Lockheed Aircraft Corporation.

The vote was 59 to 39. A two-third majority is needed for cloture. Opponents of the legislation want to keep the debate going.

Earlier Wednesday, Lockheed had survived another Senate hurdle in its race against bankruptcy.

The Senate voted 35 to 60 against an amendment that would have removed the company from favored status in a bill providing up to $2 billion in government-backed loans for failing companies.

The vote was read by some as an indication that the administration-backed corporate rescue bill, designed specifically to save Lockheed, has enough support to clear the Senate if debate can be curbed.

But Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., a backer of the legislation, was more cautious.

"Some senators who are against the bill voted against this amendment because they don't see any reason to bring the whole (Lockheed loan) question back to Congress another time," Cranston said.

Senate Extends Sugar Quota Act For Three Years

Washington (AP) — The Senate passed Wednesday, 76 to 22, a bill to extend the sugar quota act for another three years starting Jan. 1.

Before passage, the Senate defeated 55 to 42, a proposal pushed by Senate liberals to cut off South Africa's $8.6-million quota.

The bill established quotas for 32 foreign sugar suppliers. It now goes to a Senate-House conference committee where differences will be worked out.

The pro-South Africa forces, led by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., improved on their 47 to 45 victory Monday over Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's amendment to write South Africa out of the U.S. sugar import program.

I-80 Museum Aimed At Traveling Public

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Grand Island — Every summer day, two or three hundred travelers are drawn by curiosity into a trailer parked at the west end of the Phillips rest stop on west-bound Interstate-80 ten miles southeast of here, and end up taking a short course in Nebraska history.

The trailer, emblazoned with a Nebraska map and labeled "Nebraska State Historical Society," is one of the society's three admission-free "mobile museums," intended to stimulate tourist interest in Nebraska's past. Another, located at Chimney Rock, started out as an information station and was developed into a full-fledged mobile museum. The third followed construction on I-80 to the west, and has settled permanently near Ogallala.

Colorful window displays, centered around the theme "The Great Platte River Road," spotlight such historical topics as the pony express and telegraph, the trans-continental railway, westward trails, sodhouse life, Indian tribes and frontier forts.

The emphasis is on the developments in transportation, communications and commerce which made possible the settling of the state.

One window points out places of historical interest on a Nebraska map; another locates the state's historical museums: the Historical Society Museum in Lincoln, Ft. Robinson St. Park Museum near Crawford, Grand Island's Stuhr Museum, Pioneer Village in Minden, the Hastings House of Yesterday, and Senator George Norris' home in McCook.

Branch Museums

"The trailers are really branch museums aimed at the traveling public," according to Wendell Franz, director of the society's Lincoln museum. "The idea is to give the traveler a chance to see how much history we do have. We want to leave him with the idea that if he got off the Interstate and looked around, he'd find a lot of interesting things."

The Grand Island trailer is quite effective at snagging travelers, says Doug Waldbaum, a June graduate of Grand Island High who tends the trailer as a full-time summer job. "Not all the people who stop at the rest stop come in," he says. "Often they get pulled in by their kids, or they need help with their car."

But the guest book Waldbaum keeps shows that 205 travelers look over the exhibits on an average day, weekend days being the busiest. The biggest day for attendance so far was Sunday, July 18, when more than 480 people entered the mobile museum.

"Most of them are from out of state,' he says. "Very few are from Nebraska."

The trailer, Waldbaum says, requires little maintenance, and the job gets a little dull when attendance is slow. But when visitors arrive he signs them in, answers their questions, and enjoys just shooting the breeze. Travelers, he says, come from all 50 states and "just about every walk of life."

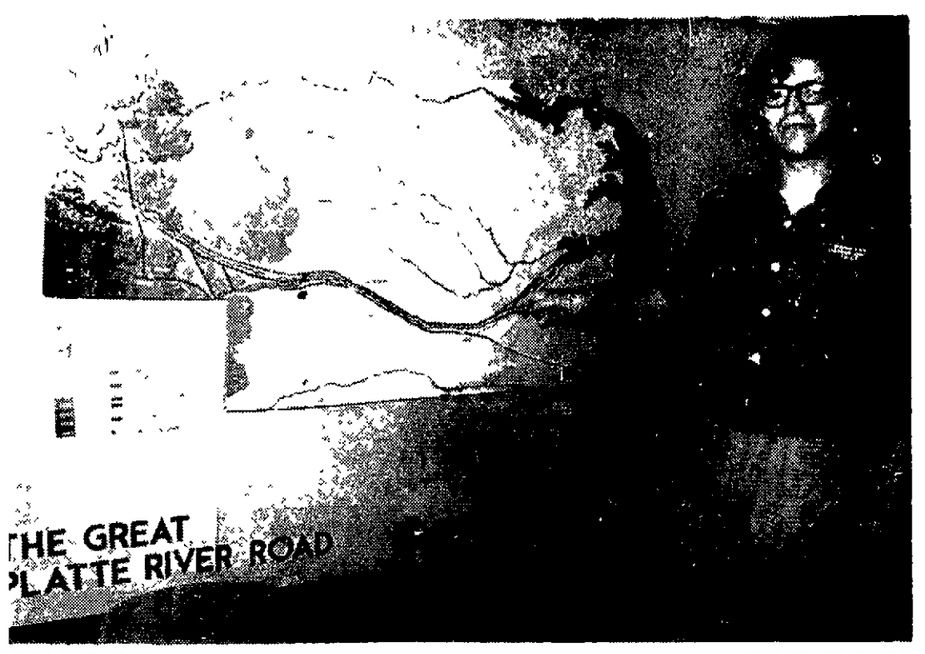

Children are especially curious about the displays. One tot saw a pair of ox hobbles, a rare item featured in one of the window displays, and said, "Look Mommy, a pair of handcuffs!"

"I also get a lot of comments on how excellent our rest stations are," he says.

Waldbaum plans to attend Hastings College as a sociology major this fall, when his job expires until next summer. He splits the museum's 80 open hours a week with a classmate from GIHS, Randy Britton, who will attend the University of Nebraska in the fall on a Regents' Scholarship.

The museums are used for special events when they are not stationed at rest stops for the summer traffic, Franz says. One is used at the State Fair, and the Grand Island trailer made an appearance at the Red Cloud Centennial before dropping anchor near the Phillips interchange June 21. But the society is unable to use them for special events on a regular basis, Franz says, due to a lack of funds.

The society has no definite plans to expand the fleet of mobile museums, Franz says, "But we'd like to make them available more of the year as educational units for outstate schools."

Kissinger's Peking Trip Well Received In U.N.

. . . Says Ambassador Bush

Nebraska News

Omaha (AP) — The secrecy of the Henry Kissinger visit to Peking tended to offset some of the adverse effect of the publication of the Pentagon papers upon the international community, George Bush, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said Wednesday.

Bush said there was a surprise element in the Kissinger visit and it "has been very well received" at the U.N.

In a news conference held during a visit to Strategic Air Command Headquarters, Bush said the international community was "rather shaken" by the publication of the Pentagon papers — "not so much by the contents of the papers, but by the fact that confidential memorandums were obtained by newspapers."

"There are certain things in the national policy that must be protected, must be done quietly, must be done so that you can keep confidence with other nations," he said.

Diplomats "have every right to know that their confidences will be kept; they have every right to know that I, in my infinite wisdom, am not going to take that paper and give it to some reporters," he said.

'Shook Up Some'

He said the Pentagon papers "shook up some of those relationships and I think this other (Kissinger) visit and our ability to keep a confidence restored some of that."

Bush said "an almost-skepticism" had existed among members of many U.N. delegations" that we as a country could keep a secret, you might say, in order to make an initiative, you might say toward a new policy.

"It could almost never have happened if it had been tried all over the Congress and all over the papers and debated in the halls of the U.N."

Wilcox, Tekamah Voters Approve Special Issues

Special bond elections in Wilcox and Tekamah have both won approval of voters.

At Wilcox a $100,000 bond proposal for an addition to the Wilcox school carried by a 58.3% majority. The tally was 157 for, 112 against. A 55% majority was needed for passage.

Tekamah citizens overwhelmingly okayed a $50,000 proposal for a new swimming pool. The total vote was 384 for and only 59 against. The proposal needed 60% majority for approval.

Winnebago Tribal Meet Set Saturday

Winnebago (UPI) — A general tribal meeting of Winnebago Indians will be held Saturday to determine whether Indian workers should form a union local and to explore means of getting emergency funds for the unemployed.

The meeting was announced by Reuben Snake, education director for the Nebraska Inter-Tribal Development Council.

Snake said he and other activists were seeking to stimulate the tribal council to act on economic and labor problems.

Snake said that his group, which held a demonstration at a worksite Monday, had nothing to do with the fire bombing of the Winnebago school Monday night or with any other acts of violence.

"We do not condone violence, and we will work diligently to prevent it," Snake said.

The demonstration Monday was in protest to alleged wage discrimination against Indian workers by the Sulzbach Construction Co., Sioux City, Iowa, which is building an addition to the St. Augustine Mission here. Indians said they were being paid $1.65 per hour for the same work for which non-Indians were being paid $3.15

Snake said two Omaha representatives of the construction and general laborers' union met with Indian workers Wednesday and said they would work with the tribe in forming a union local. Sentiment on the union issue will be sounded out at the Saturday meeting, he said.

The issue of unionization, he said, was especially important because of three major construction projects coming up in the community. They are a $1,560,000 school and a $898,000 community center in Winnebago and an 89-house construction project.

Snake also said his group planned to ask the Nebraska Employment Service for some of the funds it received through the Emergency Employment Act signed by President Nixon July 12. He said the request for an emergency program also would be discussed at Saturday's meeting, which is to start at 1 p.m. at the Tribal Hall here.

Omaha Director Of YWCA, 10 Staff Members Dismissed

Omaha (AP) — Directors of the Young Women's Christian Association voted to give dismissal notices to the association's executive director and 10 staff members on grounds of inadequate performance.

Executive Director Helen Warga countered Wednesday that she believes the program "we were doing with the staff we had has been good."

Miss Warga, a 30-year YWCA veteran, has been director here since 1966.

Elizabeth Hill, board president, said the board "voted to do a complete reorganization — and that included everybody." She said she would hope some members might be hired back.

When asked to elaborate on reasons for the dismissals, Miss Hill referred a reporter to a copy of remarks made at a joining YWCA-United Community services meeting May 27.

At that meeting James O. Bosworth, UCS president, was quoted as saying "United Community Services expects the YWCA to find new directions of programming, to evaluate your organizational operation, and to begin to make necessary changes no later than June 30.

Otherwise, he said, the UCS would withdraw financial support.

At that same meeting Mrs. Barbara Coffey, chairman of the UCS group work panel, cited some areas where she felt YWCA services were lacking She cited vocational training programs, runaway programs for girls, drug abuse programs, services for hard-to-reach young women, teen programs, day camp programs for younger girls and co-ordination of programs with other agencies.

Corn Blight Severity Up In 4 Counties

Southern corn leaf blight is increasing in severity in four southeastern Nebraska counties although the disease is "holding in the rest of the state, University of Nebraska plant pathologists said Wednesday.

Dr. David Wyson, NU Extension plant pathologist, said surveys conducted through last Monday showed more lesions occurring on the lower leaves of T-cytoplasm corn plants in Otoe, Richardson, Nemaha and Pawnee counties than a week ago.

"Further spread and development on upper leaves has also increased dramatically the past four days," he said.

Wyson said the blight has now been found in Washington County, bringing to 44 the number of the state's 93 counties in which the blight has turned up.

Hail Damages Crops At G.I.

Crops were damaged by hail in an area northeast and east of Grand Island Tuesday night, the National Weather Service at Grand Island reported.

Corn was badly stripped in an area southwest of Chapman.

Northeast of Grand Island on the Hall-Merrick County line there were reports of total corn loss from the hailstorm. Damage was also reported to alfalfa and soybean fields in the vicinity.

Meanwhile, the low temperature of 55 degrees at Omaha Wednesday equals the record low for that date set in 1892.

No Criminal Intent Is Found In Phelps Fund Discrepancy

Holdrege (AP) — Harold McGrew, representative of the Nebraska Welfare Department and the U.S. Department of Agriculture Food Stamp program, has told the Phelps County Board, he feels there was no criminal intent in connection with a discrepancy in county welfare funds.

The board subsequently adopted a resolution, stating that no criminal wrongdoing had been found but requiring that Connie Adam, county welfare case worker, should be required to repay the county $1,651.85, which previously had been deposited in escrow. The resolution said that the food stamp program, in which the discrepancy occurred, was administered "solely and exclusively by Connie Adam."

McGrew made several recommendations to the board for procedures which he felt would prevent future losses.

McGrew said that there were discrepancies in the food stamp funds in other counties ranging from $2 to $700, but none was as great as the discrepancy in Phelps County.

The Holdrege Daily Citizen had reported on July 19 that it appeared about $1,600 in welfare funds was missing and that amount had been placed in escrow to cover the loss.

McGrew said at a public hearing Tuesday, following the board's executive session, that the discrepancies were uncovered in an audit made by the U.S. inspector general's office in May.

It has been housed in university facilities. However, the facilities now have to be used for other endeavors. The funds are to be used for a building in which to house the lab.

4 Arraigned As Result Of Raid At Ragan

Alma (AP) — Four persons have been arraigned on charges of manufacturing a controlled substance (marijuana) and a fifth has been charged in the wake of a raid on a residence in Ragan early Tuesday. Latest to be charged is LaMont M. Clay of Holdrege, who was scheduled for arraignment later.

Mike Kennedy, who provided no further address or identification, also has been arrested and arraigned on the charge, Harlan County Attorney Robert McKelvie reported.

Tuesday Marlin Kammann, Robert Bowles and Dennis Joslyn, all former Holdrege citizens were arrested, and subsequently arraigned.

The raid resulted from an investigation begun a month ago when a young woman was arrested and jailed on charges of possession of marijuana with intent to sell it. Phelps and Harlan County officials and the State Patrol are cooperating in the investigation.

Kissinger's Peking Trip Well Received In U.N.

. . . Says Ambassador Bush

Omaha (AP) — The secrecy of the Henry Kissinger visit to Peking tended to offset some of the adverse effect of the publication of the Pentagon papers upon the international community, George Bush, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said Wednesday.

Bush said there was a surprise element in the Kissinger visit and it "has been very well received" at the U.N.

In a news conference held during a visit to Strategic Air Command Headquarters, Bush said the international community was "rather shaken" by the publication of the Pentagon papers — "not so much by the contents of the papers, but by the fact that confidential memorandums were obtained by newspapers."

"There are certain things in the national policy that must be protected, must be done quietly, must be done so that you can keep confidence with other nations," he said.

Diplomats "have every right to know that their confidences will be kept; they have every right to know that I, in my infinite wisdom, am not going to take that paper and give it to some reporters," he said.

'Shook Up Some'

He said the Pentagon papers "shook up some of those relationships and I think this other (Kissinger) visit and our ability to keep a confidence restored some of that."

Nebraska News

Bush said "an almost-skepticism" had existed among members of many U.N. delegations" that we as a country could keep a secret, you might say, in order to make an initiative, you might say toward a new policy.

"It could almost never have happened if it had been tried all over the Congress and all over the papers and debated in the halls of the U.N."

U.S. Halts Spy Flights Over Chinese Mainland

(c) New York Times News Service

Washington — Administration officials said Wednesday that the United States has suspended all manned and unmanned reconnaissance flights over China in order to avoid any incident that might interfere with President Nixon's planned visit to Peking. An official informant added, however, that U-2 planes flown by Chinese Nationalists from Taiwan are not under United States control and could continue overflights.

Bodyguard Is Suspect

New York — Sources close to the investigation of the shooting of Joseph Colombo Sr. said that Philip Rossillo, who is described as a bodyguard of Colombo, was a prime suspect in the killing of Jerome A. Johnson, who is thought to have been the man who shot Colombo.

Drug Testing Expanded

Saigon — Military sources in Saigon said that drug tests would be expanded to virtually every American serviceman in South Vietnam in an effirt to find heroin users "before they get ready to go home." Currently, such tests are given to servicemen only as they leave for the United States at the end of their tours of duty. (More On Page 33.)

Huge Deficit Told

Washington — A one-year deficit of $23.2 billion would be enough to put any business out of business, but governments operate by different rules, and so the near-record deficit for the federal government for the year ended June 30 was said by government officials to have resulted entirely from the sluggish economy. If there had beeen full employment, one official said, there would have been a small surplus. (More On Page 1.)

Astronauts Relax

Houston — The three American astronauts in Apollo 15 spent an uneventful day in space as the time neared for their scheduled landing on the moon Friday. They were reported ready to undertake the maneuvers Thursday that will send them into a lunar orbit. A faulty switch was not considered an obstacle. (More On Page 1.)

Debate To Continue

Washington — Two votes in the Senate heartened supporters of the bill to provide government money to save Lockheed Aircraft Corporation from bankruptcy. First, an amendment to give Congress a second chance to veto aid to Lockheed was defeated 60 to 35. Soon after a motion to limit debate on the bill was defeated by only seven votes. (More On Page 2.)

Market Entry Opposed

London — Approving the recommendation by Harold Wilson, the party leader, the British Labor Party's executive voted 16 to 6 to oppose British entry into the Common Market in the terms negotiated by Britain's conservative government. It was the first time that Wilson's position on the issue was made known officially.

Lost Boy Found

Casper, Wyo. — "Hi, Kevin," a searcher said softly, spotting the mentally retarded, epileptic 9-year-old boy who had been the object of an 11-day search in the mountains of Wyoming. "Do you want to go home? Do you want to see your parents?" Kevin Dye replied "yes" twice, ending the adventure in which he had eluded as many as 3,000 volunteer searchers. A doctor later pronounced the boy in "remarkably good" condition. (More On Page 35.)

Committee OKs Funds

Washington — Members of a House-Senate Conference Committee were reported to have agreed on an appropriation of $61.2 million for the national arts and humanities endowment for the current fiscal year, double the funding for both endowments in the last fiscal year. The agreement provides virtually all the money requested by President Nixon.

Peking Demands Recognition

Hong Kong — Premier Chou en-Lai told a group of American graduate students last week that Peking must be recognized as the sole legitimate government for all of China — including Taiwan — before diplomatic relations can be established with the United States. The students, now in Hong Kong, released the text of the Chinese premier's remarks. (More On Page 2.)

Formosa Major Topic For Nixon-Chou Talks

World News

Hong Kong (AP) — Chou En-lai has told visiting Americans that Red China rejects any attempt at a "two-Chinas" solution for the Formosa issue and will refuse to enter the United Nations if the Nationalist regime remains.

The Chinese premier says the United States must get out of Vietnam as well as the Formosa Strait, but his discussion of obstacles to better U.S.-China relations made it appear he ranks Formosa affairs ahead of Vietnam.

What he had to say nine days ago to a delegation of American students in Peking was not new, but its repetition and the ranking Chou gave to a catalogue of issues gain importance in the light of President Nixon's acceptance of an invitation from Chou to visit him before next May.

The Only Government

The suggesion is that establishment of state relations will be impossible unless Washington recognizes Peking as the only legitimate government of China. As of now, the United States recognizes the claim of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist regime, based on the island of Formosa since late 1949 and holder of the U.N. China seat, as the legal Chinese government.

Chou rambled over a wide assortment of issues in 3½ hours with 15 visiting students from the Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars, who released the full transcript on their arrival here. Some of what Chou told them had been reported earlier from Peking.

The transcript revealed that Chou sees four major obstacles to normal U.S.-Peking relations. He ranked them in this order:

1. Formosa—or as the Chinese call it, Taiwan.
2. The Vietnam war.
3. The state of war which still exists in Korea and the U.S. military presence there.
4. U.S. aid to Japan, which Chou insists fosters a resurgence of Japanese militarism.

Nixon in accepting Chou's invitation said the United States would continue to stand by its "old friends," presumably including the Formosa-based regime.

No 'Two Chinas'

Both Peking and the Nationalists insist there can be no "two-Chinas" solution. Both insist there can be no "independent" Formosa, either, because they claim the island has been China's for 1,000 years.

Chou told his visitors any theory of a separate Formosa was "absurd." And each regime, too, says it will not be a U.N. member if the other is represented there.

TheUnited States is bound by a 1965 treaty to protect Formosa and the Pescadores or Penghu frrom Red Chinese attack.

Chou says the treaty is "illegal and null and void." Moreover, he repeated Peking's insistence that the Americans withdraw all their military units and installations from Formosa and the strait separating it from the mainland.

Complete Support

On Vietnam, Chou repeated Peking's ledge of "complete" support to the seven-point peace proposal proffered in Paris by the Viet Cong's Liberation Front as the only way to end the war. He stressed again the necessity of U.S. withdrawal from all Indochina.

Here, from the transcript, is how Chou stated the Formosa issue:

"First: If state relations are to be established with China, then it must be recognized that the government of the People's Republic of China is the sole legitimate government representing the Chinese people.

"Second: Taiwan is a province of China and it is an inalienable part of Chinese territory.

"Third: The so-called theory that the status of Taiwan is yet unsettled, which is the theory that is going about—some people in the world are spreading it—is absurd.

Fourth: We oppose any advocacy of a two-China policy, a one-China. one-Taiwan policy or any similar policy. And if such a situation continues in the United Nations, we will not go there.

"Fifth: we are resolutely opposed to the so-called 'Taiwan independence movement' . . . not a native movement but a movement which has behind it special manipulation of foreign forces.

"Sixth: The United States should withdraw all of their present military strength and military installations from Taiwan and the Taiwan Strait. And the defense treaty which was concluded between the United States and Chiang Kai-shek . . . about the so-called defense of Taiwan and Penghu' is illegal and null and void, and the Chinese prople do not recognize that treaty."

Chou called upon Politburo Member Yao Wen-yuan to discuss Japan.

Yao told the visitors that "the revival of Japanese militarism is being fostered singlehanded by U.S. imperialism." It is being revived, he claimed, because "the Japanese economy is developing in a lopsided way." To this, Chou added the claim that Japan is cooperating with the United States and Australia in building a nuclear reactor, and can manufacture guided missiles, "so the only problem remaining is how to manufacture a nuclear warhead to put on these missiles."

Chou made no direct reference to Red China's ideological feud with Moscow's Communist leadership, but without naming the Soviet Union he contended that "big-power chauvinism" threatens peace. Supposedly he referred to competition between the United States and Russia.

Chou had been criticizing the American Peace Corps for its activities around the world when he brought up the matter of that competition. He saw a danger to world peace "because in the world there is another country that is learning from you, that is sending out its hand everywhere and competing against you."

"Economic competition," he went on," is bound to bring with it military competition. And economic competition combined with military expansion is bound to occupy various places throughout the world, having carved up various continental areas, now wanting to carve up the oceans."

Judge Catches Defendant Who Escaped Court

Titusville, Fla. (AP) — Joe A. Cowart Jr., a court of record judge, had just sentenced 18-year old Patrick Bertrand to two years on a breaking and entering charge Tuesday when the defendant yelled an obscenity at him and bolted from the courtroom with bailiff Harold Yeager in pursuit.

Cowart. black robes trailing behind him. leaped off the bench and ran through his private courtroom entrance just in time to catch Bertrand as he ran down a hall.

Yeager slapped a pair of handcuffs on the prisoner.

Strike Motion Approved By United Steelworkers

Pittsburgh (AP) — Rank-and-file United Steelworkers have overwhelmingly given their union the authority to strike the country's nine major steel firms if no agreement is reached on a new industry contract by this Saturday at midnight.

The vote, taken nationwide July 16-26, was 93% in favor of a strike, a union source said here Wednesday.

The source said he did not know how many steel workers voted out of the 350,000 employed in the nine major companies.

The result of the balloting was to be released later in Washington, where the Big 9 and the union have been negotiating since July 7.

Earlier in the week, the union notified its 600-man basic steel industry committee to be on the alert for weekend meetings to vote on any offer the companies might make.

It had been rumored that the Big 9, bargaining as a bloc for the entire basic steel industry, would present its first firm set of wage proposals earlier this week.

Thus far, there had been no confirmation that the proposal was submitted.

USW President I. W. Abel said before the talks that his half-million steel industry workers would accept no less than the wage package won by the union in the can and aluminum industries, reportedly a 31% increase over three years.

The companies, claiming declining profits and eroding markets, have said they can't afford such a package and the White House said it would consider such a settlement inflationary.

If there is no settlement before the contract deadline, the resulting strike would be the first in the industry since 1959, when the steelworkers walked off their jobs for 119 days.

Abel has already told the union there would be no extension past the Saturday midnight deadline, when the current contract between the industry and union expires.

Lockheed Loan Debate Shut-Off Move Rejected

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The Senate Wednesday refused for the second time to shut off debate on emergency loan legislation designed to rescue the ailing Lockheed Aircraft Corporation.

The vote was 59 to 39. A two-third majority is needed for closure. Opponents of the legislation want to keep the debate going.

Earlier Wednesday, Lockheed had survived another Senate hurdle in its race against bankruptcy.

The Senate voted 35 to 60 against an amendment that would have removed the company from favored status in a bill providing up to $2 billion in government-backed loans for failing companies.

The vote was read by some as an indication that the administration-backed corporate rescue bill, designed specifically to save Lockheed, has enough support to clear the Senate if debate can be curbed.

But Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., a backer of the legislation, was more cautious.

"Some senators who are against the bill voted against this amendment because they don't see any reason to bring the whole (Lockheed loan) question back to Congress another time," Cranston said.

Senate Extends Sugar Quota Act For Three Years

Washington (AP) — The Senate passed Wednesday, 76 to 22, a bill to extend the sugar quota act for another three years starting Jan. 1.

Before passage, the Senate defeated 55 to 42, a proposal pushed by Senate liberals to cut off South Africa's $8.6-million quota.

The bill established quotas for 32 foreign sugar suppliers. It now goes to a Senate-House conference committee where differences will be worked out.

The pro-South Africa forces, led by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., improved on their 47 to 45 victory Monday over Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's amendment to write South Africa out of the U.S. sugar import program.

Judge Catches Defendant Who Escaped Court

Titusville, Fla. (AP) — Joe A. Cowart Jr., a court of record judge, had just sentenced 18-year old Patrick Bertrand to two years on a breaking and entering charge Tuesday when the defendant yelled an obscenity at him and bolted from the courtroom with bailiff Harold Yeager in pursuit.

Cowart, black robes trailing behind him, leaped off the bench and ran through his private courtroom entrance just in time to catch Bertrand as he ran down a hall.

Yeager slapped a pair of handcuffs on the prisoner.

Strike Motion Approved By United Steelworkers

Pittsburgh (AP) — Rank-and-file United Steelworkers have overwhelmingly given their union the authority to strike the country's nine major steel firms if no agreement is reached on a new industry contract by this Saturday at midnight.

The vote, taken nationwide July 16-26, was 93% in favor of a strike, a union source said here Wednesday.

The source said he did not know how many steel workers voted out of the 350,000 employed in the nine major companies.

The result of the balloting was to be released later in Washington, where the Big 9 and the union have been negotiating since July 7.

Earlier in the week, the union notified its 600-man basic steel industry committee to be on the alert for weekend meetings to vote on any offer the companies might make.

It had been rumored that the Big 9, bargaining as a bloc for the entire basic steel industry, would present its first firm set of wage proposals earlier this week.

Thus far, there had been no confirmation that the proposal was submitted.

USW President I. W. Abel said before the talks that his half-million steel industry workers would accept no less than the wage package won by the union in the can and aluminum industries, reportedly a 31% increase over three years.

The companies, claiming declining profits and eroding markets, have said they can't afford such a package and the White House said it would consider such a settlement inflationary.

If there is no settlement before the contract deadline, the resulting strike would be the first in the industry since 1959, when the steelworkers walked off their jobs for 119 days.

Abel has already told the union there would be no extension past the Saturday midnight deadline, when the current contract between the industry and union expires.

Lockheed Loan Debate Shut-Off Move Rejected

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The Senate Wednesday refused for the second time to shut off debate on emergency loan legislation designed to rescue the ailing Lockheed Aircraft Corporation.

The vote was 59 to 39. A two-third majority is needed for closure. Opponents of the legislation want to keep the debate going.

Earlier Wednesday, Lockheed had survived another Senate hurdle in its race against bankruptcy.

The Senate voted 35 to 60 against an amendment that would have removed the company from favored status in a bill providing up to $2 billion in government-backed loans for failing companies.

The vote was read by some as an indication that the administration-backed corporate rescue bill, designed specifically to save Lockheed, has enough support to clear the Senate if debate can be curbed.

But Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., a backer of the legislation, was more cautious.

"Some senators who are against the bill voted against this amendment because they don't see any reason to bring the whole (Lockheed loan) question back to Congress another time," Cranston said.

Senate Extends Sugar Quota Act For Three Years

Washington (AP) — The Senate passed Wednesday, 76 to 22, a bill to extend the sugar quota act for another three years starting Jan. 1.

Before passage, the Senate defeated 55 to 42, a proposal pushed by Senate liberals to cut off South Africa's $8.6-million quota.

The bill established quotas for 32 foreign sugar suppliers. It now goes to a Senate-House conference committee where differences will be worked out.

The pro-South Africa forces, led by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., improved on their 47 to 45 victory Monday over Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's amendment to write South Africa out of the U.S. sugar import program.

Hruska, Curtis Favor Cloture

Washington (AP) — Here is the way mid-America members voted Wednesday in the 59-39 roll call vote by which the Senate defeated a cloture motion to shut off debate on a bill providing loan guarantees for the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and other major companies.

Republicans for cloture: Bellmon, Okla.; Curtis, Neb.; Dole, Kan.; Hruska, Neb.; Miller, Iowa; Pearson, Kan.

Democrats against cloture: Eagleton, Mo.; Harris, Okla.; Hughes, Iowa; Symington, Mo.

Intermittent rains continued in the western provinces.

I-80 Museum Aimed At Traveling Public

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Grand Island — Every summer day, two or three hundred travelers are drawn by curiosity into a trailer parked at the west end of the Phillips rest stop on west-bound Interstate-80 ten miles southeast of here, and end up taking a short course in Nebraska history.

The trailer, emblazoned with a Nebraska map and labeled "Nebraska State Historical Society," is one of the society's three admission-free "mobile museums," intended to stimulate tourist interest in Nebraska's past. Another, located at Chimney Rock, started out as an information station and was developed into a full-fledged mobile museum. The third followed construction on I-80 to the west, and has settled permanently near Ogallala.

Colorful window displays, centered around the theme "The Great Platte River Road," spotlight such historical topics as the pony express and telegraph, the trans-continental railway, westward trails, sodhouse life, Indian tribes and frontier forts.

The emphasis is on the developments in transportation, communications and commerce which made possible the settling of the state.

One window points out places of historical interest on a Nebraska map; another locates the state's historical museums: the Historical Society Museum in Lincoln, Ft. Robinson St. Park Museum near Crawford, Grand Island's Stuhr Museum, Pioneer Village in Minden, the Hastings House of Yesterday, and Senator George Norris' home in McCook.

Branch Museums

"The trailers are really branch museums aimed at the traveling public," according to Wendell Franz, director of the society's Lincoln museum. "The idea is to give the traveler a chance to see how much history we do have. We want to leave him with the idea that if he got off the Interstate and looked around, he'd find a lot of interesting things."

The Grand Island trailer is quite effective at snagging travelers, says Doug Waldbaum, a June graduate of Grand Island High who tends the trailer as a full-time summer job. "Not all the people who stop at the rest stop come in," he says. "Often they get pulled in by their kids, or they need help with their car."

But the guest book Waldbaum keeps shows that 205 travelers look over the exhibits on an average day, weekend days being the busiest. The biggest day for attendance so far was Sunday, July 18, when more than 480 people entered the mobile museum.

"Most of them are from out of state,' he says. "Very few are from Nebraska."

The trailer, Waldbaum says, requires little maintenance, and the job gets a little dull when attendance is slow. But when visitors arrive he signs them in, answers their questions, and enjoys just shooting the breeze. Travelers, he says, come from all 50 states and "just about every walk of life."

Children are especially curious about the displays. One tot saw a pair of ox hobbles, a rare item featured in one of the window displays, and said, "Look Mommy, a pair of handcuffs!"

"I also get a lot of comments on how excellent our rest stations are," he says.

Waldbaum plans to attend Hastings College as a sociology major this fall, when his job expires until next summer. He splits the museum's 80 open hours a week with a classmate from GIHS, Randy Britton, who will attend the University of Nebraska in the fall on a Regents' Scholarship.

The museums are used for special events when they are not stationed at rest stops for the summer traffic, Franz says. One is used at the State Fair, and the Grand Island trailer made an appearance at the Red Cloud Centennial before dropping anchor near the Phillips interchange June 21. But the society is unable to use them for special events on a regular basis, Franz says, due to a lack of funds.

The society has no definite plans to expand the fleet of mobile museums, Franz says, "But we'd like to make them available more of the year as educational units for outstate schools."

Omaha Director Of YWCA, 10 Staff Members Dismissed

Omaha (AP) — Directors of the Young Women's Christian Association voted to give dismissal notices to the association's executive director and 10 staff members on grounds of inadequate performance.

Executive Director Helen Warga countered Wednesday that she believes the program "we were doing with the staff we had has been good."

Miss Warga, a 30-year YWCA veteran, has been director here since 1966.

Elizabeth Hill, board president, said the board "voted to do a complete reorganization — and that included everybody." She said she would hope some members might be hired back

When asked to elaborate on reasons for the dismissals, Miss Hill referred a reporter to a copy of remarks made at a joining YWCA-United Community services meeting May 27.

At that meeting James O. Bosworth, UCS president, was quoted as saying "United Community Services expects the YWCA to find new directions of programming, to evaluate..your organizational operation, and to begin to make necessary changes no later than June 30.

Otherwise, he said, the UCS would withdraw financial support.

At that same meeting Mrs. Barbara Coffey, chairman of the UCS group work panel, cited some areas where she felt YWCA services were lacking She cited vocational training programs, runaway programs for girls, drug abuse programs, services for hard-to-reach young women, teen programs, day camp programs for younger girls and co-ordination of programs with other agencies.

4 Arraigned As Result Of Raid At Ragan

Alma (AP) — Four persons have been arraigned on charges of manufacturing a controlled substance (marijuana) and a fifth has been charged in the wake of a raid on a residence in Ragan early Tuesday. Latest to be charged is LaMont M. Clay of Holdrege, who was scheduled for arraignment later.

Mike Kennedy, who provided no further address or identification, also has been arrested and arraigned on the charge, Harlan County Attorney Robert McKelvie reported.

Tuesday Marlin Kammann, Robert Bowles and Dennis Joslyn, all former Holdrege citizens were arrested, and subsequently arraigned.

The raid resulted from an investigation begun a month ago when a young woman was arrested and jailed on charges of possession of marijuana with intent to sell it. Phelps and Harlan County officials and the State Patrol are cooperating in the investigation.

Corn Blight Severity Up In 4 Counties

Southern corn leaf blight is increasing in severity in four southeastern Nebraska counties although the disease is "holding in the rest of the state, University of Nebraska plant pathologists said Wednesday.

Dr. David Wyson, NU Extension plant pathologist, said surveys conducted through last Monday showed more lesions occurring on the lower leaves of T-cytoplasm corn plants in Otoe, Richardson, Nemaha and Pawnee counties than a week ago.

"Further spread and development on upper leaves has also increased dramatically the past four days," he said.

Wyson said the blight has now been found in Washington County, bringing to 44 the number of the state's 93 counties in which the blight has turned up.

Winnebago Tribal Meet Set Saturday

Winnebago (UPI) — A general tribal meeting of Winnebago Indians will be held Saturday to determine whether Indian workers should form a union local and to explore means of getting emergency funds for the unemployed.

The meeting was announced by Reuben Snake, education director for the Nebraska Inter-Tribal Development Council.

Snake said he and other activists were seeking to stimulate the tribal council to act on economic and labor problems.

Snake said that his group, which held a demonstration at a worksite Monday, had nothing to do with the fire bombing of the Winnebago school Monday night or with any other acts of violence.

"We do not condone violence, and we will work diligently to prevent it," Snake said.

The demonstration Monday was in protest to alleged wage discrimination against Indian workers by the Sulzbach Construction Co., Sioux City, Iowa, which is building an addition to the St. Augustine Mission here. Indians said they were being paid $1.65 per hour for the same work for which non-Indians were being paid $3.15

Snake said two Omaha representatives of the construction and general laborers' union met with Indian workers Wednesday and said they would work with the tribe in forming a union local. Sentiment on the union issue will be sounded out at the Saturday meeting, he said.

The issue of unionization, he said, was especially important because of three major construction projects coming up in the community. They are a $1,560,000 school and a $898,000 community center in Winnebago and an 89-house construction project.

Snake also said his group planned to ask the Nebraska Employment Service for some of the funds it received through the Emergency Employment Act signed by President Nixon July 12. He said the request for an emergency program also would be discussed at Saturday's meeting, which is to start at 1 p.m. at the Tribal Hall here.

No Criminal Intent Is Found In Phelps Fund Discrepancy

Holdrege (AP) — Harold McGrew, representative of the Nebraska Welfare Department and the U.S. Department of Agriculture Food Stamp program, has told the Phelps County Board, he feels there was no criminal intent in connection with a discrepancy in county welfare funds.

The board subsequently adopted a resolution, stating that no criminal wrongdoing had been found but requiring that Connie Adam, county welfare case worker, should be required to repay the county $1,651.85, which previously had been deposited in escrow The resolution said that the food stamp program, in which the discrepancy occurred, was administered "solely and exclusively by Connie Adam."

McGrew made several recommendations to the board for procedures which he felt would prevent future losses.

McGrew said there were discrepancies in the food stamp funds in other counties ranging from $2 to $700, but none was as great as the discrepancy in Phelps County.

The Holdrege Daily Citizen had reported on July 19 that it appeared about $1,600 in welfare funds was missing and that amount had been placed in escrow to cover the loss.

McGrew said at a public hearing Tuesday, following the board's executive session, that the discrepancies were uncovered in an audit made by the U.S. inspector general's office in May.

$680,000 For Shelter Belt Lab Okayed

. . . By House Groups

Washington (AP) — The office of Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., reported a joint House committee for appropriations on the Interior Department, approved a bill which includes $680,000 in funds for a shelter belt laboratory.

The bill is now going back to the Senate and the House and is expected to be passed.

The laboratory is run jointly through the University of Nebraska East Campus and the U.S. Forestry Service.

It has been housed in university facilities. However, the facilities now have to be used for other endeavors. The funds are to be used for a building in which to house the lab.

Hail Damages Crops At G.I.

Crops were damaged by hail in an area northeast and east of Grand Island Tuesday night, the National Weather Service at Grand Island reported.

Corn was badly stripped in an area southwest of Chapman.

Northeast of Grand Island on the Hall-Merrick County line there were reports of total corn loss from the hailstorm. Damage was also reported to alfalfa and soybean fields in the vicinity.

Meanwhile, the low temperature of 55 degrees at Omaha Wednesday equals the record low for that date set in 1892.

Kissinger's Peking Trip Well Received In U.N.

. . . Says Ambassador Bush

Omaha (AP) — The secrecy of the Henry Kissinger visit to Peking tended to offset some of the adverse effect of the publication of the Pentagon papers upon the international community, George Bush, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said Wednesday.

Bush said there was a surprise element in the Kissinger visit and it "has been very well received" at the U.N.

In a news conference held during a visit to Strategic Air Command Headquarters, Bush said the international community was "rather shaken" by the publication of the Pentagon papers — "not so much by the contents of the papers, but by the fact that confidential memorandums were obtained by newspapers."

"There are certain things in the national policy that must be protected, must be done quietly, must be done so that you can keep confidence with other nations," he said.

Diplomats "have every right to know that their confidences will be kept; they have every right to know that I, in my infinite wisdom, am not going to take that paper and give it to some reporters," he said.

'Shook Up Some'

He said the Pentagon papers "shook up some of those relationships and I think this other (Kissinger) visit and our ability to keep a confidence restored some of that."

Special bond elections in Wilcox and Tekamah have both won approval of voters.

At Wilcox a $100,000 bond proposal for an addition to the Wilcox school carried by a 58.3% majority. The tally was 157 for, 112 against. A 55% majority was needed for passage.

Tekamah citizens overwhelmingly okayed a $50,000 proposal for a new swimming pool. The total vote was 384 for and only 59 against. The proposal needed 60% majority for approval.

Winnebago Tribal Meet Set Saturday

Winnebago (UPI) — A general tribal meeting of Winnebago Indians will be held Saturday to determine whether Indian workers should form a union local and to explore means of getting emergency funds for the unemployed.

The meeting was announced by Reuben Snake, education director for the Nebraska Inter-Tribal Development Council.

Snake said he and other activists were seeking to stimulate the tribal council to act on economic and labor problems.

Snake said that his group, which held a demonstration at a worksite Monday, had nothing to do with the fire bombing of the Winnebago school Monday night or with any other acts of violence.

"We do not condone violence, and we will work diligently to prevent it," Snake said.

The demonstration Monday was in protest to alleged wage discrimination against Indian workers by the Sulzbach Construction Co., Sioux City, Iowa, which is building an addition to the St. Augustine Mission here. Indians said they were being paid $1.65 per hour for the same work for which non-Indians were being paid $3.15

Snake said two Omaha representatives of the construction and general laborers' union met with Indian workers Wednesday and said they would work with the tribe in forming a union local. Sentiment on the union issue will be sounded out at the Saturday meeting, he said.

The issue of unionization, he said, was especially important because of three major construction projects coming up in the community. They are a $1,560,000 school and a $898,000 community center in Winnebago and an 89-house construction project.

Snake also said his group planned to ask the Nebraska Employment Service for some of the funds it received through the Emergency Employment Act signed by President Nixon July 12. He said the request for an emergency program also would be discussed at Saturday's meeting, which is to start at 1 p.m. at the Tribal Hall here.

Omaha Director Of YWCA, 10 Staff Members Dismissed

Omaha (AP) — Directors of the Young Women's Christian Association voted to give dismissal notices to the association's executive director and 10 staff members on grounds of inadequate performance.

Executive Director Helen Warga countered Wednesday that she believes the program "we were doing with the staff we had has been good."

Miss Warga, a 30-year YWCA veteran, has been director here since 1966.

Elizabeth Hill, board president, said the board "voted to do a complete reorganization — and that included everybody." She said she would hope some members might be hired back.

When asked to elaborate on reasons for the dismissals, Miss Hill referred a reporter to a copy of remarks made at a joining YWCA-United Community services meeting May 27.

At that meeting James O. Bosworth, UCS president, was quoted as saying "United Community Services expects the YWCA to find new directions of programming, to evaluate your organizational operation, and to begin to make necessary changes no later than June 30.

Otherwise, he said, the UCS would withdraw financial support.

At that same meeting Mrs. Barbara Coffey, chairman of the UCS group work panel, cited some areas where she felt YWCA services were lacking She cited vocational training programs, runaway programs for girls, drug abuse programs, services for hard-to-reach young women, teen programs, day camp programs for younger girls and co-ordination of programs with other agencies.

Corn Blight Severity Up In 4 Counties

Southern corn leaf blight is increasing in severity in four southeastern Nebraska counties although the disease is "holding in the rest of the state, University of Nebraska plant pathologists said Wednesday.

Dr. David Wyson, NU Extension plant pathologist, said surveys conducted through last Monday showed more lesions occurring on the lower leaves of T-cytoplasm corn plants in Otoe, Richardson, Nemaha and Pawnee counties than a week ago.

"Further spread and development on upper leaves has also increased dramatically the past four days," he said.

Wyson said the blight has now been found in Washington County, bringing to 44 the number of the state's 93 counties in which the blight has turned up.

Hail Damages Crops At G.I.

Crops were damaged by hail in an area northeast and east of Grand Island Tuesday night, the National Weather Service at Grand Island reported.

Corn was badly stripped in an area southwest of Chapman.

Northeast of Grand Island on the Hall-Merrick County line there were reports of total corn loss from the hailstorm. Damage was also reported to alfalfa and soybean fields in the vicinity.

Meanwhile, the low temperature of 55 degrees at Omaha Wednesday equals the record low for that date set in 1892.

No Criminal Intent Is Found In Phelps Fund Discrepancy

Holdrege (AP) — Harold McGrew, representative of the Nebraska Welfare Department and the U.S. Department of Agriculture Food Stamp program, has told the Phelps County Board, he feels there was no criminal intent in connection with a discrepancy in county welfare funds.

The board subsequently adopted a resolution, stating that no criminal wrongdoing had been found but requiring that Connie Adam, county welfare case worker, should be required to repay the county $1,651.85, which previously had been deposited in escrow. The resolution said that the food stamp program, in which the discrepancy occurred, was administered "solely and exclusively by Connie Adam."

McGrew made several recommendations to the board for procedures which he felt would prevent future losses.

McGrew said there were discrepancies in the food stamp funds in other counties ranging from $2 to $700, but none was as great as the discrepancy in Phelps County.

The Holdrege Daily Citizen had reported on July 19 that it appeared about $1,600 in welfare funds was missing and that amount had been placed in escrow to cover the loss.

McGrew said at a public hearing Tuesday, following the board's executive session, that the discrepancies were uncovered in an audit made by the U.S. inspector general's office in May.

$680,000 For Shelter Belt Lab Okayed

. . . By House Groups

Washington (AP) — The office of Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., reported a joint House committee for appropriations on the Interior Department, approved a bill which includes $680,000 in funds for a shelter belt laboratory.

The bill is now going back to the Senate and the House and is expected to be passed.

The laboratory is run jointly through the University of Nebraska East Campus and the U.S. Forestry Service.

It has been housed in university facilities. However, the facilities now have to be used for other endeavors. The funds are to be used for a building in which to house the lab.

4 Arraigned As Result Of Raid At Ragan

Alma (AP) — Four persons have been arraigned on charges of manufacturing a controlled substance (marijuana) and a fifth has been charged in the wake of a raid on a residence in Ragan early Tuesday. Latest to be charged is LaMont M. Clay of Holdrege, who was scheduled for arraignment later.

Mike Kennedy, who provided no further address or identification, also has been arrested and arraigned on the charge, Harlan County Attorney Robert McKelvie reported.

Tuesday Marlin Kammann, Robert Bowles and Dennis Joslyn, all former Holdrege citizens were arrested, and subsequently arraigned.

The raid resulted from an investigation begun a month ago when a young woman was arrested and jailed on charges of possession of marijuana with intent to sell it. Phelps and Harlan County officials and the State Patrol are cooperating in the investigation.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By ANTHONY LEWIS

(Note: William O. Dobler, The Star's editor, is on vacation. Today's column is by Anthony Lewis, correspondent for the New York Times.

LONDON—The American Bar Association has come and gone from London in all its thousands. The assemblies and the dinners and the garden parties served their purpose of celebrating the common orgin of English and American law.

Perhaps inevitably in this setting, what did not come through so strongly was the distinctive quality of the American legal profession. At least the British public, from what it read about the meeting in its newspapers, could not have sensed the extraordinary role that lawyers play in the life of the United States.

That is the role of reform and conscience. As a whole, law is a conservative profession in the United States as elsewhere. But with us, it has always had a reforming, even a crusading streak. That is a necessary consequence of the American political system.

We live under a written constitution, an 18th Century document that in a few thousand words tried to lay down permanent rules for the government of a continental country. Without constant reinterpretation, that Constitution would long since have proved an unbearable straitjacket. The process of amendment is too awkward to provide the necessary flexibility. And so we have relied on our judges to make the old words meaningful in a rapidly changing society.

As we all know, the result has been to legalize our politics. Tocqueville put it a century ago that every political question in the United States is eventually made a legal question. Another way of putting it is to say that, in the United States more than anywhere else, law is an instrument of social change. What politicians and union leaders and social reformers do to achieve change without revolution in other societies, lawyers often do in ours. It would be unimaginable in Britain for lawsuits to alter the entire basis of race relations or of legislative representation—as they have recently done in the United States.

Not many American lawyers get to argue great constitutional causes in the Supreme Court. But the profession feels the consequences in any case—the consequences of a system in which political and social and even economic questions are framed in legal terms.

American legal education, for example, is much more challenging than English, probing deeper into the intellectual basis of the legal process and into the social significance of the results. American law schools are an infinitely greater source of public ideas and public servants. And all this must relate to the broader responsibilities of the American profession.

Our constitutional scheme also puts in lawyers responsibilities for protecting individual freedom that would rest with others elsewhere—with parliamentarians in Britain. It is no accident that English anthologists, when they look for great judicial defenses of freedom, are more likely to quote Holmes and Brandeis than their own judges.

It was as a New York lawyer that Charles Evans Hughes in 1921 protested the exclusion of five socialist members from the State Assembly, thus helping to change the Red-baiting climate of the country.

There is certainly no shortage of reforming and crusading lawyers in the United States today. The whole poverty law movement, with its challenge to fundamental social assumptions, has no parallel whatever in Britain. Nor do the public interest law firms inspired by Ralph Nader. It is hard to imagine, here, the equivalent of the anti-Vietnam-war activity carried on by a lawyer as distinguished as Francis T. P. Plimpton of the New York Bar.

Members of the American Bar have been impressed, and rightly, by the swiftness of British justice, the articulateness of bench and bar, the pervasive dignity and professionalism. Those are virtues, and to a regrettable degree we lack them. But seen in the large, they are not more important than the social responsibility that, at its best, characterizes the American legal profession.

Cutback in Services Faced

With the monetary surplus from the Tiemann years pretty much used up by the last Legislature to help hold tax rates at an even keel and "other sources of revenue" rather nebulous entities, at least at the present time, it appears that Nebraskans will face a cutback in state government services in fiscal 1973.

Because a majority of Nebraska lawmakers meeting next session, in an election year, can be expected to stave off an increase for 1973 in the sales and income tax rates that will be established later this year. Trying to "stem the tide of the future," as Sen Roland Luedtke said.

Gov Jim Exon has said he will conform his budget recommendations to the next session to 1972 calendar year tax rates and Appropriations Committee Chairman Sen. Richard Marvel says he, too, is in hopes of holding the sales and income tax rates at those levels. To hold the tax rates, Marvel said, will mean either bringing in "other sources of revenue," or cutting back on state services.

Of course, the 1972 Legislature can always renege on last session's passing and earmarking of an increase in the cigaret tax for a University of Nebraska fieldhouse and state office building by abolishing the earmarking and lumping the additional incoming revenue in the general fund. That would give the senators a little cushion to play with, keeping the taxpayers happy by protecting the sales and income rates somewhat.

But such devices won't work forever. Eyes will have to open sometime because after so much neglect, sores begin to fester. As an example, Sen. Terry Carpenter had his eyes opened upon visiting a model penal institution in Fox Lake, Wis., this week He called it an "amazing experience," referring to what he said was a "new approach to the rehabilitation of young men and men of medium age in the field of education, including the vocational trades.

"I think the state (Nebraska) ought to do something about this, even to the extent of submitting a multimillion dollar bond issue to the people in the next primary election, after a program of education to indicate to them this is a very cheap price to pay for the results that have been accomplished in other states," Carpenter said.

Well, the state being legally restrained from issuing bonds for anything but roadbuilding, lawmakers will have to tackle the problem of penal reform head-on, if they want to. But there are senators who see that needs must be met now, not later. It is hoped that their attitudes can dispel the cloud of retrenchment that now exists.

Hughes Decides To Wait

Sen. Harold Hughes, the Iowa Democrat, did not succumb to the sometimes-fatal malady spread by the presidential bug. Choosing not to go for broke in a losing cause in 1972, he can start from a relatively fresh position in another campaign year.

Hughes says his decision not to seek the Democratic nomination for president is irrevocable, although a deadlocked convention could conceivably confront him with a mandate from which he would not back down.

But Hughes has to be admired for his candor at this stage. Imagine a would-be candidate saying he doesn't think the American people are quite ready for a man holding some beliefs which border on the mystical. Or imagine a serious dark horse proclaiming that he would accept second place on the ticket. Most men gunning for the presidency would acknowledge neither; Hughes did on both counts.

Should the Iowan find himself on the ticket in 1972, either by being drafted for the presidential nomination or as running mate to the standard-bearer, which is much more likely, he will be in a much better position to make a move in 1976 or beyond than he would be by slugging it out on the primary route next spring and summer.

Coupling his candor and political foresight with his abilities as a governor and senator, Hughes has indicated he will maintain a powerful position in Democratic party affairs in the years to come.

Orthopedic Hospital

Lincoln, Neb.

Many of Senator Marvel's remarks in the July 28 issue of The Lincoln Star were of extreme interest to me, both as a taxpayer of the state of Nebraska and as an interested party in the closing of the Nebraska State Orthopedic Hospital.

Mr. Marvel, as chairman of the budget committee, infers or in fact actually insists that he and his committee have done everything possible to maintain the budget and protect the taxpayer.

This past year I have made repeated attempts to explain to the budget committee, as well as the Legislature, that by closing the Orthopedic Hospital, they were not only compromising the over-all care of the crippled children of the state of Nebraska, but that they were also increasing the cost of such care very appreciably, perhaps even doubling it. I personally had the feeling that the budget committee accepted this as a fact. There were many in the Legislature who remarked to me that they actually thought this was true; however, despite this, the vote was to close the Orthopedic Hospital Dec. 1, 1971

Now, I ask, how can I accept the fact that the budget committee is making any serious attempt to maintain the budget?

If any evidence had ever been produced that the children of the state were not receiving care at the Orthopedic Hospital, I would accept the closing of the hospital without question. This I cannot do, as no one even suggested such were the case.

Mr. Marvel comments: "We're sitting, listening, asking questions." He states that the full committee will visit the institutions again for formal sessions in September. We will welcome them with open arms and I would like to think we could convince them that an error has been made.

Belling The Cat

Lincoln, Neb.

I find amusing a news story in the July 21 Star concerning "economist" John Kenneth Galbraith's opinion that the "Keynesian" economic theories supported by liberals, including Mr. Galbraith, for the past 40 years are now suddenly outdated Not because President Nixon just called himself a "Keynesian," but because Mr. Galbraith and his like ever had the gall to claim to be following Mr Keynes.

Mr. Keynes, as the news story reports, advocated the stabilization of prices and unemployment rates through the manipulation of the money supply. Pumping money into the economy during slumps, budgeting a surplus when excessive spending would ignite inflation.

Despite all the liberal campaign oratory telling of the great booms during their administrations, can anyone tell me of a year when they ran a surplus — or even tried to budget for one?

What Mr. Galbraith ignores is that the very people he says should regulate the economy — i.e. Congress — are in fact controlled by big business and big unions. He proposes, in actuality, a fascist economy similar to that of Germany under Nazi rule.

Who will bell the cat, Mr. Galbraith?

Questions Pictures

Lincoln, Neb.

The front page of the Friday morning Star exhibits a startling pair of "news photographs." Dedicated are the life and death of a man and woman on a hotel balcony in Italy complete with the expression on their faces as they are "pleading for help" from the approaching flames.

It would be trite to question the so-called "ethics" of the person who decided to grab a camera instead of a rope or a ladder. We don't know if attempts were being made to rescue them as the pictures were being taken.

Let's instead question the newspaper that prints such pictures as these and, in doing so, encourages people to take pictures instead of action to help those in trouble.

Pictures such as these are of questionable value and smack of pointless sensationalism

Patchwork Prairie Country

A farmer likes to see green when the color shows in the tapered leaves of his cornfields or in the shimmering tops of milo plants. He likes the green of alfalfa fields and pasture lands. But when the green is in the form of green bugs, then the color is taboo.

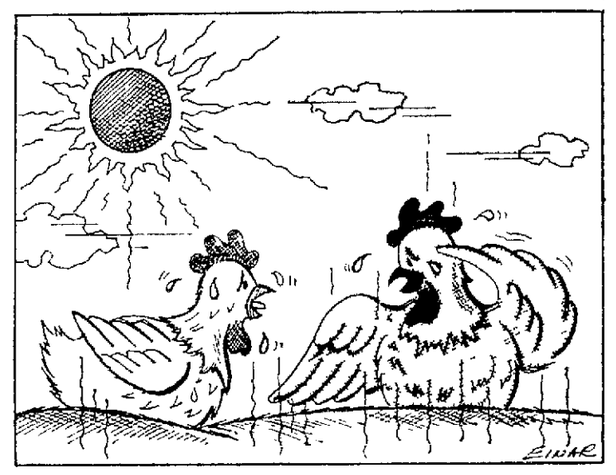

Every day The Farmer walks out through his fields to check on the pests. So far he has not done any spraying and hopes to avoid doing so. He never has sprayed for them although we have had them in other years. However, the ten acres of sudex he planted for later pasture has been consumed until the field stands without a spear now. It was about six inches tall until those green pests moved in with such appetites. Fortunately he has other pasture of earlier planted sudex that the cattle can eat It seems the bugs like young, tender vegetation.

While The Farmer keeps an eye on the milo for green bugs, I tend my muskmelon patch. I have several the size of big apples on the vines. The grasshoppers, however seem to be in favor of muskmelons, too, for I find them hopping among the leaves. I have powdered them twice and soon will have the price of a melon in bug killer since it is a rather large patch.

☆ ☆ ☆

We have almost hulled and puffed our way through the month of July and find we are face to face with August which sometimes is hotter than July. One thing nice about August is the fact that September is not far behind.

It is on such warm days as today that the birds are silent, sitting on some shady branch trying to keep cool. I think of the days when we used to raise chickens and worried when the day was unbearably hot. Fat old hens succumbed or else jumped up on the rim of the tank for a drink and were toppled in by a gust of wind. Chickens are funny creatures. Water can be available nearby yet they will try to get a drink the hard way Maybe they are proud and wish to see a lovely shadow of themselves in the water.

It was on such a hot day that chickens, too, would plump out their wings at the sides and gasp for breath as if they weren't long for this world. They would gather in small groups under the shade of trees and bushes and talk chicken talk all afternoon. When the sun began to sink in the West, they would come out and finish the day

We have had all kinds of old hens but perhaps none revealed themselves more than on a quiet, summer night when the heat of the day still was felt inside the chicken house and the flock was gathered for a night of slumber. One old hen that I always thought of as an asthmatic fowl, gasped and gurgled all night in a most irritating way. Another sounded like a lyric soprano striving to reach a high note but never quite making it. Then there was the old biddy that certainly must have had nightmares for every night it would squawk and carry on something awful. It was perfectly safe but liked to keep silence from being golden.

The hens weren't the only offenders to a good night's sleep One rooster insisted on crowing along about midnight on a hot summer's night. It would fool the flock into thinking morning was near at hand for there was a stirring among the hens and some quiet clucking. After dawn did not seem to approach, the flock settled back down to resume their share of slumber.

Then there was always the rooster that insisted in sleeping in a tree that draped over the chicken coop. Every morning before light had reached the inside of the house, the rooster would flap and crow and fly down upon the roof with a great thump. He was the show-off . . . the elite of the chicken world that was too good to sleep with the common flock.

However, his uppity ideas were rather short-lived for one night some animal snatched him from the branches and left only a smattering of feathers to show where he had once been so high and mighty.

RALPH C. DEANS

Canadian Presence Felt Sharply In United States

WASHINGTON — Nationalism has waxed and waned in Canada for so long that it seems to be a natural cycle — part of the Canadian psyche. Even though Canada has reduced its NATO force, established diplomatic ties with China and warmed up to Russia, Canadian publisher Jack McClelland was quoted recently as saying: "Canada is a puppet, a satellite of the U.S."

McClelland is the co-chairman of a group called the Committee for the Independent Canada. It warns Canadians that their country will not long belong to them if "foreign owners" keep buying it up. The basis of the committee's concern — and it is widespread in Canada — is that Americans have invested $34 billion in Canada and now control key sectors of the economy like mining, oil and automobiles.

This is true except that "control" is a wrong word. Canadian law prohibits the extra-territorial application of American commercial policy. American subsidiaries are required to be "good corporate citizens." Nevertheless, the American takeover, according to one Canadian writer, is still "the hottest item on the political market in English Canada." The writer, Rick Salutin, continues: "Canada is the foremost, biggest, and fattest colony in the current American empire. The occupation is gentler, and the kickback more generous, but no banana republic is so totally dominated."

The irony in Canada's blooming economic nationalism is that Canadians are very big investors in the United States. According to the Canadian Embassy in Washington, a total of $11.7 billion in Canadian funds is invested in the United States. That means that Canada's per-capita investment in the U.S. is $561, while America's in Canada is only $163.

Canadian banks are expanding in the United States, even though American bankers are not permitted to open branches in Canada. Ottawa doesn't like Americans in life insurance, either, but a score of Canadian firms, including Crown Life, National Life, and Sun Life, all operate in the United States.

☆ ☆ ☆

Canadian nationalists portray themselves as "hewers of wood and drawers of water" for the United States. On the contrary, Canadians are shrewd investors, talented actors and performers, and acclaimed academics. It's the Americans living south of the U.S. — Canadian boundary who had better watch out.

Feeling Of Activity And Optimism In China; Dedication Toward Bet terment In The Future

PEKING—The extraordinary thing about this oldest civilization in the world is that it seems so young. You do not have the feeling here—so depressing and oppressive in some other parts of the Orient—of weariness, sickness and death, of old men and women, spent before their time, struggling against hopeless odds.

To an American visitor, China's most visible characteristics are the caracteristics of youth: vigorous physical activity despite some serious health problems, a kind of lean, muscular grace, relentless hard work and an optimistic and even amiable outlook on the future.

In the vast expanses of the Soviet Union, you get the feeling that this is the way the world must have looked when it began, empty and untamed, all land and sky. China is not like that. It is alive with people. In the 1,500-mile train ride from Canton to Peking, my wife and I never once looked out the window and saw a vacant field, and the land is not untamed.

These people do not till the earth, they sculpture it, shape it with their own hands, bend and level it so that they can move the irrigated water from one level to another, not only on the level ground, but up into the lovely terraced hills.

This sense of youthful activity is not only physical but mental. In the 21 years since the communist takeover, the people have not had time to settle into any stable routine, and even when they seemed to be doing so in 1966, the leadership convulsed them into new and dramatic patterns of life with the cultural revolution This has now passed through its violent phase, when the young were encouraged to challenge the leaders of the bureaucracy and even some of the leaders of the Communist party, but it is far from over.

Accordingly, China is still in a highly active state of transformation where all workers, peasants, teachers, students and even technicians and other profesionals are challenged daily to self-criticism and self-improvement in the performance of their tasks.

Thus, there is no time even for older men and women to settle down and relax. One is constantly reminded here of what American life must have been like on the frontier a century ago. The emphasis is on self-reliance and hard work, innovation and the spirit of cooperation in building something better and larger than anything they have known before.

Of course, they have desperate problems in trying to mobilize and feed between 700 and 800 million people—nobody knows how many. They have a problem of snail fever, a killer parasitic disease, prevalent in the Yangtse Valley. They have a shortage of fertilizer and an obvious shortage of machines.

We drove over a hundred kilometers out of Canton to see a pioneer agricultural community at a place called Lo Tung. All the way out and back, we never saw a single passenger car other than our own. We did see some garden tractors in the rice paddies, but mainly the peasants were plowing the muddy fields behind water buffalo and of course planting the new rice seedlings by hand.

On the way back to Canton, we came across a work brigade of what seemed to be over a thousand young men and women who were helping build a section of highway in a gorge. So far as we could tell, they had no equipment other than long-handled picks and shovels which they were using to dig the earth out of a hillside, and baskets which they carried on long poles to transfer the earth to the bed of the new road.

This was, of course, draft labor by city youngsters who were living in makeshift straw huts and cooking their own food, but they were treating it like an escape from the city and an outing in the countryside.

Visitors, of course, go where they are taken. On this particular trip, we had to stop once at a police check point beyond which foreigners are not permitted to go without a permit. Also, this was in the rich agricultural land of the south, which is quite different from many bleak areas in the west, and even here most of the houses we passed were poor by almost any standard except China's own in the past.

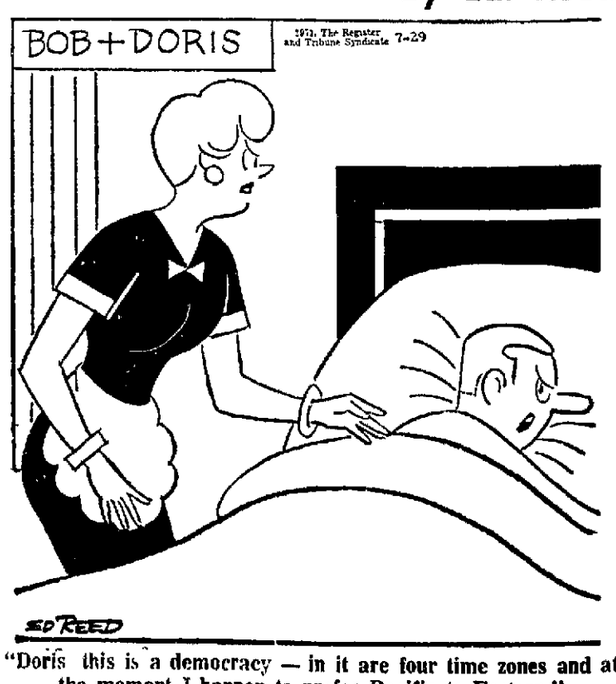

Accordingly, there is no way for a stranger to know whether China is likely to be the first major communist country to solve its agricultural problems, but some things even a stranger can observe.

The people not only seem young, but enthusiastic about their changing lives. There is no sense of intimidation in the relationship between the revolutionary committee leaders and the workers, and while the People's Liberation Army is undoubtedly the key to the future leadership of China, one is not really conscious of its pervasive influence.

Still there is a second paradox: China is not only an ancient country that acts young, but its youthful energy is sternly controlled by a government of old men. This is a question very much on the mind of the leaders here, but that is another story.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By ANTHONY LEWIS

(Note: William O. Dobler, The Star's editor, is on vacation. Today's column is by Anthony Lewis, correspondent for the New York Times.

LONDON—The American Bar Association has come and gone from London in all its thousands. The assemblies and the dinners and the garden parties served their purpose of celebrating the common orgin of English and American law.

Perhaps inevitably in this setting, what did not come through so strongly was the distinctive quality of the American legal profession. At least the British public, from what it read about the meeting in its newspapers, could not have sensed the extraordinary role that lawyers play in the life of the United States.

That is the role of reform and conscience. As a whole, law is a conservative profession in the United States as elsewhere. But with us, it has always had a reforming, even a crusading streak. That is a necessary consequence of the American political system.

We live under a written constitution, an 18th Century document that in a few thousand words tried to lay down permanent rules for the government of a continental country. Without constant reinterpretation, that Constitution would long since have proved an unbearable straitjacket. The process of amendment is too awkward to provide the necessary flexibility. And so we have relied on our judges to make the old words meaningful in a rapidly changing society.

As we all know, the result has been to legalize our politics. Tocqueville put it a century ago that every political question in the United States is eventually made a legal question. Another way of putting it is to say that, in the United States more than anywhere else, law is an instrument of social change. What politicians and union leaders and social reformers do to achieve change without revolution in other societies, lawyers often do in ours. It would be unimaginable in Britain for lawsuits to alter the entire basis of race relations or of legislative representation—as they have recently done in the United States.

Not many American lawyers get to argue great constitutional causes in the Supreme Court. But the profession feels the consequences in any case—the consequences of a system in which political and social and even economic questions are framed in legal terms.

American legal education, for example, is much more challenging than English, probing deeper into the intellectual basis of the legal process and into the social significance of the results. American law schools are an infinitely greater source of public ideas and public servants. And all this must relate to the broader responsibilities of the American profession.

Our constitutional scheme also puts in lawyers responsibilities for protecting individual freedom that would rest with others elsewhere—with parliamentarians in Britain. It is no accident that English anthologists, when they look for great judicial defenses of freedom, are more likely to quote Holmes and Brandeis than their own judges.

It was as a New York lawyer that Charles Evans Hughes in 1921 protested the exclusion of five socialist members from the State Assembly, thus helping to change the Red-baiting climate of the country.

There is certainly no shortage of reforming and crusading lawyers in the United States today. The whole poverty law movement, with its challenge to fundamental social assumptions, has no parallel whatever in Britain. Nor do the public interest law firms inspired by Ralph Nader. It is hard to imagine, here, the equivalent of the anti-Vietnam-war activity carried on by a lawyer as distinguished as Francis T. P. Plimpton of the New York Bar.

Members of the American Bar have been impressed, and rightly, by the swiftness of British justice, the articulateness of bench and bar, the pervasive dignity and professionalism. Those are virtues, and to a regrettable degree we lack them. But seen in the large, they are not more important than the social responsibility that, at its best, characterizes the American legal profession.

RALPH C. DEANS

Canadian Presence Felt Sharply In United States

WASHINGTON — Nationalism has waxed and waned in Canada for so long that it seems to be a natural cycle — part of the Canadian psyche. Even though Canada has reduced its NATO force, established diplomatic ties with China and warmed up to Russia, Canadian publisher Jack McClelland was quoted recently as saying: "Canada is a puppet, a satellite of the U.S."

McClelland is the co-chairman of a group called the Committee for the Independent Canada. It warns Canadians that their country will not long belong to them if "foreign owners" keep buying it up. The basis of the committee's concern — and it is widespread in Canada — is that Americans have invested $34 billion in Canada and now control key sectors of the economy like mining, oil and automobiles.

This is true except that "control" is a wrong word. Canadian law prohibits the extra-territorial application of American commercial policy. American subsidiaries are required to be "good corporate citizens." Nevertheless, the American takeover, according to one Canadian writer, is still "the hottest item on the political market in English Canada." The writer, Rick Salutin, continues: "Canada is the foremost, biggest, and fattest colony in the current American empire. The occupation is gentler, and the kickback more generous, but no banana republic is so totally dominated."

The irony in Canada's blooming economic nationalism is that Canadians are very big investors in the United States. According to the Canadian Embassy in Washington, a total of $11.7 billion in Canadian funds is invested in the United States. That means that Canada's per-capita investment in the U.S. is $561, while America's in Canada is only $163.

Canadian banks are expanding in the United States, even though American bankers are not permitted to open branches in Canada. Ottawa doesn't like Americans in life insurance, either, but a score of Canadian firms, including Crown Life, National Life, and Sun Life, all operate in the United States.

☆ ☆ ☆

Canadian nationalists portray themselves as "hewers of wood and drawers of water" for the United States. On the contrary, Canadians are shrewd investors, talented actors and performers, and acclaimed academics. It's the Americans living south of the U.S. — Canadian boundary who had better watch out.

Cutback in Services Faced

With the monetary surplus from the Tiemann years pretty much used up by the last Legislature to help hold tax rates at an even keel and "other sources of revenue" rather nebulous entities, at least at the present time, it appears that Nebraskans will face a cutback in state government services in fiscal 1973.

Because a majority of Nebraska lawmakers meeting next session, in an election year, can be expected to stave off an increase for 1973 in the sales and income tax rates that will be established later this year. Trying to "stem the tide of the future," as Sen. Roland Luedtke said.

Gov. Jim Exon has said he will conform his budget recommendations to the next session to 1972 calendar year tax rates and Appropriations Committee Chairman Sen. Richard Marvel says he, too, is in hopes of holding the sales and income tax rates at those levels. To hold the tax rates, Marvel said, will mean either bringing in "other sources of revenue," or cutting back on state services.

Of course, the 1972 Legislature can always renege on last session's passing and earmarking of an increase in the cigaret tax for a University of Nebraska fieldhouse and state office building by abolishing the earmarking and lumping the additional incoming revenue in the general fund. That would give the senators a little cushion to play with, keeping the taxpayers happy by protecting the sales and income rates somewhat.

But such devices won't work forever. Eyes will have to open sometime because after so much neglect, sores begin to fester. As an example, Sen. Terry Carpenter had his eyes opened upon visiting a model penal institution in Fox Lake, Wis., this week. He called it an "amazing experience," referring to what he said was a "new approach to the rehabilitation of young men and men of medium age in the field of education, including the vocational trades.

"I think the state (Nebraska) ought to do something about this, even to the extent of submitting a multimillion dollar bond issue to the people in the next primary election, after a program of education to indicate to them this is a very cheap price to pay for the results that have been accomplished in other states," Carpenter said.

Well, the state being legally restrained from issuing bonds for anything but roadbuilding, lawmakers will have to tackle the problem of penal reform head-on, if they want to. But there are senators who see that needs must be met now, not later. It is hoped that their attitudes can dispel the cloud of retrenchment that now exists.

Hughes Decides To Wait

Sen. Harold Hughes, the Iowa Democrat, did not succumb to the sometimes-fatal malady spread by the presidential bug. Choosing not to go for broke in a losing cause in 1972, he can start from a relatively fresh position in another campaign year.

Hughes says his decision not to seek the Democratic nomination for president is irrevocable, although a deadlocked convention could conceivably confront him with a mandate from which he would not back down.

But Hughes has to be admired for his candor at this stage. Imagine a would-be candidate saying he doesn't think the American people are quite ready for a man holding some beliefs which border on the mystical. Or imagine a serious dark horse proclaiming that he would accept second place on the ticket. Most men gunning for the presidency would acknowledge neither; Hughes did on both counts.

Should the Iowan find himself on the ticket in 1972, either by being drafted for the presidential nomination or as running mate to the standard-bearer, which is much more likely, he will be in a much better position to make a move in 1976 or beyond than he would be by slugging it out on the primary route next spring and summer.

Coupling his candor and political foresight with his abilities as a governor and senator, Hughes has indicated he will maintain a powerful position in Democratic party affairs in the years to come.

Feeling Of Activity And Optimism In China; Dedication Toward Bet terment In The Future

PEKING—The extraordinary thing about this oldest civilization in the world is that it seems so young. You do not have the feeling here—so depressing and oppressive in some other parts of the Orient—of weariness, sickness and death, of old men and women, spent before their time, struggling against hopeless odds.

To an American visitor, China's most visible characteristics are the caracteristics of youth: vigorous physical activity despite some serious health problems, a kind of lean, muscular grace, relentless hard work and an optimistic and even amiable outlook on the future.

In the vast expanses of the Soviet Union, you get the feeling that this is the way the world must have looked when it began, empty and untamed, all land and sky. China is not like that. It is alive with people. In the 1,500-mile train ride from Canton to Peking, my wife and I never once looked out the window and saw a vacant field, and the land is not untamed.

These people do not till the earth, they sculpture it, shape it with their own hands, bend and level it so that they can move the irrigated water from one level to another, not only on the level ground, but up into the lovely terraced hills.

This sense of youthful activity is not only physical but mental. In the 21 years since the communist takeover, the people have not had time to settle into any stable routine, and even when they seemed to be doing so in 1966, the leadership convulsed them into new and dramatic patterns of life with the cultural revolution. This has now passed through its violent phase, when the young were encouraged to challenge the leaders of the bureaucracy and even some of the leaders of the Communist party, but it is far from over.

Accordingly, China is still in a highly active state of transformation where all workers, peasants, teachers, students and even technicians and other profesionals are challenged daily to self-criticism and self-improvement in the performance of their tasks.

Thus, there is no time even for older men and women to settle down and relax. One is constantly reminded here of what American life must have been like on the frontier a century ago. The emphasis is on self-reliance and hard work, innovation and the spirit of cooperation in building something better and larger than anything they have known before.

Of course, they have desperate problems in trying to mobilize and feed between 700 and 800 million people—nobody knows how many. They have a problem of snail fever, a killer parasitic disease, prevalent in the Yangtse Valley. They have a shortage of fertilizer and an obvious shortage of machines.

Orthopedic Hospital

Lincoln, Neb.

Many of Senator Marvel's remarks in the July 28 issue of The Lincoln Star were of extreme interest to me, both as a taxpayer of the state of Nebraska and as an interested party in the closing of the Nebraska State Orthopedic Hospital.

Mr. Marvel, as chairman of the budget committee, infers or in fact actually insists that he and his committee have done everything possible to maintain the budget and protect the taxpayer.

This past year I have made repeated attempts to explain to the budget committee, as well as the Legislature, that by closing the Orthopedic Hospital, they were not only compromising the over-all care of the crippled children of the state of Nebraska, but that they were also increasing the cost of such care very appreciably, perhaps even doubling it. I personally had the feeling that the budget committee accepted this as a fact. There were many in the Legislature who remarked to me that they actually thought this was true; however, despite this, the vote was to close the Orthopedic Hospital Dec. 1, 1971.

Now, I ask, how can I accept the fact that the budget committee is making any serious attempt to maintain the budget?

If any evidence had ever been produced that the children of the state were not receiving care at the Orthopedic Hospital, I would accept the closing of the hospital without question. This I cannot do, as no one even suggested such were the case.

Mr. Marvel comments: "We're sitting, listening, asking questions." He states that the full committee will visit the institutions again for formal sessions in September. We will welcome them with open arms and I would like to think we could convince them that an error has been made.

Belling The Cat

Lincoln, Neb.

I find amusing a news story in the July 21 Star concerning "economist" John Kenneth Galbraith's opinion that the "Keynesian" economic theories supported by liberals, including Mr. Galbraith, for the past 40 years are now suddenly outdated. Not because President Nixon just called himself a "Keynesian," but because Mr. Gailbraith and his like ever had the gall to claim to be following Mr. Keynes.

Mr. Keynes, as the news story reports, advocated the stabilization of prices and unemployment rates through the manipulation of the money supply. Pumping money into the economy during slumps; budgeting a surplus when excessive spending would ignite inflation.

Despite all the liberal campaign oratory telling of the great booms during their administrations, can anyone tell me of a year when they ran a surplus — or even tried to budget for one?

What Mr. Galbraith ignores is that the very people he says should regulate the economy — i.e. Congress — are in fact controlled by big business and big unions. He proposes, in actuality, a fascist economy similar to that of Germany under Nazi rule.

Who will bell the cat, Mr. Galbraith?

Questions Pictures

Lincoln, Neb.

The front page of the Friday morning Star exhibits a startling pair of "news photographs." Dedicated are the life and death of a man and woman on a hotel balcony in Italy complete with the expression on their faces as they are "pleading for help" from the approaching flames.

It would be trite to question the so-called "ethics" of the person who decided to grab a camera instead of a rope or a ladder. We don't know if attempts were being made to rescue them as the pictures were being taken.

Let's instead question the newspaper that prints such pictures as these and, in doing so, encourages people to take pictures instead of action to help those in trouble.

Pictures such as these are of questionable value and smack of pointless sensationalism.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

A farmer likes to see green when the color shows in the tapered leaves of his cornfields or in the shimmering tops of milo plants. He likes the green of alfalfa fields and pasture lands. But when the green is in the form of green bugs, then the color is taboo.

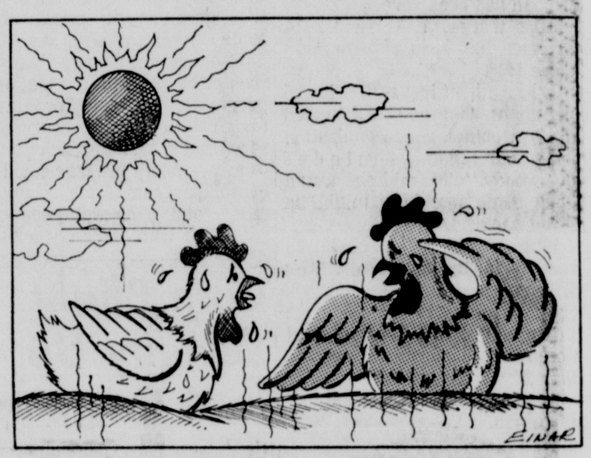

Every day The Farmer walks out through his fields to check on the pests. So far he has not done any spraying and hopes to avoid doing so. He never has sprayed for them although we have had them in other years. However, the ten acres of sudex he planted for later pasture has been consumed until the field stands without a spear now. It was about six inches tall until those green pests moved in with such appetites. Fortunately he has other pasture of earlier planted sudex that the cattle can eat. It seems the bugs like young, tender vegetation.

While The Farmer keeps an eye on the milo for green bugs, I tend my muskmelon patch. I have several the size of big apples on the vines. The grasshoppers, however seem to be in favor of muskmelons, too, for I find them hopping among the leaves. I have powdered them twice and soon will have the price of a melon in bug killer since it is a rather large patch.

☆ ☆ ☆

We have almost huffed and puffed our way through the month of July and find we are face to face with August which sometimes is hotter than July. One thing nice about August is the fact that September is not far behind.

It is on such warm days as today that the birds are silent, sitting on some shady branch trying to keep cool. I think of the days when we used to raise chickens and worried when the day was unbearably hot. Fat old hens succumbed or else jumped up on the rim of the tank for a drink and were toppled in by a gust of wind. Chickens are funny creatures. Water can be available nearby yet they will try to get a drink the hard way. Maybe they are proud and wish to see a lovely shadow of themselves in the water.

It was on such a hot day that chickens, too, would plump out their wings at the sides and gasp for breath as if they weren't long for this world. They would gather in small groups under the shade of trees and bushes and talk chicken talk all afternoon. When the sun began to sink in the West, they would come out and finish the day.

We have had all kinds of old hens but perhaps none revealed themselves more than on a quiet, summer night when the heat of the day still was felt inside the chicken house and the flock was gathered for a night of slumber. One old hen that I always thought of as an asthmatic fowl, gasped and gurgled all night in a most irritating way. Another sounded like a lyric soprano striving to reach a high note but never quite making it. Then there was the old biddy that certainly must have had nightmares for every night it would squawk and carry on something awful. It was perfectly safe but liked to keep silence from being golden.

The hens weren't the only offenders to a good night's sleep. One rooster insisted on crowing along about midnight on a hot summer's night. It would fool the flock into thinking morning was near at hand for there was a stirring among the hens and some quiet clucking. After dawn did not seem to approach, the flock settled back down to resume their share of slumber.

Then there was always the rooster that insisted in sleeping in a tree that draped over the chicken coop. Every morning before light had reached the inside of the house, the rooster would flap and crow and fly down upon the roof with a great thump. He was the show-off . . . the elite of the chicken world that was too good to sleep with the common flock.

However, his uppity ideas were rather short-lived for one night some animal snatched him from the branches and left only a smattering of feathers to show where he had once been so high and mighty.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Husband Halts Church Attendance After 25 Years; Wife Heartbroken

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "When we were married Tom knew my church was very important to me, and he promised to accompany me every Sunday. He has done so until last week when we celebrated our 25th anniversary and he announced the time had come to start enjoying his Sundays, and that this meant no more church. He calls churchgoing just an ancient ritual and claims it's hypocritical to go if you don't believe. I'm heartbroken by his cynical attitude and betrayal of his promise. What can I do?"

Answer: — If you've still got real faith you'll have no problems. You'll continue doing what seems right to you, just as your husband feels he must now do what seems right to him. If he's complied with that promise for two and a half decades he deserves praise instead of criticism. A firm religious faith is a marvelous gift but all are not blessed with it. As he says, it is hypocritical to go through the rituals of religion without bearing real convictions.

Question: — "Dad died five years ago and Mother, 68, lives in the old house — with two television sets, three cats and some parakeets. She's healthy and has enough money but has lost interest in people — actually has a 'no visitors' sign at the door. She says she's happy and just wants to be left alone. We live 400 miles away and try to visit her once a year, but she's told us not to bother — just send her a postcard now and then. Her neighbors say they never see her except on Mondays when she hangs out some wash and on Fridays when she pushes a wire cart to the grocery. What's the matter with her anyway?"

Answer: — She's become a happy hermit, that's all. Along with Garbo and a sampling of other seniors, she's apparently discovered certain satisfactions in solitude. Lord knows most normal elders crave companionship, activities, and as many friends as they can get. But human nature has colorful variations. Some — maybe five per cent — actually revel in isolation. And if they're healthy, and claim they're happy who are we to challenge them?

Question: — "I get irked by demands for higher Social Security, bigger pensions, more medical care, and better housing for older people who have lived their lives. My husband and I are in our early 30s with five children to support on total income of barely $90 weekly. I think subsidies and services should be provided for young people with children and let the old folks shift for themselves. They had six or seven decades to accumulate something and shouldn't be looking for handouts at this late date."

Answer: — As you grow older and wiser you'll come to realize there's plenty of justification for providing adequate pensions, proper housing, and services for older people whose hands and minds helped mold the world you are now enjoying. Human life is important at every age — particularly in advanced years when men and women should be enjoying the fruits of their labors and sacrifices. It's true that older people had a number of years to accumulate funds — and most of them did accumulate some assets. But unfortunately the dollars they earned and put away aren't worth much today, due to soaring living costs brought on by the war, rising welfare costs, militant labor demands and Uncle Sam's inability to control inflation.

Canada Accepts Red Ambassador

Judson acted for Gov. Gen. Reland Michener, on vacation in New Brunswick.

Huang was accompanied by a small party of aides and made no comment on the presentation.

Miss Onassis Is Married In Las Vegas

Las Vegas Nev. (AP) — Christina Onassis, 20-year-old daughter of Aristotle Onassis, has married 47-year-old Joseph Bolker, a Hollywood real estate man.

"I did not know who it was, until I got there," said District Court Judge Carl Christensen, called to a local law office Tuesday to perform the brief civil ceremony.

"I asked, 'Is this the famous Onassis family?' and she said, 'I am the daughter.' "

There were half a dozen spectators, apparently none from the family of the Greek shipping magnate who is married to the widow of President John F. Kennedy.

The judge said the couple flew here from Los Angeles and returned after the ceremony. There were unconfirmed reports they were honeymooning in Mexico.

The marriage license application said Bolker was divorced a year ago in Los Angeles and this Miss Onassis hadn't been married before.

POSTCARD by Stan Kimball

Breakfast is brought by a Jamaican girl, black as Blue Mountain coffee. We eat outside, looking down over fields of gray-green sugar cane to the deep blue sea.

Warm trade winds sweep the table—we anchor the napkins with cutlery.

We'd call it a lanai in Hawaii. I don't know what you call it here. It's a roofed and tiled outside area, ten feet from the swimming pool. When it's wet, it's slippery as soap.

I put one foot on it yesterday, slid five of the ten feet out of control. Crashlanded—a two-point landing: elbow and hip. It blasted near put me out of action.

The cook put her head out the window and said: "You mus' be careful, sah. You cahn slip easily."

I didn't say anything. I looked up at her, flat on my back. It was an effort, but I didn't say a thing.

☆ ☆ ☆

Easy come, easy go. I stuck some plaster strips on my bleeding elbow. But I only told the children: "Take care of the Lieutenant first, Doc. Just give me an aspirin and a Purple Heart."

We are at Ironshore Estates. Six miles from Montego Bay.

They're cutting down the sugar cane. Putting up villas and condominiums for the rich. Rich Americans, that is.

They are elegant scatters: Gardens full of broad leaf banana plants. Flaming bougainvillea. Lacy flame trees full of Chinese red flowers.

They are for rent — Jamaica is going all out for villa rentals.

There's a tax advantage to the owners.

The prime advantage is the good life. We fall out of bed in the morning and into the swimming pool. The water is just cool enough to wake you up.

At 8 o'clock, the cook and the maid and the gardener arrive.

The cook is named Netta. The maid is Alice—I've been calling her "Hollis." The Jamaica accent with a British twist is a tosser. "Hollis" is the way she says it. (I found out it was Alice when she wrote it down.")

The gardener is Robert.

All this comes with the house.

☆ ☆ ☆

It's summer in Jamaica. Best time of the year for Jamaicans. The maid said: "Now is the time when everything comes ripe, and everybody cahn eat what he pick up from the ground.

Ackeee is in—it's a native vegetable thing. Big juicy mangoes are just starting. Huge green avocadoes are ripening on the trees. Breadfruit is in season.

Same breadfruit Captain Bligh brought from Tahiti on the second voyage. AFTER the mutiny on the Bounty. (Never-say-die Bligh. Huzza for the Captain)

We eat it roasted. Buttered and salted. It's something like potatoe.

☆ ☆ ☆

We eat like mad things in Jamaica. Bananas come off the plant green—we hang them up for ripening. Pineapple an hour from the field.

The little green limes are as good as Mexico—no higher vote of confidence.

We squeeze them on fresh golden papaya. Iced for breakfast. Big wedges of juicy watermelon on the side.

A fruit breakfast—with slices of cream cheese—is just right for Jamaica climate.

And Blue Mountain coffee! Steaming. Black. Fragrant from the roast. It's grown on the slopes of the Blue Mountain range that rises misty green between the Atlantic north shore and Kingston town facing the Caribbean.

"Blue Mountain coffee wake you up," said the cook.

It also helps you be Jack-be-nimble. I hit the tiled flooring. Slid the whole ten feet without falling, and went into the swimming pool like a cake of soap.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Husband Halts Church Attendance After 25 Years; Wife Heartbroken

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "When we were married Tom knew my church was very important to me, and he promised to accompany me every Sunday. He has done so until last week when we celebrated our 25th anniversary and he announced the time had come to start enjoying his Sundays, and that this meant no more church. He calls churchgoing just an ancient ritual and claims it's hypocritical to go if you don't believe. I'm heartbroken by his cynical attitude and betrayal of his promise. What can I do?"

Answer: — If you've still got real faith you'll have no problems. You'll continue doing what seems right to you, just as your husband feels he must now do what seems right to him. If he's complied with that promise for two and a half decades he deserves praise instead of criticism. A firm religious faith is a marvelous gift but all are not blessed with it. As he says, it is hypocritical to go through the rituals of religion without bearing real convictions.

Question: — "Dad died five years ago and Mother, 68, lives in the old house — with two television sets, three cats and some parakeets. She's healthy and has enough money but has lost interest in people — actually has a 'no visitors' sign at the door. She says she's happy and just wants to be left alone. We live 400 miles away and try to visit her once a year, but she's told us not to bother — just send her a postcard now and then. Her neighbors say they never see her except on Mondays when she hangs out some wash and on Fridays when she pushes a wire cart to the grocery. What's the matter with her anyway?"

Answer: — She's become a happy hermit, that's all. Along with Garbo and a sampling of other seniors, she's apparently discovered certain satisfactions in solitude. Lord knows most normal elders crave companionship, activities, and as many friends as they can get. But human nature has colorful variations. Some — maybe five per cent — actually revel in isolation. And if they're healthy, and claim they're happy who are we to challenge them?

Question: — "I get irked by demands for higher Social Security, bigger pensions, more medical care, and better housing for older people who have lived their lives. My husband and I are in our early 30s with five children to support on total income of barely $90 weekly. I think subsidies and services should be provided for young people with children and let the old folks shift for themselves. They had six or seven decades to accumulate something and shouldn't be looking for handouts at this late date."

Answer: — As you grow older and wiser you'll come to realize there's plenty of justification for providing adequate pensions, proper housing, and services for older people whose hands and minds helped mold the world you are now enjoying. Human life is important at every age — particularly in advanced years when men and women should be enjoying the fruits of their labors and sacrifices. It's true that older people had a number of years to accumulate funds — and most of them did accumulate some assets. But unfortunately the dollars they earned and put away aren't worth much today, due to soaring living costs brought on by the war, rising welfare costs, militant labor demands and Uncle Sam's inability to control inflation.

Canada Accepts Red Ambassador

Ottawa (AP) — Huang Hua, the first Communist Chinese ambassador to Canada, presented his credentials to Justice Wilfred Judson of the Supreme Court of Canada at Government House.

Judson acted for Gov. Gen. Reland Michener, on vacation in New Brunswick.

Miss Onassis Is Married In Las Vegas

Las Vegas Nev. (AP) — Christina Onassis, 20-year-old daughter of Aristotle Onassis, has married 47-year-old Joseph Bolker, a Hollywood real estate man.

"I did not know who it was, until I got there," said District Court Judge Carl Christensen, called to a local law office Tuesday to perform the brief civil ceremony.

"I asked, 'Is this the famous Onassis family?' and she said, 'I am the daughter.' "

There were half a dozen spectators, apparently none from the family of the Greek shipping magnate who is married to the widow of President John F. Kennedy.

The judge said the couple flew here from Los Angeles and returned after the ceremony. There were unconfirmed reports they were honeymooning in Mexico.

The marriage license application said Bolker was divorced a year ago in Los Angeles and this Miss Onassis hadn't been married before.

Robert Downing Named To Board

Minneapolis, Minn. (AP) — President Robert W. Downing of Burlington Northern, Inc., was elected to the board of directors of Northwest Bancorporation.

Northwest Bancorporation is a bank holding company based in Minneapolis. It owns a majority of stock in 78 affiliated banks and a mortgage serving company.

POSTCARD by Stan Kleinplatz

Breakfast is brought by a Jamaican girl, black as Blue Mountain coffee. We eat outside, looking down over fields of gray-green sugar cane to the deep blue sea.

Warm trade winds sweep the table—we anchor the napkins with cutlery.

We'd call it a lanai in Hawaii. I don't know what you call it here. It's a roofed and tiled outside area, ten feet from the swimming pool. When it's wet, it's slippery as soap.

I put one foot on it yesterday, slid five of the ten feet out of control. Crashlanded—a two-point landing: elbow and hip. It blasted near put me out of action.

The cook put her head out the window and said: "You mus' be careful, sah. You cahn slip easily."

I didn't say anything. I looked up at her, flat on my back. It was an effort, but I didn't say a thing.

☆ ☆ ☆

Easy come, easy go. I stuck some plaster strips on my bleeding elbow. But I only told the children: "Take care of the Lieutenant first, Doc. Just give me an aspirin and a Purple Heart."

We are at Ironshore Estates. Six miles from Montego Bay.

They're cutting down the sugar cane. Putting up villas and condominiums for the rich. Rich Americans, that is.

They are elegant scatters: Gardens full of broad leaf banana plants.. Flaming bougainvillea. Lacy flame trees full of Chinese red flowers.

They are for rent — Jamaica is going all out for villa rentals.

There's a tax advantage to the owners.

The prime advantage is the good life. We fall out of bed in the morning and into the swimming pool. The water is just cool enough to wake you up.

At 8 o'clock, the cook and the maid and the gardener arrive.

The cook is named Netta. The maid is Alice—I've been calling her "Hollis." The Jamaica accent with a British twist is a tosser. "Hollis" is the way she says it. (I found out it was Alice when she wrote it down.")

The gardener is Robert.

All this comes with the house.

☆ ☆ ☆

It's summer in Jamaica. Best time of the year for Jamaicans. The maid said: "Now is the time when everything comes ripe, and everybody cahn eat what he pick up from the ground.

Ackeee is in—it's a native vegetable thing. Big juicy mangoes are just starting. Huge green avocadoes are ripening on the trees. Breadfruit is in season.

Same breadfruit Captain Bligh brought from Tahiti on the second voyage. AFTER the mutiny on the Bounty. (Never-say-die Bligh. Huzza for the Captain)

We eat it roasted. Buttered and salted. It's something like potatoe.

☆ ☆ ☆

We eat like mad things in Jamaica. Bananas come off the plant green—we hang them up for ripening. Pineapple an hour from the field.

The little green limes are as good as Mexico—no higher vote of confidence.

We squeeze them on fresh golden papaya. Iced for breakfast. Big wedges of juicy watermelon on the side.

A fruit breakfast—with slices of cream cheese—is just right for Jamaica climate.

And Blue Mountain coffee! Steaming. Black. Fragrant from the roast. It's grown on the slopes of the Blue Mountain range that rises misty green between the Atlantic north shore and Kingston town facing the Caribbean.

"Blue Mountain coffee wake you up," said the cook.

It also helps you be Jack-be-nimble. I hit the tiled flooring. Slid the whole ten feet without falling, and went into the swimming pool like a cake of soap.

Welfare Payment Cuts Defended By Gov. Exon

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Wahoo — Gov. J. James Exon Wednesday night defended the cut in the standard need for welfare families and his welfare policies noting that his administration has recommended the largest increase in the history of the state for welfare appropriations — 42%.

Speaking at a Saunders County Democratic fund-raising meeting, the chief executive said:

"We are jumping from $127 million appropriation in the last biennium to $182 million appropriation in this biennium . . . or up $27 million per year in welfare costs!"

Rejecting the blank-check approach and the deficit-spending method for financing, Exon said this increase is "enough."

Exon quoted the increase of $140 million in welfare appropriations for the past ten years and suggested that perhaps the welfare system has evolved into something "quite more than a means of sustaining the destitute and tiding the unlucky over bad imes."

The governor said this growth in people on welfare in Nebraska has not been accompanied by a general population increase.

"How can there be 6,200 families in Nebraska who made it on their own in 1967 but in 1971 have no alternative but welfare?

This growth, Exon claims, suggests that welfare no longer does the job it was intended to do, but has become a means of supporting a non-working or part-time working class.

He then challenged the critics of the welfare department and his administration on the validity of their arguments.

"First, let's dispose of some of the most ridiculous charges like the one that this administration was attempting to create a surplus in the general fund by reductions of ADC payments . . . There will be nothing left for any surpluses."

Another area he attacked were the three attorneys who announced they intended to bring suit to halt ratable reductions in ADC payments. He noted that two of the attorneys are on the public payroll.

In his final defense he compared Nebraska's ADC payments to neighboring states. For a family consisting of one mother and three children, Nebraska's $192 per month ranked third out of five states. Iowa which pays $51 per month more than Nebraska was the highest, while Missouri which allows $62 per month less was the lowest.

Exon emphasized that the majority of ADC recipients in Nebraska will not be affected. Some of the more deserving, he noted, will receive increases.

Admitting that pressure will rise for increased welfare spending in the next session of the Legislature, Exon reminded voters that it is not important to meet the demands, but to meet the needs.

Rosenthal Seeks Armstrong Stamp

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., asked the U.S. Postal Service to put out an international air mail stamp honoring the late Louis Armstrong. "What made Armstrong an American classic outside jazz circles," Rosenthal said, "was more than his musical genius. It was also his ability to mix serious and often soulful music with humor and downhome wisdom."

EXON GREETS 6 AIR CADETS FROM SPAIN

Six Spanish air cadets were greeted by Gov. J. J. Exon Wednesday as they toured the state Capitol on a stop in Lincoln during their 12-day stay in the midlands.

The six are being housed at Offutt Air Force Base during their stay and are being hosted by the Nebraska wing of the Civil Air Patrol.

Exon met the group for a short visit during their Capitol stop.

Their visit to the United States is part of an international air cadet exchange program.

During their stay, they will be visiting various Nebraska sites along with the Black Hills in South Dakota and the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Svore Is Named Midwest Region EPA Director

Washington (AP) — Jerome H. Svore was named Environmental Protection Agency administrator Wednesday of a four-state Midwest region by William D. Ruckelshaus, EPA administrator.

Svore, who will have headquarters in Kansas City, will be responsible for EPA programs in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Charges Of Courts Take Excursion

A group of boys who are charges of courts in Saunders, Seward and Lancaster Counties have just returned from a two-day excursion to Kansas City, Mo., made possible by a Nebraska Crime Commission Model Project grant.

The 44 boys, all between the ages of 10 and 18 years, made the trip with a group of volunteer counselors. The trip enabled the boys and the counselors to develop closer relationships, according to Dr. Galen Dodge, director of the Human Resources Foundation.

Highlight of the trip was a Baltimore Oriole-Kansas City Royals baseball game. After the game, the boys got a chance to meet and talk with Baltimore's Brooks Robinson, Dodge said. They later visited Swope Park Zoo and went elephant riding and swimming.

Adult sponsors of the trip were Sam Hale, project director; John Moon, research analyst; Bill Janike, chief probation officer, Judge Fred H. Bruns Jr. of Seward, and Dodge.

The Kansas City trip, part of a cooperative project between the Human Resources Foundation and the Juvenile Court of Lancaster County, is only one of the project's many activities for probationers and counselors, Dodge said.

He said the boys are now planning a fishing trip with their counselors. Expenses will be paid by profits from a car wash sponsored by the boys.

Beer Unhealthy

Port Elisabeth, South Africa (AP) — Justice Minister Petrus C. Pelser announced that homemade prickly pear beer and honey beer have been made illegal because they are hazardous to the "health and well-being of the people."

Increase Told By Contractor

Boise, Idaho (AP) — Morrison-Knudsen Co., Inc., worldwide construction firm, reported an increase of 37% in its net earnings for the first half of 1971..

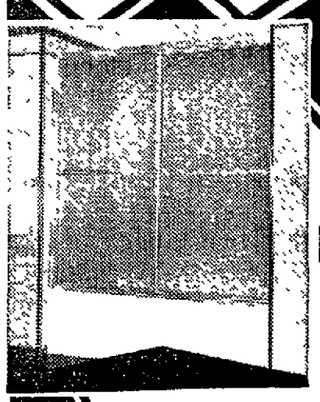

The firm listed earnings of $1,476,000 or 62 cents a share, compared with $1,079,000 in the first half of 1970. B. L. Perkins, chairman and president, said the 1970 total included a nonrecurring gain of $346,000.

The backlog of uncompleted contracts as of June 30 was $485,147,000 compared with $510,919,000 one year earlier.

Six Spanish air cadets were greeted by Gov. J. J. Exon Wednesday as they toured the state Capitol on a stop in Lincoln during their 12-day stay in the midlands.

The six are being housed at Offutt Air Force Base during their stay and are being hosted by the Nebraska wing of the Civil Air Patrol.

Exon met the group for a short visit during their Capitol stop.

Their visit to the United States is part of an international air cadet exchange program.

During their stay, they will be visiting various Nebraska sites along with the Black Hills in South Dakota and the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Washington (AP) — Jerome H. Svore was named Environmental Protection Agency administrator Wednesday of a four-state Midwest region by William D. Ruckelshaus, EPA administrator.

Svore, who will have headquarters in Kansas City, will be responsible for EPA programs in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri.

Charges Of Courts Take Excursion

A group of boys who are charges of courts in Saunders, Seward and Lancaster Counties have just returned from a two-day excursion to Kansas City, Mo., made possible by a Nebraska Crime Commission Model Project grant.

The 44 boys, all between the ages of 10 and 18 years, made the trip with a group of volunteer counselors. The trip enabled the boys and the counselors to develop closer relationships, according to Dr. Galen Dodge, director of the Human Resources Foundation.

Highlight of the trip was a Baltimore Oriole-Kansas City Royals baseball game. After the game, the boys got a chance to meet and talk with Baltimore's Brooks Robinson, Dodge said. They later visited Swope Park Zoo and went elephant riding and swimming.

Adult sponsors of the trip were Sam Hale, project director; John Moon, research analyst; Bill Janike, chief probation officer, Judge Fred H. Bruns Jr. of Seward, and Dodge.

The Kansas City trip, part of a cooperative project between the Human Resources Foundation and the Juvenile Court of Lancaster County, is only one of the project's many activities for probationers and counselors, Dodge said.

He said the boys are now planning a fishing trip with their counselors. Expenses will be paid by profits from a car wash sponsored by the boys.

Port Elisabeth, South Africa (AP) — Justice Minister Petrus C. Pelser announced that homemade prickly pear beer and honey beer have been made illegal because they are hazardous to the "health and well-being of the people."

Increase Told By Contractor

Boise, Idaho (AP) — Morrison-Knudsen Co., Inc., worldwide construction firm, reported an increase of 37% in its net earnings for the first half of 1971..

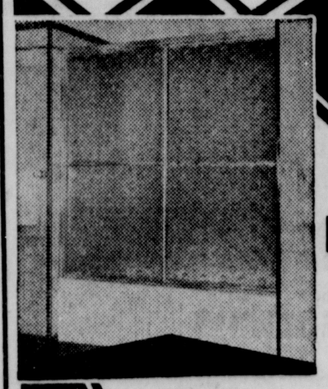

The firm listed earnings of $1,476,000 or 62 cents a share, compared with $1,079,000 in the first half of 1970. B. L. Perkins, chairman and president, said the 1970 total included a nonrecurring gain of $346,000.

The backlog of uncompleted contracts as of June 30 was $485,147,000 compared with $510,919,000 one year earlier.

Welfare Recipients Urged To Organize

Bruce Hamilton, director of the Lincoln Legal Services Society, urged a group of ADC and welfare recipients Wednesday to organize into an active welfare rights organization and politically involve themselves in the struggle for welfare rights.

"I urge political action, voter registration and voter action both here in our legislature and in the Congress," Hamilton told a group at a Lincoln Action Program-sponsored meeting.

Hamilton also told the group of the suit which will be filed in U.S. District Court in Lincoln in an effort to stop the ratable reduction payments scheduled to go into effect Aug. 1.

The action will include a request for a temporary restraining order against the reduced payments, which will affect working ADC mothers in the state.

Hamilton advised the group it would be unwise for them to try and exert pressure to influence the decision of the court, but that letters to legislators and newspapers might help arouse favorable public sentiments.

One woman, who identified herself as an ADC mother who hates welfare and is doing all she can to get out from under it asked why ADC mothers who work are being penalized.

"I don't know . . . the naive, stupid criticism of welfare is that people who are on it are lazy and don't want to work. Then what do we do when people get jobs but penalize them. They make a dollar and we take a dollar away," Hamilton answered.

Sally Sawyer, moderator of the evening session, advised mothers who plan on going to work when their children start school in the fall to consider the consequences of the ratable reduction ruling.

"As soon as you go out there and get a job, you're gonna get hit" with reduced ADC payments, she said.

Sparkling Performance Presented By Students

By EARL DYER
Star Staff Writer

Summer students at the University of Nebraska Wednesday night presented a sparkling performance — pleasing to both eye and ear — of Mozart's opera bouffe Cosi Fan Tutte.

If the performance sometimes seemed long, perhaps it's that Mozart's simple farce is long drawn out and much ornamented for today's taste.

But at other times the humor both of story and of music came bubbling through, supported by suitably melodramatic acting, rich 18th Century costumes and a delightfully rococo set.

Philosopher's Attempt

The story of the piece revolves about the attempt by the old philosopher, Don Alfonso, to prove to Guglielmo and Ferrando that their lady loves, the sisters Fiordiligi and Dorabella, are susceptible to the charms of other men as well.

The ladies, played by Jeanie Dietrich and Mary D. Sayre Wednesday night, displayed voices that were pleasant but a little light for their parts and more effective in duet than solo parts — although Miss Dietrich's long arias in both first and second acts were performed with taste and artistry.

And the two male lovers, sung by Mrs. Sayre's husband Jeffrey and Jon Gruett, turned in nice performances. Gruett's singing was the more even, and with a pleasing quality, and Sayre displayed a sweet tenor range in some passages.

But the favorites of the audience were John Brandstetter as Don Alfonso and Mary Anne Schwaner as his willing helper, the sisters' maid Despina. Both parts sparkle with wit and both players proved capable actors as well as singers of merit.

Miss Schwaner's voice, light in quality but with volume enough when needed, was well suited to the part of the maid who advised even "a nice girl" to "follow your heart" and believed one should "expose them to temptation and leave the rest to nature."

Brandstetter's performance was even and of high quality, both vocally and as an actor, throughout.

But it was not individual performances that deserve the most praise for the ensemble work — with which the opera is well supplied — was outstanding. The cast and directors must have worked long and hard to produce the duets, trios, quartets and sextets which so nicely blended all the voices for the pleasant effect that may be Mozart opera at its best.

And providing backing of high quality was a chorus which also must have put in long hours of rehearsal and a chamber orchestra of high quality.

The opera will continue nightly through Saturday at the University's Kimball Recital Hall, with Marilyn Cronin and Kathryn Harney alternating with Miss Dietrich and Mrs. Sayre as Fiordiligi and Dorabella, with Tom Copple and Roy S. Cram part of the time taking the parts of Guglielmo and Ferrando.

Design Group Meets With Advertising, Sign Officials

Several representatives of advertising and sign companies were present at the meeting of the Mayor's Urban Design Committee Wednesday hight to discuss and help in the formulation of a new sign code for the city.

Committee chairman, Larry Enerson, said that it was not the desire of the committee to do away with signs but to see what the effect of enforcement of other sign codes would be in Lincoln.

Pictures illustrating the types and amount of signs in areas throughout the city were presented at the meeting but a few of the representatives of companies to be affected indicated they felt the pictures presented a distorted view of the sign situation in Lincoln.

The primary objection seemed to be that most of the objectionable signs were not locally done but brought in by parent companies. Carl Lamborn, President of the Lincoln Sign Association, speculated that 75% or more of the oil company signs come from outside Lincoln.

Visiting members said that Lincoln sign people are being accused of doing things they are not guilty of. Out-of-town crews come into town, put up the signs and then leave.

The possible licensing of sign hangers was discussed as a solution to the problem but all those present said they would not like to see it happen.

One member of the group pointed out that ignorance of the law is often a problem. People erect too many and too large signs without ever realizing they are doing anything wrong.

Members of both groups agreed that the major oil companies are trying to keep their stations in accordance with city codes. Lamborn said that a few years ago when free-standing signs were made illegal one company removed all their illegal signs and shipped in new ones that were in compliance with the code.

The Lincoln Sign Association was given copies of the Denver sign code and a model code proposed by the American Institute of Architects and asked to study them and present an opinion at the next meeting.

The next meeting was scheduled for Wednesday Aug. 25th.

Airport Authority Delays Decision On Car Rental Leases

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

Airport Authority members Wednesday found themselves engulfed in controversy over a recent decision to discontinue a requirement for car rental agencies to maintain 100 outlets at or near airport terminals throughout the nation.

Attorney Tom Pansing, speaking for the three national car rental firms now at the airport, argued against the elimination of the requirement and said the three firms had no chance to appear at the time the decision was made.

Pansing pointed out that the companies were tendered new contracts with a higher yearly rent with the 100 outlet provision.

Offered Contract

Norman Krivosha, an attorney representing Novo Leasing, a local firm which wants to become a fourth car rental firm at the terminal, said the Airport Authority had offered the firm a contract which his client has accepted. The contract was accepted as soon as the Airport Authority eliminated the 100-outlet requirement which the local firm had said it could not meet.

Krivosha warned Airport Authority members that they would probably face a lawsuit if the lease is not signed and delivered.

The Airport Authority instructed its legal counsel Chauncey Barney not to deliver the lease.

Decide On Delay

Instead, the board members decided to delay any decisions about the car rental firm matter until the Sept. 21 meeting.

In the meantime the Airport Authority will be looking into what other airports are doing, checking into court decisions about the requirement to have other outlets, and studying the economics of a fourth car rental firm at the terminal.

Fred Eiche, who made the motion which drew opposition from board member Richard Chapin, agreed the matter should have been studied more before action was taken.

Krivosha Argues

But Krivosha argued that any new policy decision would affect only future policy and would not affect Novo.

"You adopted a motion — we tendered acceptance of the motion. This (the new action) does not change acceptance of our offer," he said.

Barney said he felt any policy decision made by the board would be sustainable since there was no collusion on anyone's part.

Pansing told the board that "No other city of Lincoln's size has a local car agency" at its airport — only one other has four companies."

He questioned how many firms would be allowed.

Big Contentions

The two big contentions expressed by the nationals was that the local, because of not having the other outlets, could offer cars at lower prices and take away business of the others and offer less service.

Representatives of Avis and Hertz — National were not present — said they would want their leases renegotiated probably with a lower rental figure if a fourth operation is let in.

The contract terms with the nationals and the local calls for a $7,200 a year rent from each or 10% of gross revenue whichever is greater. Charges are also made for counter space used.

Quality Loss Seen

Pansing asserted that the quality of service would decrease if the nationals are to be competitive with what he first termed a "cut-rate operation."

Krivosha argued that because Novo could not offer outlets at other terminals and pickup and delivery except to Omaha, the nationals would pick up the business from those passengers needing such service.

"They're not supposed to drive to Chicago, they're supposed to fly," he added in regard to the lack of a widespread pickup and delivery service.

Not Valid Reason

H3 contended that not allowing Novo in at the terminal because the nationals do not want extra competition is not a valid reason and would not stand up in court.

Krivosha also mentioned there was no objection from the nationals when Novo was offered a lease with the 100 outlet requirement and said the competition would be the same with or without the requirement.

Death Denies Sight

Airport Authority Delays Decision On Car Rental Leases

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

Airport Authority members Wednesday found themselves engulfed in controversy over a recent decision to discontinue a requirement for car rental agencies to maintain 100 outlets at or near airport terminals throughout the nation.

Attorney Tom Pansing, speaking for the three national car rental firms now at the airport, argued against the elimination of the requirement and said the three firms had no chance to appear at the time the decision was made.

Pansing pointed out that the companies were tendered new contracts with a higher yearly rent with the 100 outlet provision.

Offered Contract

Norman Krivosha, an attorney representing Novo Leasing, a local firm which wants to become a fourth car rental firm at the terminal, said the Airport Authority had offered the firm a contract which his client has accepted. The contract was accepted as soon as the Airport Authority eliminated the 100-outlet requirement which the local firm had said it could not meet.

Krivosha warned Airport Authority members that they would probably face a lawsuit if the lease is not signed and delivered.

The Airport Authority instructed its legal counsel Chauncey Barney not to deliver the lease.

Decide On Delay

Instead, the board members decided to delay any decisions about the car rental firm matter until the Sept. 21 meeting.

In the meantime the Airport Authority will be looking into what other airports are doing, checking into court decisions about the requirement to have other outlets, and studying the economics of a fourth car rental firm at the terminal.

Fred Eiche, who made the motion which drew opposition from board member Richard Chapin, agreed the matter should have been studied more before action was taken.

Krivosha Argues

But Krivosha argued that any new policy decision would affect only future policy and would not affect Novo.

"You adopted a motion — we tendered acceptance of the motion. This (the new action) does not change acceptance of our offer," he said.

Barney said he felt any policy decision made by the board would be sustainable since there was no collusion on anyone's part.

Pansing told the board that "No other city of Lincoln's size has a local car agency" at its airport — only one other has four companies."

He questioned how many firms would be allowed.

Big Contentions

The two big contentions expressed by the nationals was that the local, because of not having the other outlets, could offer cars at lower prices and take away business of the others and offer less service.

Representatives of Avis and Hertz — National were not present — said they would want their leases renegotiated probably with a lower rental figure if a fourth operation is let in.

The contract terms with the nationals and the local calls for a $7,200 a year rent from each or 10% of gross revenue whichever is greater. Charges are also made for counter space used.

Quality Loss Seen

Pansing asserted that the quality of service would decrease if the nationals are to be competitive with what he first termed a "cut-rate operation."

Krivosha argued that because Novo could not offer outlets at other terminals and pickup and delivery except to Omaha, the nationals would pick up the business from those passengers needing such service.

"They're not supposed to drive to Chicago, they're supposed to fly," he added in regard to the lack of a widespread pickup and delivery service.

Not Valid Reason

H3 contended that not allowing Novo in at the terminal because the nationals do not want extra competition is not a valid reason and would not stand up in court.

Krivosha also mentioned there was no objection from the nationals when Novo was offered a lease with the 100 outlet requirement and said the competition would be the same with or without the requirement.

Planning Unit Again Recommends Denial Of West O St. Zoning

Most members of the City-County Planning Commission remained at odds Wednesday with the majority of the City Council over rezoning of West O property to H-2 Highway Commercial

The commission voted Wednesday to reconfirm its April 29 recommendation denying an application by Gerald B. Lewis for a truck service operation to be located at the corner of SW 40th and West O Sts.

Lewis' application requested the rezoning of AA Rural and Public Use property at the location to H-2 Highway Commercial

The application was resubmitted to the commission after five members of the City Council successfully overrode Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's veto of the application's council approval

The council voted 4-2 June 14 to approve Lewis' application, despite the planning commission's recommendation. An earlier vote by the council had denied the application.

The planning commission's recommendations are simply advisory and the City Council again will take final action on the application

Planning Director Doug Brogden Wednesday took his April 29 position before the commission that the application would lead to "piecemeal development" and "spot zoning" along the highway

He pointed out that if this application is approved a precedent will be set for other such developments stretching out along the highway.

Brogden suggested that it would be better for the city, both in providing utilities and in appearance, to have large commercial developments in one area instead of stringing them out along a road

He agreed with commission member Robert Allington that such developments stretched along the road could create an 'eye sore"

George Williamson, commission chairman, said he had "horrible visions of the future of West O" if such zoning is allowed and he hoped the council "would seriously consider" the commission's recommendation for denial.

City Councilman Merle Hale told the commission that he is "excited about" Lewis' application and that "it is good zoning."

The commission and council also have differed recently on the application of Crete Carrier and Triple K-T Stables for a change of zone from AA Rural and Public Use to H-2 Highway Commercial at NW 56th St and West O

The commission recommended denial of the applica- at its June 24 meeting. The council approved the final reading of the application at its last meeting.

Wednesday, the commission also voted to recommend denial of a proposed change of zone from A-1 Single Family to K Light Industry on property south of Old Cheney Rd. on the west side of 56th St.

Don Bergquist, representing the Lincoln Racquet Club, is requesting the zone change for the construction of a $400,000 indoor tennis court.

Brogden had pointed out to the commission at an earlier meeting that the court could be built under a special permit in the A-1 zoning.

Commission members indicated that they are in favor of the proposed tennis court, but object to a zoning change which would make it possible in the future for another type of light commercial enterprise at the location.

In other action, the commission recommended:

—Approval of special permit, A & H Realty to construct and operate a parking lot on the NE corner of 18th and M Sts

—Approval of special permit, Bruce Anderson, to construct a parking lot on the NE corner 13th and D Sts

—Approval Trenwood fifth addition preliminary and final plat, 84th and Van Dorn

—Approval North Side Village second addition, vicinity of 14th and Adams

—Approval change of zone, Rose Lotman, from B Two Family to I Commercial on property east of 27th, south side of Holdrege

—Denial change of zone, Katherine and Reginald Donlan, from B Two Family to D Multiple on property at 44th and St Paul

—Deferred action on change of zone, Joseph G Dudek from B Two Family to C Multiple on property at 66th and Ballard

—Approval change of zone, Educators Security Insurance Co, from F Restricted Commercial to H-1 Highway Business on property between P and R Sts, west side of Cotner

—Denial change of zone, Gretchen and Duane Mock, from B Two Family to D Multiple on property on the south side of Lowell between 49th and 51st Sts

—Approval of special permit, Max W Taylor, to construct and operate a parking lot on SE corner of 56th & N Sts

—Approval of special permit, Green Briar Inc, to develop a community unit plan on property at 56th and Pioneers Blvd, adjacent to Holmes Park, and preliminary plat of Georgetown West

—Denial of special permit, F Pace Woods II, trustee, to develop a community unit plan on property south of Old Cheney Road, west of Chez Ami Knolls

—Approval of special permit, David H Murdock, to adjust the front yard requirement on the west side of NW 12th St, north of West Upland Avenue

—Approval of special permit George A Bess, to install a canopy on property in the NW corner of 27th and A Sts

—Approval of special permit Bryan Memorial Hospital, to enlarge existing hospital 48th and Sumner

The commission also approved as area clearinghouse for review of projects seeking federal aid

—Request for grant made by City of Lincoln for development of 12 park projects

—Manpower Planning Grant

Nun Is Jailed Indefinitely Following Refusal To Testify About Murder

Jersey City, N.J (UPI) — A Roman Catholic nun who refused to tell a grand jury what she knew about a murder was jailed indefinitely Wednesday for contempt of court Her attorney said he planned no further legal action

Sister Margaret Murtha, 32, a Dominican nun of St. Boniface Convent here, was ordered lodged in the Hudson County Jail by Superior Court Judge A. Alfred Fink.

Attorney Robert Podvev of Newark, who had argued Sister Margaret's case all the way to the state supreme court, said he planned no further appeals

"The courts have spoken and she is suffering the consequences — unfortunately," Podvey said

Sister Margaret had refused on grounds of conscience to testify before a grand jury on what she knew about the death of Harold Conroy, 36, a public school employe found beaten to death on a street here in February, 1970

She was called before the panel because police said she told them one of her students came to her at the convent and told her he had gotten into a fight with a man and knocked him to the street. She claimed a "priests privilege," which permits priests to refuse to disclose what is revealed to them during the course of their duties

Sister Margaret was accompanied in court by Sister Vivian, Mother-General of the Dominican Order. Both were clad in white habits.

Judge Fink said both sisters "wholeheartedly" concurred that Sister Margaret's refusal to testify was proper The judge said he gave Sister Margaret an opportunity to change her mind but that she refused

A witness jailed in contempt of a grand jury may be freed when the term of the panel expires The grand jury Sister Margaret refused to testify before will sit until Sept. 23.

Paris Fashions

BY BERNADINE MORRIS
(c) New York Times Service

Paris — Yves Saint Laurent resented an outrageous ollection on the first day of the all and winter fashion showing ere and everybody's going to opy him. So be prepared for igantic shoulders, lampshade resses, stockings with black eams and quilted satin vening jackets.

He received a drubbing for is last collection, which zeroed n on the 1940s and went on to spire half the designers in ome and New York. You an imagine what will happen ith this one, which was wildly eered.

The 1940s are still with us in oats and jackets with ormous shoulders and athers at the tops of the leeves to boot. The coats have set waistbands and a lot of athers under the yokes and on't look nearly as dismal as ou might think. In fact, once ou get used to the idea, they eem loaded with charm. Then ou notice the shoes: rmsoled high wedgies with kle strap uppers in three lors.

Soon another century gets to the act and we have the mpshade dresses in silk ffeta with myriad ruffles on e skirt and tucks through the iddle. Their time is the 1880s. aint Laurent has been reading oust.

Now hear this. A couple of em, including the bridal wn, have bustles. There's a ught for todays.

Well, never mind. The whole ing was a melange of past d present, like Proust, esented with vivacity and it. Count among the outrages e brown fox boa wrapped round the purpled ttlejacket, the crocheted orts under one of the ammoth-shoulder coats, the ittering man-eating tiger ies pinned to the bodice of me slinky velvet evening esses. Or you might prefer e silver fox bolero with a fox il hanging down over each nd.

Oh, Saint Laurent was having good time. He was poking fun all the others who ever told eir daughters they couldn't ssibly go out looking like at. He was burlesquing all e rules of good taste. He was rrowing from the past, from e maddest fashions on the eets and from the boutiques.

His models posed and anced and gazed up at the nexistent balcony like Lynne ntanne in one of her most amatic roles.

Underneath the posturing lay ne of the styles that are ing to be seen everywhere xt winter, having received e Saint Laurent stamp of proval. Watch out for:

Belted toppers, broad shoulred or not, over pants.

Velvet artists' smocks with ay flannel pants for day, ick wool ones for evening.

Quilted satin jackets with tball shoulders, like a inese super-peasant's garb, a basic evening wrap.

It's just a sampling of ideas m the anti-establishment turier who was fashion in palm of his hand at the ment.

What about the establishment? Well, it has a fine defender in the house of Christian Dior, where elegance is rampant.

Marc Bohan, the Dior designer, decided a few months back to get the week of fashion showings off to a strong start by presenting his collection on the first day.

Beautiful clothes that are often opulent. Its effects are achieved through seaming and shaping in the time-honored couture way.

To be specific, there are charming coats, small through the bodice and flaring from a high waistline. There's a trio of black ones reversing to range, red or fuchsia, with a trio of dresses to match. There's a white and black, over a dress that carries out the same lines. You see what we mean about seams.

There are even good-looking wool day dresses, not the kind you'd wear on a motor bike or to the supermarket, but, say, to a charity luncheon. They have shapely princess lines and — here we go again — artful seams.

But all this is by way of prologue to the enchanting evening dresses.

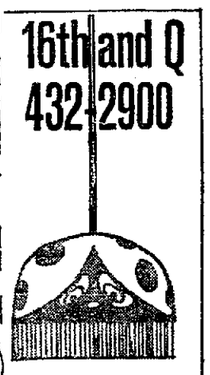

Among the blacks, one might waver between the georgette with a ruffle above the knee and the jumper over a blouse of silver and gold paillettes. But you didn't have to settle for blacks. There were cerise and orange and peach and bright red styles, often with a cape or coat in matching wool.

The capes fitted snugly through the top instead of flaring around as some do, anchoring the arms to the sides. One wondered how one managed the buttons.

Dior made one concession to the fashions in the streets. Pinned to the upper arm of many a coat, suit and dress was an enamel shield inscribed with the initials C. D. over a chevron stripe. It reflects the rage for Army insignia and seems a bit out of place.

Between vacations and visitors, the suburban areas have been fluctuating greatly in population this summer. Entire families or one family member at a time have been leaving Lincoln, with others arriving to fill their places — but all of this is strictly temporary and soon, about the time the school bells begin to ring, everything will be back to normal.

But first let's see what has been causing this population change recently.

The population of the Park Manor home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Price has diminished recently since the couple's two sons are in Iowa visiting friends and relatives. But then the population was increased by one on Monday when Miss Marilyn-Rae Price's guest arrived in Lincoln for a three-day visit.

The guest was Miss Shari Reimers of Omaha, a long-time friend of Marilyn-Rae's — and they also share the same interest which is baton twirling

By the way, Miss Reimers is the Nebraska Our Little Miss, and, during her stay, she did some shopping in preparation for her September trip to Miami Beach, Fla., and the National Our Little Miss Pageant.

The two twirling buddies also took in the Children's Zoo, some swimming, a tour of the Capitol, and the roller skating championships.

Returning to the two absent members of the Price family, we have news that Shaun and Terry are both spending a few weeks in Sioux City, Iowa — but there is little chance that their paths will cross while in our neighboring state.

You see, Shaun left Lincoln on Thursday to visit with his buddy, Rex Schlag, and Rex's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schlag. While in Sioux City the boys hope to spend many hours at the Rivercade — a carnival. Shaun will return home the first part of next week.

And his brother, Terry, has been spending several weeks in Sioux City where he is visiting with his grandmother, Mrs. Amy Price. Terry also plans to make his return journey sometime next week.

Another suburban family has been busy entertaining a visiting son in-law and daughter and their son. In this case it is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Holtgrewe of Country Club Terrace which has been filled with the foosteps of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jokerst and their son, Michael, who is a year and a half. Mr. and Mrs. Jokerst and the small Michael arrived in Lincoln a week ago Wednesday, and will spend two weeks at the Holtgrewe home.

Last Saturday evening, Mrs. Jokerst's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Holtgrewe were host and hostess at a party for the visiting family at their home. The affair took on the casualness of an outdoor cookout, with a barbeque as the featured attraction.

Sunday was spent in Johnson at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holtgrewe, Mr. Holtgrewe's uncle and aunt, and a trip was made to Daykin on Friday, for a visit with grandfather.

On Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Jokerst and Mike, left Lincoln for a short drive to Tamora, to visit with Mr. Jokerst's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Helget.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Hill greeted guests not so long ago at their Prairie Valley home. The visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Vern Zimmerman of Washington, D.C., where Mr. Zimmerman is with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Zimmermans are former residents of Lincoln.

No matter which way the wind vane is pointing North, South, East or West, there is adventure adrift in any direction for vacationing suburban residents.

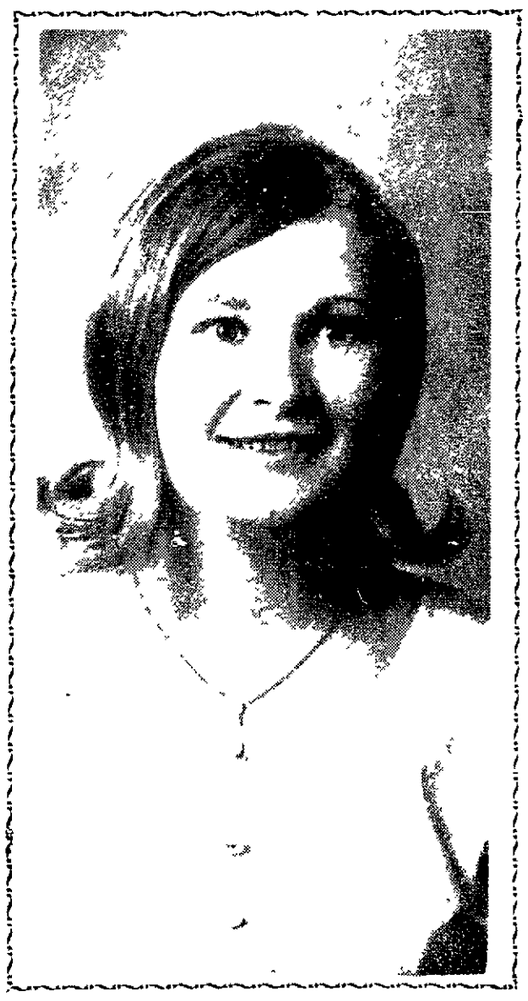

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colborn of the Fiene Heights suburb took off in an easterly direction during the month of July for an extravaganza trip.

The first stop was in Raleigh, N.C., where they spent a week both as visitors and as tourists. Then, for the second week, they were off to that grand city that houses the White House — Washington, D.C., of course.

There was adventure afloat in their next stay at Atlanta Beach, N.C. The adventure involved none other than exciting deep sea fishing and an enlarged version of "the fish that got away" no doubt.

Once Mr. and Mrs. Colborn had a taste of boat life, they decided to have more than just a sample — So, they went a bit further and boarded a house boat in Gordon, Tenn., for a four-day leisurely cruise.

Once in the east, the travelers decided that after a month of fun it was time to switch directions and head back west for Nebraskaland.

MISS LOIS BALCOM

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Clare R. Balcom of Cambridge make announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Lois Ann, to AMN Joseph D. Gillam, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Gillam.

No wedding date is named.

Miss Balcom is careering in Lincoln.

Mr. Gillam is a graduate of the Nebraska Vocational Technical School at Milford, and currently is serving with the U.S. Air Force at Ent Air Force Base, Colorado.

Betrothal Revealed

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne N. Johnson of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sandra Kay, to Charles Lee Sinclair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane M. Sinclair.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Aug. 28.

Miss Johnson is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in elementary education.

Mr. Sinclair also is a junior at the University of Nebraska where he, too, is majoring in education.

The wedding is planned for late October.

Miss Cattle is a graduate of Temple Buell College (the former Colorado Woman's College) in Denver, Colo., and now is taking graduate work in languages and linguistics at Georgetown University in Washington D.C.

Dr. Solyom received his doctorate degrees from the Medical University of Szeged, Hungary, and the University of Oklahoma at Norman. He now is associated with the U.S. National Institute of Health.

Engagement

Delta Gamma and Phi Kappa Psi circles will share interest in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Dobesh of Ogallala, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Debra Joleen, to John Richard Dosek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Dosek of Crofton, Md.

Sunday, Aug. 8, has been chosen as the date of the wedding.

Miss Dobesh is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Delta Gamma sorority, and where she majored in elementary education.

Mr. Dosek is a senior in the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry, and is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

suburbia

Between vacations and visitors, the suburban areas have been fluctuating greatly in population this summer. Entire families or one family member at a time have been leaving Lincoln, with others arriving to fill their places — but all of this is strictly temporary and soon, about the time the school bells begin to ring, everything will be back to normal.

But first let's see what has been causing this population change recently.

The population of the Park Manor home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Price has diminished recently since the couple's two sons are in Iowa visiting friends and relatives. But then the population was increased by one on Monday when Miss Marilyn-Rae Price's guest arrived in Lincoln for a three-day visit.

The guest was Miss Shari Reimers of Omaha, a long-time friend of Marilyn-Rae's — and they also share the same interest which is baton twirling.

By the way, Miss Reimers is the Nebraska Our Little Miss, and, during her stay, she did some shopping in preparation for her September trip to Miami Beach, Fla., and the National Our Little Miss Pageant.

The two twirling buddies also took in the Children's Zoo, some swimming, a tour of the Capitol, and the roller skating championships.

Returning to the two absent members of the Price family, we have news that Shaun and Terry are both spending a few weeks in Sioux City, Iowa — but there is little chance that their paths will cross while in our neighboring state.

You see, Shaun left Lincoln on Thursday to visit with his buddy, Rex Schlag, and Rex's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schlag. While in Sioux City the boys hope to spend many hours at the Rivercade — a carnival. Shaun will return home the first part of next week.

And his brother, Terry, has been spending several weeks in Sioux City where he is visiting with his grandmother, Mrs. Amy Price. Terry also plans to make his return journey sometime next week.

Another suburban family has been busy entertaining a visiting son in-law and daughter and their son. In this case it is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Holtgrewe of Country Club Terrace which has been filled with the foosteps of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jokerst and their son, Michael, who is a year and a half. Mr. and Mrs. Jokerst and the small Michael arrived in Lincoln a week ago Wednesday, and will spend two weeks at the Holtgrewe home.

Last Saturday evening, Mrs. Jokerst's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Holtgrewe were host and hostess at a party for the visiting family at their home. The affair took on the casualness of an outdoor cookout, with a barbeque as the featured attraction.

Sunday was spent in Johnson at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holtgrewe, Mr. Holtgrewe's uncle and aunt, and a trip was made to Daykin on Friday, for a visit with grandfather.

On Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Jokerst and Mike, left Lincoln for a short drive to Tamora, to visit with Mr. Jokerst's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Helget.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Hill greeted guests not so long ago at their Prairie Valley home. The visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Vern Zimmerman of Washington, D.C., where Mr. Zimmerman is with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Zimmermans are former residents of Lincoln.

No matter which way the wind vane is pointing North, South, East or West, there is adventure adrift in any direction for vacationing suburban residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colborn of the Fiene Heights suburb took off in an easterly direction during the month of July for an extravaganza trip.

The first stop was in Raleigh, N.C., where they spent a week both as visitors and as tourists. Then, for the second week, they were off to that grand city that houses the White House — Washington, D.C., of course.

There was adventure afloat in their next stay at Atlanta Beach, N.C. The adventure involved none other than exciting deep sea fishing and an enlarged version of "the fish that got away" no doubt.

Once Mr. and Mrs. Colborn had a taste of boat life, they decided to have more than just a sample — So, they went a bit further and boarded a house boat in Gordon, Tenn., for a four-day leisurely cruise.

Once in the east, the travelers decided that after a month of fun it was time to switch directions and head back west for Nebraskaland.

MISS LOIS BALCOM

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Clare R. Balcom of Cambridge make announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Lois Ann, to AMN Joseph D. Gillam, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Gillam.

No wedding date is named.

Miss Balcom is careering in Lincoln.

Mr. Gillam is a graduate of the Nebraska Vocational Technical School at Milford, and currently is serving with the U.S. Air Force at Ent Air Force Base, Colorado.

Betrothal Revealed

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Wayne N. Johnson of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sandra Kay, to Charles Lee Sinclair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane M. Sinclair.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Aug. 28.

Miss Johnson is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in elementary education.

Mr. Sinclair also is a junior at the University of Nebraska where he, too, is majoring in education.

BOOKS "Stillwell and the American Experience in China, 1911-45"

BY CYNTHIA JOHNSON

The attitude of the American people — diplomats and military strategists included — towards China, has typically been characterized by a large degree of miscalculation. During the early years of the 20th century, the importance of the eastern giant as a political entity was overlooked as the United States concentrated on purely economic pursuis. Later on, as this country realized that China was emerging as a world power, we attempted to influence its political development; and subsequent behavior was based on an overestimation of the motives and viability of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Regime.

Barbara W. Tuchman's recently-published book, "Stilwell and the American Experience in China, 1911-45," employs the vehicle of biography to chronicle the development and implications of these and other miscalculations. Her emphasis is on the effect that these errors in judgment had on the diplomatic maneuverings of the United States, as well as on the fortunes of America's number one man in China, Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell. Mrs. Tuchman has artfully interwoven her biographical and historical narratives in producing a book that captures the frictions that result when two vastly different cultures attempt to achieve a degree of cooperation and understanding.

Stilwell's official acquaintance with China dated back to the end of World War I, when he was appointed the Army's chief language officer for that country; and it continued through most of World War II when the General served as Allied commander for the China-Burma-India theater. Due to aspects of his personality which predisposed him to favor contact with "the masses" over his social obligations to ranking officials, he acquired an intimate knowledge of the East that was denied most observers.

The author has portrayed effectively the frustrations and reversals met by Stilwell, as he attempted, during the 1940's, to convince American policy-makers of the importance of China to the war effort; and as he adjusted his behavior to deal with Chiang's tottering regime. One is particularly impressed with the futility of Stilwell's struggle to get Chiang to launch an offensive drive against Japan's encroachments, and the Generalissimo's corresponding single-minded concentration on an attempt to shore up his regime against the Communists. The dichotomy between what the American public was told regarding the corrupt and inefficient Nationalist government, and the reality of the situation as seen through the eyes of Stilwell, also becomes starkly apparent.

Mrs. Tuchman, who served as a correspondent in the Far East during World War II, and whose literary credits include the Pulitizer Prize-winning book, "The Guns of August," has, to a great degree, escaped the biographer's tendency to over-praise her subject. Although the impression she conveys of the General is basically favorable, the less laudatory aspects of his personality are not excluded. Stilwell was short-tempered, bigoted and ego-centric (witness his fear that "There will never be a single work of history with me in it"). However, he also possessed an understanding of the Chinese situation which might well have been heeded by his superiors.

Although perhaps a bit too detailed for popular consumption, "The American Experience in China" is a valuable addition to historical research. To this date, Mrs. Tuchman is the only historian allowed access to the entirety of the Stilman papers — this fact alone rendering the book an important contribution. In addition, the conclusions that she draws from her subject's experiences — especially her observation that Stilwell's mission of introducing combat efficiency into China was an unachievable goal — seem especially cogent.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

Opening lead — king of spades.

First, let's see what's meant by a backward finesse. Ordinarily, if declarer has the North-South diamond combination, he cashes the king and plays a diamond to the jack. If East has the queen, the finesse wins and South makes three diamond tricks. In the absence of clues that indicate otherwise, South has a 50% chance of winning the finesse.

Note that in the present case declarer would make only two diamond tricks if he played the suit this way. But note also that South can win three tricks by leading the unsupported jack. Leading an unsupported honor is contrary to all the canons of card play, but it is undeniably effective in the present case.

Thus, if West ducks the jack, South has three diamond tricks. If West covers the jack with the queen, declarer wins the king, finesses the nine on the return, and again has three diamonds tricks.

The backward finesse is the right play in this hand. When declarer ruffs the third spade and leads a trump, East shows up with the ace, and it is then reasonable to conclude that East cannot also have the queen of diamonds in view of his pass to one spade.

Accordingly, after drawing trumps and cashing three clubs, South leads the jack of diamonds, knowing that West has the queen and hoping that East has the ten. As a result, the combination finesse succeeds and South makes the contract.

If summers in the near future follow the trend of 1971, June will be but a runner-up in the matter of popularity with the brides As a matter of fact we have the feeling that the approaching month already has overtaken last month's calendar of weddings.

One of those popular August brides-elect is Miss Victoria — Vicki, for short — Spurgin whose marriage to Frederic James will be solemnized on Saturday, Aug. 14, and who has been kept busy with courtesies.

Complimenting the soon-to-be bride on Tuesday evening, for instance, were Miss Carol Batt, Mrs. Richard Marolf, and Mrs. Roger Keetle who were hostesses at an informal party and shower at the home of Miss Batt.

'Friendship Link' Planned

Keeping in touch with other area clubs is a very important facet of any organization — it is good for fellowship and also for exchanging ideas — Ideas for programs and projects are what keep the members interested, and the community prospers from organizations that constantly are aware of the needs of the community and of its members.

An exchange of ideas will take place on Sunday, Aug. 1, when the members of the Soroptimist Club of Lincoln will serve as hostesses for the regular "Friendship Link" Sunday for the Soroptimist members of Area 3 of the North Central Region of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Inc. The event will be the third such meeting sponsored by the Lincoln Club.

The "Friendship Link" event will be in the form of an indoor picnic buffet for which Mrs. Harold L. Tarr, president of the Lincoln club, will be hostess at her home, Bayberry Farm, located near Bennet.

Representatives from Beatrice, Columbus, and Sioux City, Iowa, are scheduled to arrive at 11:30 o'clock on Sunday morning. Before the 1 o'clock buffet, the representatives will exchange ideas for the coming club year, discuss programs and projects, and become better acquainted with "next-door link" clubs.

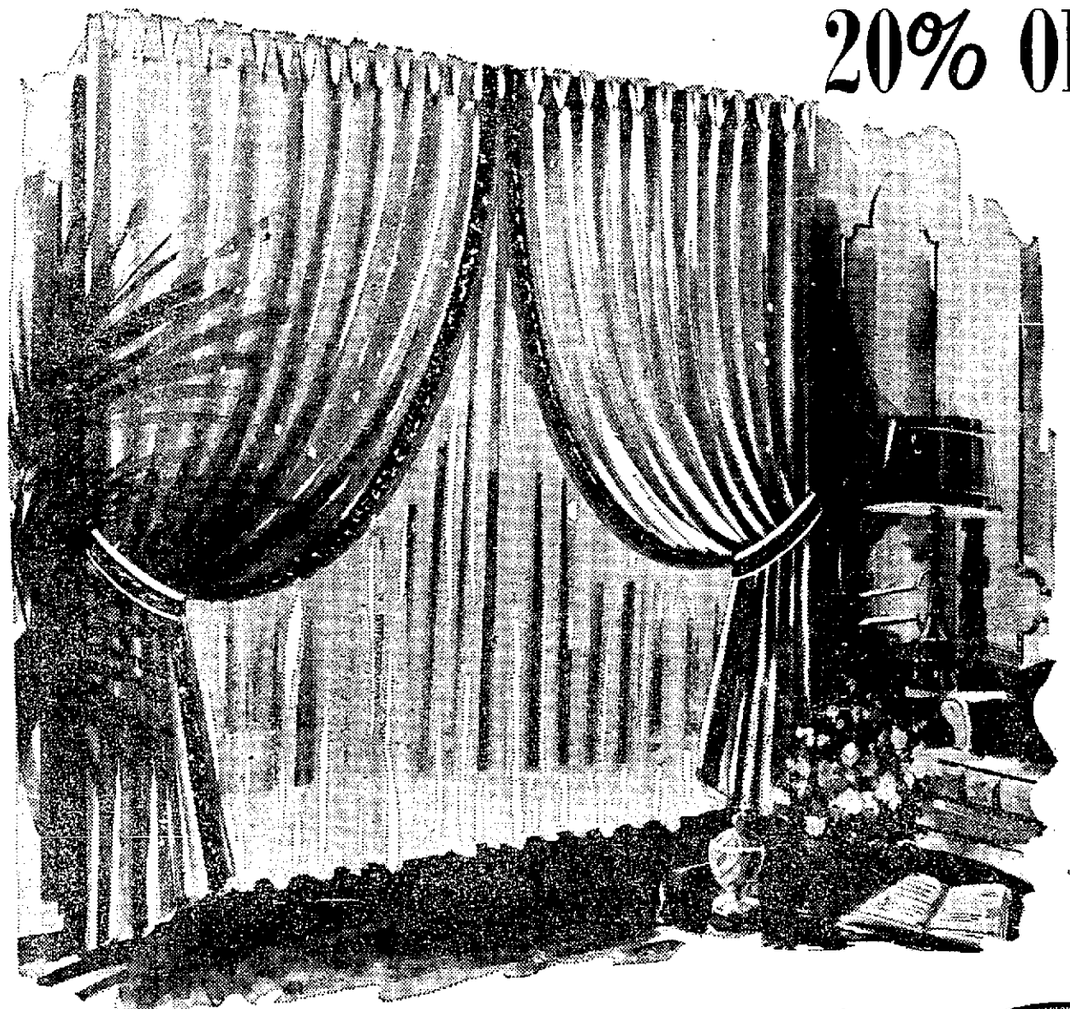

The "friendship links" idea was originated nearly four decades ago for the purpose of promoting friendship, cooperation, and mutual understanding through exchange of letters, informational materials, periodicals, and personal visits.

The "links" are also used to promote friendship and goodwill through personal correspondence and contact with Soroptimists in other countries.

'Friendship Link' Planned

Keeping in touch with other area clubs is a very important facet of any organization — it is good for fellowship and also for exchanging ideas — Ideas for programs and projects are what keep the members interested, and the community prospers from organizations that constantly are aware of the needs of the community and of its members.

An exchange of ideas will take place on Sunday, Aug. 1, when the members of the Soroptimist Club of Lincoln will serve as hostesses for the regular "Friendship Link" Sunday for the Soroptimist members of Area 3 of the North Central Region of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Inc. The event will be the third such meeting sponsored by the Lincoln Club.

The "Friendship Link" event will be in the form of an indoor picnic buffet for which Mrs. Harold L. Tarr, president of the Lincoln club, will be hostess at her home, Bayberry Farm, located near Bennet.

Representatives from Beatrice, Columbus, and Sioux City, Iowa, are scheduled to arrive at 11:30 o'clock on Sunday morning. Before the 1 o'clock buffet, the representatives will exchange ideas for the coming club year, discuss programs and projects, and become better acquainted with "next-door link" clubs.

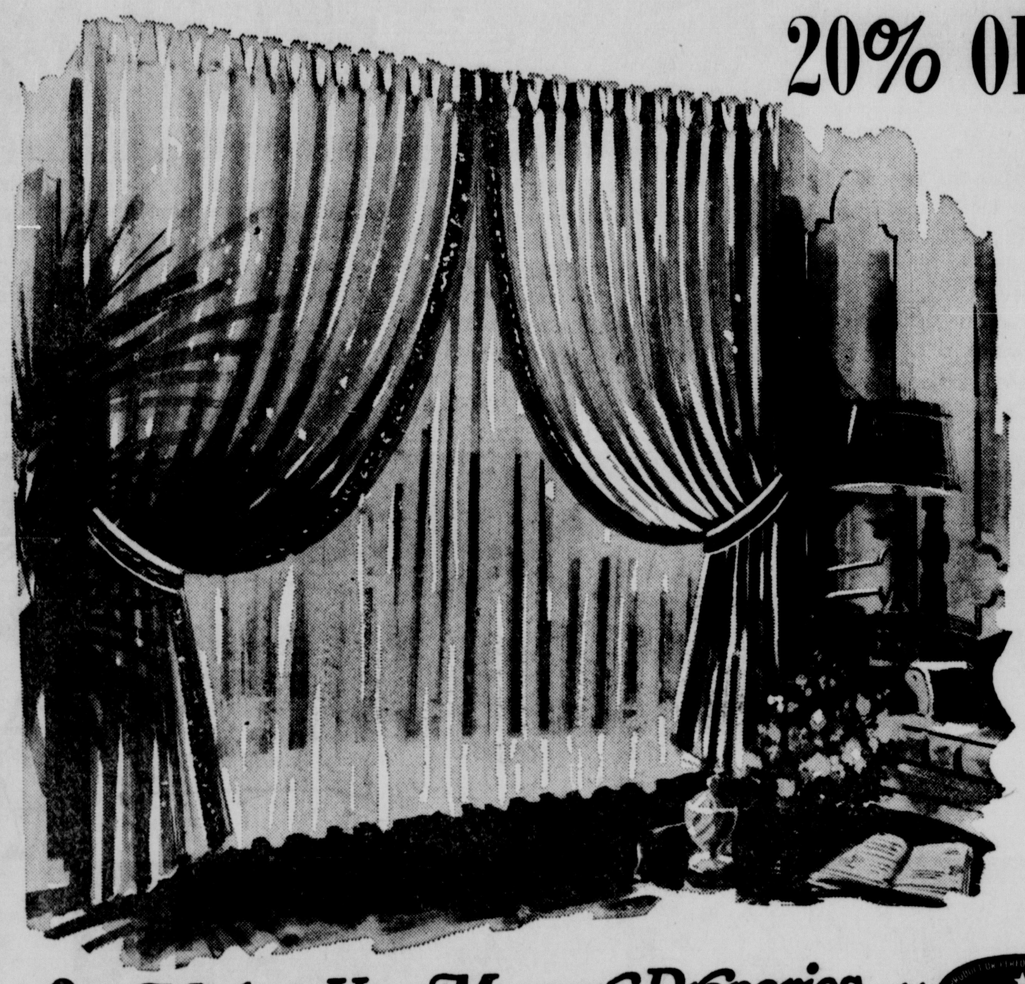

The "friendship links" idea was originated nearly four decades ago for the purpose of promoting friendship, cooperation, and mutual understanding through exchange of letters, informational materials, periodicals, and personal visits.

The "links" are also used to promote friendship and goodwill through personal correspondence and contact with Soroptimists in other countries.

THE LINCOLN STAR, THURSDAY, JULY 29

Abby: shut off those complaints and preserve your sanity

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a wife and the mother of teen-agers, but my biggest problem is my parents! They have never got along, and I hear it every day from both sides. Especially my mother. If she isn't here complaining in person, she's on the phone. She starts out with, "Now I don't want you to think less of your father, but as our daughter you have a right to know what's going on." Then she proceeds to tear him to shreds. (I'm not the only one in the family she complains to, but I am the favorite wailing-wall.)

I have sat them both down and begged them to get professional help and quit running to relatives, but they don't want help. They'd rather complain and make everyone else as miserable as they are.

Abby, I may lay awake nights worrying about my teen-agers, but my parents will never hear a word. Who should I burden them with my problems? They aren't going to solve them for me. On the other hand, I try to keep my parents' problems from my husband and children. I fell like a sponge being sopped from both sides and never allowed to drip.

I know a daughter can't disown her own parents, but if only they realized what they were doing to me, maybe they would let up. In the meantime, how can I keep my sanity — or what's left of it?

DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: If you really want to perserve your sanity, you will shut off your parents' complaints in whatever ways are necessary. And don't feel guilty!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

So Sew

BY GAIL HERSTEAD

As fashions present a personality extension, so do walls and I can't think of anything worse than "wall-flower" walls!

An easy solution that fills the interior decorator's quick trick bill is the wall hanging —a length of fabric affixed to an artist's frame.

The choice of fabric should coincide with your sense of interior design whether it be traditional, following the Bauhaus School, Mediterranean, casual or wildly electric.

Stiff materials hang the best and you should avoid certain dark colors or textures which attract lint. Visualize the design, print or solid in various sizes before stringing it across the wall like a loud banner. Remember that size-wise, the wall hanging serves as a furnishing and should be taken into as much consideration as each sofa or chair.

Decide on the dimension, gather the fabric and then assemble the following materials: wood stretchers — which are available at an art supply store, and a heavy-duty stapler.

Fit the wood stretchers together at the notched ends and arrange the material over the assembled framework. Now, as in stretching an artist's canvas, gently grasp one side of the fabric, bend it around the frame to the back edge and firmly place one staple in the center. Now, go to the opposite side and repeat until all four sides are attached to the frame at the centerpoint of each side. Continue stapling the edges down—at all four ends and in between the end and center points until the wall hanging is secure.

Nowadays, the hand-stitched quaint sampler, framed and situated in the middle of a vast wall, which declares "God Bless This Home" just does not "grace" the wall as it used to do. Pictures and wall hangings show off to a greater advantage if they hang high or low and are offset, rather than lazily placed in the middle—there is no middle ground in the picture hanging business!

FROM THE NEEDLE'S EYE . . . Take a trip to Seward on Monday evening, August 9 for an 8 o'clock showing of Fabric Landscapes Fall 1971 at the Jones National Bank Auditorium. Vogue, Butterick, Simplicity and McCalls' pattern designers have put together a trunk showing of fall-winter designs.

Foot Care

Gripping with your toes and then extending them to the ceiling, as shown above, is good for ailing feet.

Josephine Lowman

Here is some help from the distinguished foot specialist, Dr. Louis A. Alchermes. This is especially important during hot weather when so much summer fun is spoiled by foot discomfort.

"Wash feet daily. This does not necessarily mean an extra foot soak, but just a little extra attention either in the bathtub or when showering.

"Dry feet thoroughly but gently. Do not spread toes too far as they may crack or fissure between the toewebs. Blot dry.

"Sprinkle a good foot powder (anti-fungal preferably) between the toes.

"When toenails need trimming, do not rush but take time and cut nails as straight across as possible. Try not to cut nails shorter than flesh on distal end of toe.

"At home don't make the mistake of wearing the oldest or softest shoes or house slippers. The best shoes are shoes with good support and a medium heel.

"When having shoes fitted, always stand on both feet and have the salesman measure both feet. Don't count on "breaking in" the shoes. If they don't fit in the store, they are not for you. Shoes with high heels are not bad if worn infrequently and for short periods of time, but are definitely harmful if worn continuously. A common cry of calf pain when switching from high to low heels is often heard. This is due to the shortening of the calf muscle when naught but the high heeled shoe has been worn. High heeled, pointed shoes are the best friend a podiatrist ever had."

Not only should your shoes be properly fitted but your stockings should be selected with care as to size and material. They should be at least one-half to three-quarters of an inch longer than the foot on weight bearing. Some persons have an allergic reaction to nylons.

When muscles weaken, the bones of the foot do not stay in place. Try these exercises for your feet. Sit on a chair with your legs extended out in front of you, knees stiff and heels on the floor. Grip hard with your toes. Raise toes toward the ceiling. Continue gripping and extending toes.

Another: Stand tall. Roll onto the outsides of your feet. Roll back. Continue slowly.

Josephine Lowman offers suggestions and exercises in her free leaflet, "Essential Daily Routine for Beauty and Health." To receive a copy send a stamped self-addressed envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star.

Exchange Visits 'Possible'

Washington (AP) — The White House says there have been no plans for President Nixon and Emperor Hirohito of Japan to exchange visits but did not rule out the possibility.

Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan said Tuesday he hopes the emperor will visit the United States and that perhaps President Nixon could return the visit later.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Tuesday there has been no formal discussion but "we would welcome a visit from the emperor."

Asked whether Nixon would welcome an opportunity to visit Japan, Ziegler said "there is no plan at this time" for him to go to Japan.

Exchange Visits 'Possible'

Washington (AP) — The White House says there have been no plans for President Nixon and Emperor Hirohito of Japan to exchange visits but did not rule out the possibility.

Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan said Tuesday he hopes the emperor will visit the United States and that perhaps President Nixon could return the visit later.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Tuesday there has been no formal discussion but "we would welcome a visit from the emperor."

Asked whether Nixon would welcome an opportunity to visit Japan, Ziegler said "there is no plan at this time" for him to go to Japan.

Civil Rights Leader Claims Nixon Has Mixed Record

Detroit (UPI) — Vernon E. Jordan Jr., executive director of the National Urban League said Wednesday the left hand of the Nixon administration takes from blacks what the right hand gave them, called on the President to "make a spiritual pilgrimage to black America."

In his first major speech since taking over the reins of the powerful civil rights organization, Jordan closed the league's 61st annual conference at a banquet by outlining plans for a voter registration drive in the North, a program to educate corporate executives in the ghettos and a drug prevention project.

Jordan, 35, who will not formally assume his post at the NUL until next year when he ends a stint as head of the United Negro College Fund, said the major goals of the civil rights movement in the 1970s must be to "consolidate and implement" the gains of the 1960s and to provide blacks with economic power.

The Nixon policy, Jordan said, has been a "pattern of one step forward, matched by another back . . . in viewing this mixed record of the administration, we ask it to bring forth from those clouds of ambiguity the bright rays of clarity; we ask it to make its positive achievement a base from which to launch a total commitment, with massive resources, for an end to poverty and racism."

As examples of "right hand giveth and the left hand taketh away," Jordan cited welfare reform, revenue sharing, housing and other areas.

Welcoming the welfare reform proposal, Jordan likened it to applying a band-aid where surgery was required. He called the revenue-sharing plan one of "political expedience," saying he approved the concept but noting it would continue to provide funds to communities with a history of discrimination.

The President's recent statement that the government would enforce laws against discrimination in housing, but would honor economic barriers was a "cruel crushing blow to all who need decent housing," Jordan said.

"As the President prepares for this historic journey to China, we of the urban league movement ask him to make spiritual pilgrimage to black America to demonstrate his concern with the hungry children of the urban ghettos and the rural farmlands." he said.

At a news conference before his speech, Jordan said the administration has demonstrated a "perfect example" of ambiguity by failing to enforce the 1969 voting rights act in Mississippi, where the legislature has passed a requirement for voters to register — a move which some estimate may cost 100,000 black votes.

Police Seek 'Good Cop' After $142,000 Holdup

New York (UPI) — Police in 13 states were on the lookout Wednesday for "a very good cop" suspected of masterminding a $142,000 holdup in the political heart of New York.

Two Brinks guards and an elevator operator were shot and wounded in the daring daylight robbery in the Municipal Building, across the street from City Hall.

Patrolman John R. Crocker, 42, has not reported for duty in the Brooklyn precinct to which he was assigned since July 9, the day three men armed with a sawed-off shotgun and a pistol took the money from guards who were delivering it to a credit union.

Bloodstains were found in the gang's abandoned getaway car, and police believe at least one of the holdup men — perhaps Crocker — was wounded by an off-duty patrolman who fired several shots at the fleeing bandits.

Crocker was suspended by the police department last Thursday. A 13-state alarm was issued, after witnesses identified him from photographs as the leader of the holdup gang.

The suspect was described as 5 feet 10½ inches tall, weighing 218 pounds. Police said he is "armed with a .38-caliber Colt pistol and is considered extremely dangerous."

In 15 years as a policeman, Crocker had been cited three times. He lived quietly in a four-family house in Brooklyn with his second wife and two children, a boy and girl.

People who knew Crocker were shocked by the news that he was wanted by the police.

One Of Men Who Chose Lincoln As Capital Left Dictated Memories

Star Staff Writer

An 80-year-old Lincoln woman remembers Thomas Perkins Kennard as an old gentleman who loved to talk about how the city became an "educational, moral and religious town."

Of course, Kennard, the state's first secretary of state and one of three commissioners who chose Lincoln as the capital 104 years ago Thursday, wasn't always old.

But when Mrs. Ethel Taylor first met him in 1908, Kennard, who she calls Mr. T.P., was in his early 80s.

"His eyesight was poor and he walked with a cane. He was a short man and a little stout, but very dignified with white hair," she recalled.

Girl In Teens

Mrs. Taylor, who was in her late teens at the time, met Kennard when she started working as a secretary for the old Western Glass and Paint Company of which Kennard was president.

"Mr. T.P. liked to talk much more about the city's early days than he did business," she said.

Mrs. Taylor recalled that he often invited her and other employes to his home at 1645 H where he would "talk by the hour" about Lincoln and "how proud he was of its growth."

Kennard's first home, started in 1869 at 1627 H is now the Nebraska State Memorial, but in later years he lived several doors down the street.

Dictation Treasured

Mrs. Taylor can't remember many of the stories Kennard told her, but she treasures a long dictation that Kennard had her take down on Oct. 13, 1910, about how Lincoln became the state capital.

She explained that Kennard was concerned that many people did not know how the capital was chosen and the city established.

In the dictation, Kennard is recorded as saying, "There is perhaps not one man, woman, or child in a hundred in the city of Lincoln that knows the facts" and "I felt I wanted to put some of this early history on record."

The story of how Kennard and the other commissioners met on July 29, 1867, in a cabin's attic on the site of the present Lincoln Journal and Star building to pick Lincoln (until then called Lancaster) as the capital is now well-documented in history books.

Period Documented

The books also document the period following this meeting when land was surveyed, plots auctioned and money raised for the state buildings in the city.

But Kennard's personal dictation adds some insight into what the commissioners were thinking as they began transforming a small village into the state's capital.

(In the dictation, Kennard remembers the historic meeting where Lincoln was chosen as taking place July 19. The history books say, however, it was July 29.)

Kennard's dictation stresses that the commissioners wanted an "Educational, moral and religious town."

"We were thoroughly impressed with the idea that we should start out and make it an educational city . . .," he told Mrs. Taylor

5 Blocks Reserved

"We then took up the question of schools. Here in the prairie grass, we decided to make reservation of five blocks for school purposes instead of having the future citizens of the capital pay large sums of money for groups to locate school houses upon."

Kennard also noted that "the object was to make a park around every school house . . ."

"All these reservations were simply a matter of judgment and a desire in laying the foundations of the future capital, to make it as lovely as possible with parks all over," the dictation says.

He explains they "took another step that I think should come home to every religious, law abiding, citizen of this city. We issued a proclamation that any church organization in the state that would send proper authorities here and select three lots, that we would reserve those three lots and not sell them at public auction."

The dictation says that this method, authorized by the Legislature, brought Methodist, Catholic, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Congregational and Campbellite churches.

Kennard died in Lincoln on June 24, 1920, at the age of 92.

Narcotics Seized

Goteborg, Sweden (UPI) — Swedish customs officers doubled their seizures of narcotics in 1970. Most of the drugs were confiscated in the ports of the Oeresund Strait, dividing Denmark and Sweden. Seizures totaled 638, with LSD amphetamine and cannabis contributing most of the haul.

New York Times' Net Income Down

New York (AP) — The New York Times Co. Wednesday reported lower net income in the second quarter and the first half of 1971.

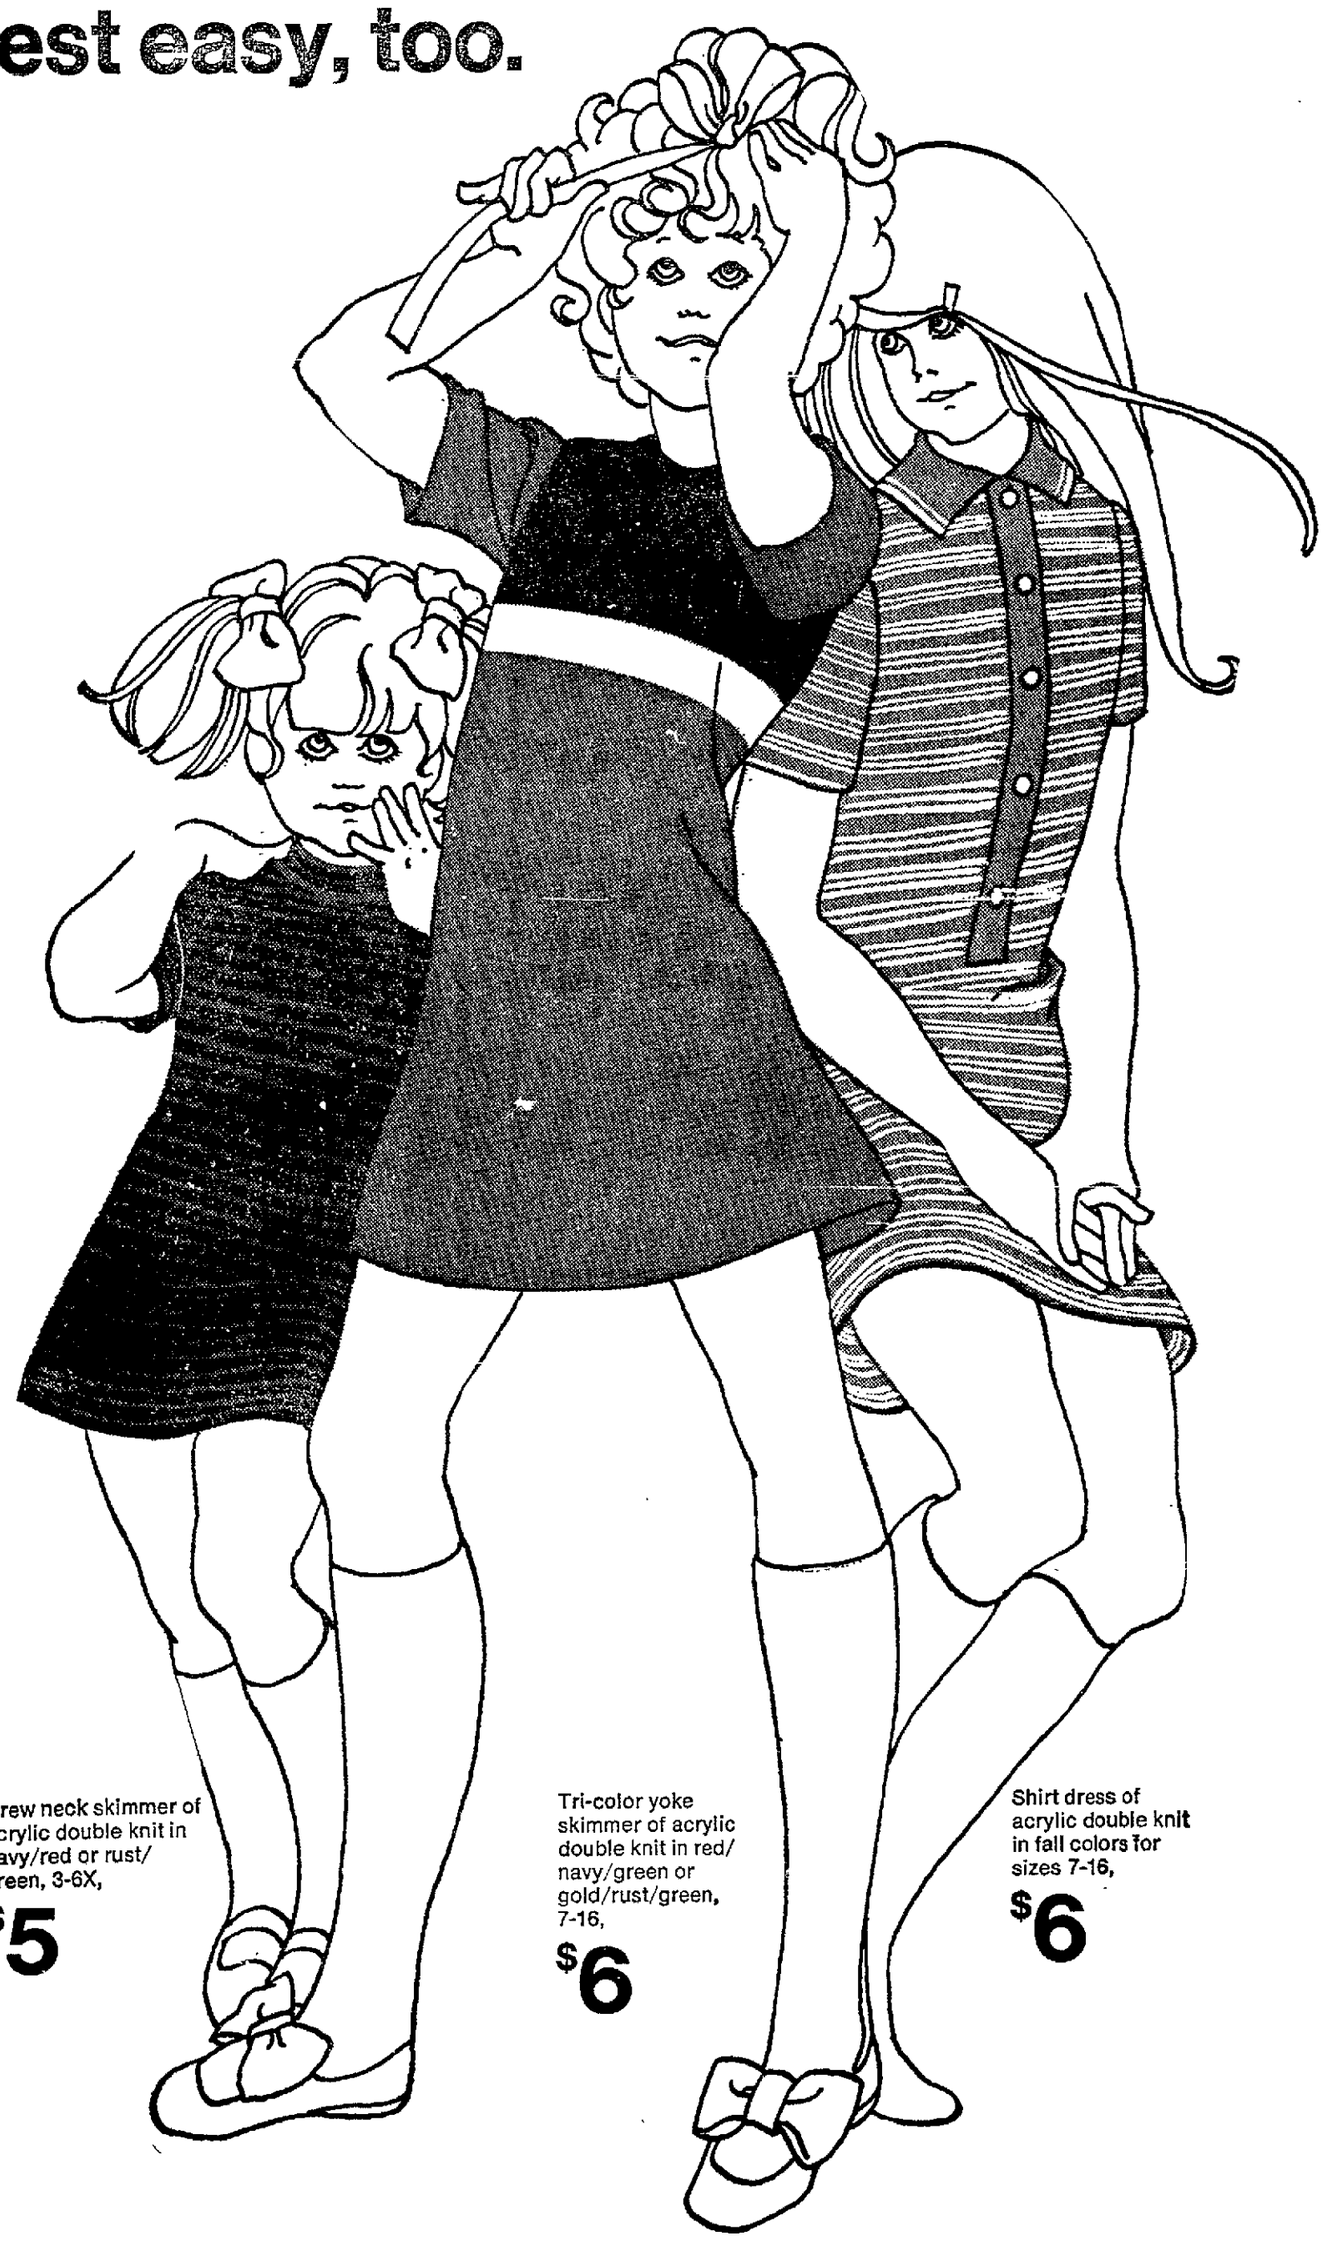

In the second quarter net income sank to $1.98 million or .18 cents a share from $2.34 million or .21 cents a share in the like period last year. Revenues were $72.82 million against $68.90 million in the second quarter of 1970.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Thursday

The Aries woman, when seeking a man, often has the misfortune of finding one who, in his turn, is looking for a mother. Aries women are physically drawn to men born under Leo; but often marry those born under Libra. Men born under Taurus are especially good, in a financial sense, for the Aries woman. These women are headstrong, direct and possess an abundance of personal magnetism. Some famous women born under this zodiacal sign include Bette Davis, Gloria Swanson and Miyoshi Umeki.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Money affecting mate or business partner requires your attention. Stress original approach. Refuse to follow crowd. Utilize innate sense of independence. What was hidden may now be revealed to your advantage.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Lie low; play waiting game. Permit one close to you to express ideas. Be attentive. Listen and absorb knowledge. You may be drawn in two directions at once. Be discriminating in choice.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent on proper pacing be wary of overextending yourself. Highlight versatility. Use material at hand. Establish social contact with one you admired at a distance. Activity due to accelerate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good lunar aspect coincides with creative endeavors, expressions of love. Leo individual figures prominently. Some delays now prove beneficial. Take time to study fine print. Red tape will untangle.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Obtain valid hint from Cancer message. Establish lines of communication with Scorpio. Stick to familiar ground. Correct safety hazards at home. Additional research necessary on special project.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept. 22): Include family member in social plans. Surprise visit may be on agenda. Realize that being a good guest is more difficult than being a fine host. Adhere to principles of Golden Rule.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Avoid self-deception where money matters, personal possessions enter picture. One born under Pisces may be well-meaning but misinformed. Heed your own counsel. Collect data; perfect techniques.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Lunar cycle coincides with time when circumstances favor your efforts. One in authority backs your position. Be confident — take initiative. Capricorn is in your corner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Work quietly; behind-scenes efforts will pay dividends. Finish rather than begin projects. Aries person helps put together puzzle pieces. Be receptive without being subservient.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Hopes, wishes, are fulfilled if willing to discard outmoded concepts. Friendly persuasion is a requisite. You will receive go-ahead signal. Accept social invitation. Added recognition due.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Professional endeavors receive public recognition. Strive for the unique; look to future rather than brooding about past. Answer which has been elusive can now be obtained. Key is confidence, determination.

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

The problem of environmental pollution has been much in the news in recent years. Water—and air pollution—now affect millions of Americans and could be a growing health menace in Nebraska. As an individual citizen you can help prevent it, and help clean it up.

First, know and observe the community laws which affect you personally. This means not littering the park or river bank and obeying local rules. It may mean checking the sewage system of your summer cottage or boat.

Secondly, learn about your community's laws concerning industrial and commercial waste disposal controls. If these rules are not being enforced, you and your neighbors should ask some pointed questions now as to why waste disposal is not being properly regulated.

Small as it sounds, an individual's concern and active interest can mean a great deal. As a citizen, you can help keep our waterways clean.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Thursday

The Aries woman, when seeking a man, often has the misfortune of finding one who, in his turn, is looking for a mother. Aries women are physically drawn to men born under Leo; but often marry those born under Libra. Men born under Taurus are especially good, in a financial sense, for the Aries woman. These women are headstrong, direct and possess an abundance of personal magnetism. Some famous women born under this zodiacal sign include Bette Davis, Gloria Swanson and Miyoshi Umeki.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Money affecting mate or business partner requires your attention. Stress original approach. Refuse to follow crowd. Utilize innate sense of independence. What was hidden may now be revealed to your advantage.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Lie low; play waiting game. Permit one close to you to express ideas. Be attentive. Listen and absorb knowledge. You may be drawn in two directions at once. Be discriminating in choice.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent on proper pacing be wary of overextending yourself. Highlight versatility. Use material at hand. Establish social contact with one you admired at a distance. Activity due to accelerate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good lunar aspect coincides with creative endeavors, expressions of love. Leo individual figures prominently. Some delays now prove beneficial. Take time to study fine print. Red tape will untangle.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Obtain valid hint from Cancer message. Establish lines of communication with Scorpio. Stick to familiar ground. Correct safety hazards at home. Additional research necessary on special project.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Include family member in social plans. Surprise visit may be on agenda. Realize that being a good guest is more difficult than being a fine host. Adhere to principles of Golden Rule.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Avoid self-deception where money matters, personal possessions enter picture. One born under Pisces may be well-meaning but misinformed. Heed your own counsel. Collect data; perfect techniques.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Lunar cycle coincides with time when circumstances favor your efforts. One in authority backs your position. Be confident — take initiative. Capricorn is in your corner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Work quietly; behind-scenes efforts will pay dividends. Finish rather than begin projects. Aries person helps put together puzzle pieces. Be receptive without being subservient.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Hopes, wishes, are fulfilled if willing to discard outmoded concepts. Friendly persuasion is a requisite. You will receive go-ahead signal. Accept social invitation. Added recognition due.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Professional endeavors receive public recognition. Strive for the unique; look to future rather than brooding about past. Answer which has been elusive can now be obtained. Key is confidence, determination.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Favorable lunar aspect now coincides with journeys, publishing activity. Open lines of communication. Clear away emotional debris. Aries, Sagittarius persons will prove valuable allies. No need for self-doubt.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are intuitive, capable of perceiving when something of importance is about to occur. Many claim you are psychic. You are a natural teacher, willing to share knowledge. Recently, many have been drawn to you with their problems. Be co-operative without becoming unduly involved. In August, meaningful events occur which could change course of your life.

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association:

The problem of environmental pollution has been much in the news in recent years. Water—and air pollution—now affect millions of Americans and could be a growing health menace in Nebraska. As an individual citizen you can help prevent it, and help clean it up.

First, know and observe the community laws which affect you personally. This means not littering the park or river bank and obeying local rules. It may mean checking the sewage system of your summer cottage or boat.

Secondly, learn about your community's laws concerning industrial and commercial waste disposal controls. If these rules are not being enforced, you and your neighbors should ask some pointed questions now as to why waste disposal is not being properly regulated.

Small as it sounds, an individual's concern and active interest can mean a great deal. As a citizen, you can help keep our waterways clean.

County Board Ends Budget Discussions

. . . But Cutting May Not Be Over

The Lancaster County Board wound up budget discussions Wednesday although the cutting may not be over yet.

County Commissioner Kenneth Bourne said they still need to meet with County Engineer Walter Hoppe and Sheriff Merle Karnopp on some items in question before turning the budget over to County Clerk Carl Hartman.

Bourne said Hartman then will figure up the final budget and check whether expenditures are under the 14.28 mill levy limit.

"If not, we will have to do some more cutting," Bourne said.

No date was set for a public hearing.

Board members did add another $150,000 to the building fund for a juvenile detention center. Only $75,000 of the amount will come from tax levies, though, as the Region II Crime Commission has $75,000 in matching funds for the project. The Lancaster Manor area has been discussed as a possible site.

With an eye on the mill levy limit, commissioners felt the 1971-72 fiscal year was not the year to purchase a lot of new furniture and cut back new equipment for some departments totaling $13,335.

Departments cut back on new equipment were County Commissioners, $2,000; District Court Clerk, $2,690; Conciliation Court, $3,045; Election Commissioner, $3,000 and Separate Juvenile Court, $2,600.

Commissioners also decreased the cash reserve in the general fund budget by $100,000 (from $800,000 to $700,000) and decided not to appropriate $12,000 for the Health Planning Council.

County commissioners also took issue with the city's using part of the parking lot to the north of the County-City Building to store "junkers" to be auctioned.

They felt the parking lot should be used instead by the public.

2 Welfare Recipients File Suit Because ADC Halted

Two Omaha welfare recipients filed suits Tuesday against the Nebraska Department of Public Welfare alleging their aid to dependent children (ADC) payments were unlawfully terminated.

In separate petitions in Lancaster District Court, Eunice Johnson Sweatte and Lumie Davis, allege their ADC payments were terminated April 1 by Douglas County because stepfathers are liable for support of their stepchildren.

Their appeal from the Douglas County action was overruled by the state welfare director, according to the petitions.

The suit contends the terminating decision was invalid because no departmental rules and regulations regarding stepfather liability have been filed with the secretary of state's office, promulgated with a public hearing or approved by the governor.

A welfare department spokesman declined comment on the suit except to say the administration of the stepfather financial responsibility law, enacted by the 1971 Legislature as LB640, was commenced June 1.

The Sweatte and Davis suits were filed by Thomas A. Brown, an attorney with the Legal Aid Society of Omaha.

Questioned Expense Claims Decision To Be Made Soon

The decision as to whether the state will seek reimbursement from the former State Technical Assistance Agency employes for expense claims questioned by the state Auditor's office will be made next Monday, according to John L. Sullivan, the governor's administrative aide.

A report done by state Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson's office and released earlier in July questioned whether certain expense account claims were in the line of business.

Samuel J. Cornelius was director of the agency when the challenged claims were made and is now director of the Office of Economic Opportunity in Kansas City, Mo.

Some of the questioned expenditures were a matter of technicalities, Sullivan said, however, he said $2,200 has not been justified.

Sullivan said no decision will be made until each person has had a chance to justify the claims.

$69,000 Low Bid On Tennis Court

T & M Construction Co. was the apparent low bidder Wednesday for installation of tennis courts and Woods Park and resurfacing the courts at Cooper and Peter Pan parks.

The firm had bid $69,036.

The apparent low bidder on a paving district contract for 56th between Van Dorn and Bancroft was Pioneer Paving with a bid of $145,659.

On a power transformer for Lincoln Electric System, Standard Transformer Co. of Warren, Ohio, was the apparent low bidder with a bid of $85,000.

Thieves Taking Nebulizer Might Find Surprise

Omaha (AP) — Dr. James Speers, director of the City-County Health Department clinic, said thieves who stole a typewriter and a machine called a nebulizer from the clinic might wish to reconsider.

He said the nebulizer is "used to induce sputum specimens from tuberculosis patients and suspected TB patients. The machine is sterilized after each use. But there is still a chance that someone could get tuberculosis from playing with it."

Dr. Speers said "I expect if whoever took the machine dropped it off in front of the clinic we'd find it there. They also could drop off the typewriter. We'd like to have that back as well."

King Hassan Says 'Arab Leaders Not Up To The Possibilities

©The New York Times

Rabat — Commenting on the troubles ravaging the Arab world, King Hassan II of Morocco observed, "unfortunately, we the Arab leaders are not up to the possibilities that are given us."

He indicated in an interview at his summer palace in Skhirat that he has not yet completed the "self-criticism" inspired by the attempted coup that made a shambles of his 42nd birthday party there on July 10. But he acknowledged that "things must change."

The king also acknowledged that corruption had been excessive in Morocco, and promised that surviving officers and soldiers accused in the coup attempt would be tried in public before a regular military tribunal.

Hassan received his interviewer beside the swimming pool where his guests came under fire two weeks ago, and n arly 100 were killed. The sprawling estate was guarded by troops in field uniform. On the terrace, two well-dressed men with bulges under their left armpits loitered.

The king, a husky welterweight in sharp Italian beige sports jacket and widebutton slacks, extended his hand to an official to be kissed, then greeted his visitor easily and led him into the throne room, a three-walled chamber facing the pool.

The Arab nations, he said in perfect French, have the potential resources "to build a golden bridge from Morocco to Saudi Arabia" and should be a factor of stability, prosperity and peace in the whole world." But since its leaders are not up to their potentials, he continued, "we might say that the policy of the Arab world has been a policy of missed rendezvous."

Literally speaking, the Arab summit meeting proposed recently by Hassan was such a rendezvous. Alluding to the recent tragedies in Morocco, Jordan and the Sudan, and the breaks in relations caused by them, the king affirmed, "I don't think an Arab summit can meet in the present state of things."

"All that is not an accident," he said. "I've the impression that a certain number of persons had no interest in having an Arab summit meet."

Daniel Ellsberg Sees Career Risk To Help End Vietnam Conflict

Washington (UPI) — Daniel Ellsberg, former defense aide who leaked the Pentagon papers to the press, told antiwar House members Wednesday they might have to risk their careers to help end the Vietnam conflict.

Ellsberg, who is under indictment for his actions, appeared before 17 liberal Democratic House members who are sponsoring a conference intended to interpret the top secret 47-volume study of U.S. involvement in Indochina.

He told them that to end the war they would have to do more than vote for legislation that would require a total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina.

Ellsberg mentioned moves to impeach government officials who allegedly lied about the war, lawsuits to end U.S. involvement and unorthodox moves such as that of Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who read part of the pentagon papers into the committee hearing.

The results, Ellsberg predicted, could be loss of political support, critical columns in the press, embarrassment and "losing points in the (congressional) club."

He said the question to be answered by congressmen and other Americans anxious to end the war should be: "What can you do to resist the war if you're willing to risk the loss of your job, career, influence and access to important people?"

The sacrifice would be much less than that required by 3 million Americans who served in Vietnam, 55,000 of whom have died, Ellsberg said.

Ellsberg, 40, was greeted by prolonged and enthusiastic applause from the overwhelmingly youthful audience in the judiciary Committee room of the Rayburn House Office Building.

In a low key delivery, Ellsberg urged the House members to read as much of the Pentagon papers as possible. "They're very dull, boring, bumbing," he said. "But there is no substitute for reading large portions of them."

He said such a study would reveal that U.S. policy in Vietnam was wrong and deceptive, and that Congress failed to exercise its constitutional responsibility to challenge the administration.

However, he said Congress' guilt was less than that of the executive branch.

"The responsibility of those being lied to is not the same as the responsibility of those doing the lying," he said.

THE PADDOCK

By Mark Gordon
Star Sports Writer

Paddock Means Business

The paddock may symbolize horses to most racegoers, but Bob Bates and Bob Farmer look upon the paddock as their place of business.

Bates as clerk of scales and Farmer as paddock judge and identifier are responsible for the Fairgrounds' races running on schedule and making certain that the jockeys and horses are properly marked and identified.

A veteran who started in racing in 1959 as a jockey agent, Bates has been on the Nebraska circuit since 1965 working as a paddock judge and clerk of scales. In Lincoln, he checks the jockeys making certain they carry the correct weight (they can be over but not under the assigned weight).

"I also inform the public if the jockeys have been changed and help with the printing of the program by making sure it's right," he says.

Another of Bates' tasks is getting each horse in a race a rider suitable to the owner or trainer. Sometimes, jockeys fail to show up due to illness or injuries, and occasionally a jockey falls in a previous race and is unable to continue the rest of the day.

"We haven't had to change riders too much this year," Bates explains, "When we do, we have to make sure the owners and trainers are satisfied."

Rider Changes

Last Saturday was probably one of Bates' busiest days as six rider changes were made in the first three chases.

Although he has worked in race tracks across the country, Bates came to Nebraska in 1965 when Grand Island's Fonner Park was short an official. The following year, a permanent opening occurred and Bates became a full-time Cornhusker state official.

While a jockey agent, he handled the contract of Grady Overton, who scored several handicap victories this spring at Ak-Sar-Ben and he also started Dale Rettele — one of the many Rettele brothers in racing.

Farmer, meanwhile, is more concerned with the horses as he must be certain the proper horse is entered in each race.

"We use the TRPB (Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau) tattooing system," he says. "The tattoo number is on the upper lip of each horse and I check the number on the horse to the number that it should carry."

If the horse isn't tattooed, then Farmer checks the color, sex and color marking to determine the horse's identity.

'Touched Many Bases'

Although only on his second year on the Nebraska circuit, Farmer's racing experience dates back to 1934. Since then he touched just about all bases — exercise boy, groom, jockey (he won his first race in 1941 at Ak-Sar-Ben aboard Pargo), mutuel department employe, outrider, owner, trainer, breeder.

From 1957-58 he served as a patrol judge at several tracks and then due to previous identifying experience, he started in 1960 in the identifying end of racing.

"So many times, the average $2 bettor isn't aware of the money it costs and the number of people employed to protect his slight investment in the horse races," Farmer explains. "We make sure the horses and jockeys are as they should be — the image of the crooked race track in the 1935 late show movies has given racing a black mark it certainly doesn't deserve."

As paddock judge, Farmer's duties coincide to some degree with Bates' as he sees to it that the horses and riders are on the track and in the paddock at the proper time.

"I started in the Iowa bushes in racing and I wouldn't trade my job with anyone," said Farmer.

Arian Ray, Gracie C. Score Futurity Triumphs

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

That old saying about your "heart in your mouth" came to life during the second division of the Nebraska State Fair Futurity Wednesday.

The stage was set when Bill Stallings took highly-favored Arian Ray four lengths in front of the seven-horse field during the seventh race, a six furlong chase for 2-year-olds, and seemed well on his way to an easy victory when the 2-year-old brown gelding by Vanceburg out of Fleet Gem hit the rail twice on the turn for home and almost fell to his knees.

Then the fleet 2-year-old recovered his stride and pulled away from the field in the last 200 yards to win by five lengths overt The Dervish in 1:15.

"He tried to jump the rail on me," a nervous Stallings grinned following his close call. "I thought I was gone there for a minute."

Arian Ray's owner Ray Guzinski of Ravenna, said he didn't even notice the incident.

"I was standing next to the fence and couldn't see the far turn," Guzinski said. "But I thought something bad had happened the way the crowd acted."

Guzinski said they didn't give Stallings any special instructions prior to the race since "he knows what's best for that horse. He's rode him before."

The first division of the futurity was won by Gracie C. with Wayne Anderson in the irons.

Gracie C. broke in the middle of the pack, but Anderson pulled the filly by Sacandoza out of Grace even with the leaders in the backstretch, then won by a length over Jujan at the wire in 1:13 3-5.

"I was a little worried going into the first turn," the Fairgrounds No. 2 jockey said following his victory. "She was a little tight at first, but once she got going she moved all right.

"I knew that if we could move on the pack in the backstretch we'd have it and we did."

Anderson said he was a little worried about Jujan who defeated Gracie C. over 5½ furlongs in their last start, and Nail Bluff, winner over Jujan at Ak-Sar-Ben, but said he didn't worry at all about Return Engagement.

"I rode her (Return Engagement) at Ak-Sar-Ben and she didn't impress me that much," he offered.

Gracie C's victory in the $3,000-added futurity brought her record to three wins, one place and two thirds out of ten starts and boosted 1971 earnings to $8,050 for owner R. W. Cole of Fairbury. Arian Ray's $2,433.75 share of the total $4,425 purse brought his 1971 earnings to $11,957.75 with three wins, one place and three shows out of 12 starts.

Disaster almost struck again during the eighth race when Sandozer struck the heels of the horse running in front of him and threw jockey Dennis Baxter.

Baxter emerged unscathed from the incident with only a few bruises.

Stallings also rode Jay Hose to the winner's circle in the second and Purple Pirate in the fourth while Anderson won aboard Ozzie Jet in the first.

BORNER, SHADE AT 68

...Pair Share Lead In State Men's Tournament

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Charlie Borner of North Platte, trying to keep the title, and Jim Shade of Norfolk, aiming to capture it after three straight years as a bridesmaid, Wednesday took the first round lead in the 64th annual Nebraska Men's State Amateur with four-under-par 68s over the Lincoln Country Club course

No one else in the 157-man field was able to better par over the 6,177-yard layout and only Tom Olson of Omaha was able to match the norm with a 72 that put him four back of the co-leaders going into today's second round of the 72-hole test.

Five strokes off the pace at 73 are Jim White of Hastings, Gary Teel of Nebraska City and Al Ludwig of Omaha while a trio at 74 consisted of Ed Smith of Lincoln, Lance Gloe of Lincoln and former champion Dean Wilson Jr. of Omaha.

Other former champions didn't fare so well with Dick Spangler Jr. of Lincoln shooting a 77, by Adams of Omaha an 81, Bob Astleford of Omaha an 84 and Bill Mowbray of Lincoln a 76.

Astleford, an eight-time champion, took triple-bogey-7s on the first and 18th holes en route to his 84.

Shade, the former Oklahoma State golfer, left his driver in his golf bag for the entire round and jokingly hinted he might leave it in his motel room today and take along a second putter.

"The key to playing this course (well) is to keep the ball in the fairway," he explained. "I haven't used my driver in Monday's pro-am, Tuesday's practice round or today's (Wednesday) first round."

Shade's 68 could well have been a 64 as he missed four birdie putts of four feet or less. He prepared for the tourney at the tight LCC layout by practicing hitting his 2-iron and wedge.

He used his 3-wood only four times, sticking primarily to irons and a 4-wood for his tee shots Wednesday.

One of those 3-wood shots came at the 274-yard second hole where he used it to drive the green, then two-putted for his first birdie after missing a four foot birdie putt at No. 1.

After he missed the green with his second shot to the third hole for a bogey and three-putted the fourth for another bogey, he got back to even par with a seven-foot birdie putt at the fifth.

Shade missed a four-footer for a birdie at the sixth, but tapped in a one-footer at the eighth and an 18-footer at No. 9 to go two under par at the turn.

He missed another four-foot birdie putt at the 10th, then two-putted the 565-yard 11th for a birdie after getting home in two with a 3-wood and a 4-wood.

He lost a stroke at the 13th, but got it back with a three-foot birdie putt at the 16th and came out of a sand trap at the 17th for another birdie, sinking a seven-footer.

But the Norfolk golfer figured his best shot was a 4-wood second shot to the 409-yard, par-4 seventh hole that saved him a par after his tee shot landed in the No. 8 fairway. To get home he had to hit the 4-wood over a line of trees.

Borner, with a different philosophy about his driver than Shade's, also came up with three bogeys and seven birdies during his round of 68.

"I figure if I'm hitting the ball good, I can do as well with the driver as with any club," he pointed out after hitting his big stick on the second, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, 11th, 13th, 15th, 17th and 18th holes.

"But there are some holes here where with the tees up front like they were today, there's no advantage to hitting the driver such as on Nos. 2 and 3," he added.

The two-time champion bogeyed the seventh when he missed a 10-footer, the 12th when he missed a two-footer and the 16th missing from five feet.

He carded birdies on the first three holes with putts of seven, five and 15 feet, missed a six-foot birdie putt at the fifth, then went four under par with a two-footer at the sixth.

He added birdie putts of four feet at the eighth, eight feet at No. 11, three feet at the 17th and 10 feet at the final hole.

Despite the 68, Borner was a bit disappointed with his putting, as was Shade.

"That was a good way to start," he admitted, "I hit some good shots and made the putts, but I was a bit disappointed later when I still hit some good shots, but couldn't get some putts down."

And while savoring a share of the lead, Shade had one thought uppermost in his mind — that runner-up finish of the past three years.

"I've done a lot of thinking about that," he points out, "And I don't want to be second again."

After today's round, the field will be cut to the low 54 and ties for the final two rounds Friday and Saturday.

Stander To Face O'Halloran

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Council Bluff's Ron Stander won't be fighting a rematch as originally expected with Manuel Ramos tonight, but he will be meeting an opponent who holds a knockout over the Mexican heavyweight champion.

Jack O'Halloran, who owns a 20-10-2 record with 10 KOs, will meet Stander, undefeated in 18 starts including a controversial draw with Ramos here last Sept. 17, in a 10-round match that headlines a five-bout card beginning at 8 at Civic Auditorium.

Although Stander was scheduled to fight Ramos tonight, the southern swinger competed in a preliminary bout to the Muhammed Ali-Jim Ellis fight Monday in the Astrodome. But O'Halloran has fought route-going performances against Joe Bugner and Tony Doyle and was taken out in the fifth round by 1970 Olympic heavyweight champ George Foreman.

In a middleweight contest, Gene Coon from Offutt Air Base will meet Frank Jiminez of Albert Lea, Minn., in a six-rounder. Coon has triumphed in both his previous Omaha contests.

Another six-rounder pits Morris Jackson against Harold Carter of Cleveland as Jackson tries to avenge the only loss in his career as Carter scored a TKO when Jackson injured his shoulder in the heavyweight match.

Last year's 165-pound Midwest Golden Glove champion Michael Reed will make his professional debut in a four-rounder against Frank Formaro of Des Moines. Formaro has won his last three outings and will be facing a local product who advanced to the national quarterfinals in Gloves competition.

Veteran heavyweight Lou Bailey meets Cleveland's Joey Ray in a six-round tilt to complete the card.

Aunt Priscilla Hopes Answer In Crystal Ball

Dearie me! Your dear old Aunt Priscilla has lost again. It's been five days now since I had a winner at the race track.

My $2 losses on Olywee Hy in the fifth and Rip To Market in the eighth 'shrunk' my $100-spree fund to $161.80. Since I'm riding a losing streak, I dug out Uncle Charlie's old crystal ball and decided to try that.

A peek at that rusty relic informs me that I should place $2 win tickets on Rusty Raleigh in the third and Hidden Valley Girl in the seventh.

THE PADDOCK

By Mark Gordon
Star Sports Writer

Paddock Means Business

The paddock may symbolize horses to most racegoers, but Bob Bates and Bob Farmer look upon the paddock as their place of business.

Bates as clerk of scales and Farmer as paddock judge and identifier are responsible for the Fairgrounds' races running on schedule and making certain that the jockeys and horses are properly marked and identified.

A veteran who started in racing in 1959 as a jockey agent, Bates has been on the Nebraska circuit since 1965 working as a paddock judge and clerk of scales. In Lincoln, he checks the jockeys making certain they carry the correct weight (they can be over but not under the assigned weight).

"I also inform the public if the jockeys have been changed and help with the printing of the program by making sure it's right," he says.

Another of Bates' tasks is getting each horse in a race a rider suitable to the owner or trainer. Sometimes, jockeys fail to show up due to illness or injuries, and occasionally a jockey falls in a previous race and is unable to continue the rest of the day.

"We haven't had to change riders too much this year," Bates explains, "When we do, we have to make sure the owners and trainers are satisfied."

Rider Changes

Last Saturday was probably one of Bates' busiest days as six rider changes were made in the first three chases.

Although he has worked in race tracks across the country, Bates came to Nebraska in 1965 when Grand Island's Fonner Park was short an official. The following year, a permanent opening occurred and Bates became a full-time Cornhusker state official.

While a jockey agent, he handled the contract of Grady Overton, who scored several handicap victories this spring at Ak-Sar-Ben and he also started Dale Rettele — one of the many Rettele brothers in racing.

Farmer, meanwhile, is more concerned with the horses as he must be certain the proper horse is entered in each race.

"We use the TRPB (Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau) tattooing system," he says. "The tattoo number is on the upper lip of each horse and I check the number on the horse to the number that it should carry."

If the horse isn't tattooed, then Farmer checks the color, sex and color marking to determine the horse's identity.

'Touched Many Bases'

Although only on his second year on the Nebraska circuit, Farmer's racing experience dates back to 1934. Since then he touched just about all bases — exercise boy, groom, jockey (he won his first race in 1941 at Ak-Sar-Ben aboard Pargo), mutuel department employe, outrider, owner, trainer, breeder.

From 1957-58 he served as a patrol judge at several tracks and then due to previous identifying experience, he started in 1960 in the identifying end of racing.

"So many times, the average $2 bettor isn't aware of the money it costs and the number of people employed to protect his slight investment in the horse races," Farmer explains. "We make sure the horses and jockeys are as they should be — the image of the crooked race track in the 1935 late show movies has given racing a black mark it certainly doesn't deserve."

As paddock judge, Farmer's duties coincide to some degree with Bates' as he sees to it that the horses and riders are on the track and in the paddock at the proper time.

"I started in the Iowa bushes in racing and I wouldn't trade my job with anyone," said Farmer.

Arian Ray, Gracie C. Score Futurity Triumphs

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

That old saying about your "heart in your mouth" came to life during the second division of the Nebraska State Fair Futurity Wednesday.

The stage was set when Bill Stallings took highly-favored Arian Ray four lengths in front of the seven-horse field during the seventh race, a six furlong chase for 2-year-olds, and seemed well on his way to an easy victory when the 2-year-old brown gelding by Vanceburg out of Fleet Gem hit the rail twice on the turn for home and almost fell to his knees.

Then the fleet 2-year-old recovered his stride and pulled away from the field in the last 200 yards to win by five lengths overt The Dervish in 1:15.

"He tried to jump the rail on me," a nervous Stallings grinned following his close call. "I thought I was gone there for a minute."

Arian Ray's owner Ray Guzinski of Ravenna, said he didn't even notice the incident.

"I was standing next to the fence and couldn't see the far turn," Guzinski said. "But I thought something bad had happened the way the crowd acted."

Guzinski said they didn't give Stallings any special instructions prior to the race since "he knows what's best for that horse. He's rode him before."

The first division of the futurity was won by Gracie C. with Wayne Anderson in the irons.

Gracie C. broke in the middle of the pack, but Anderson pulled the filly by Sacandoza out of Grace even with the leaders in the backstretch, then won by a length over Jujan at the wire in 1:13 3-5.

"I was a little worried going into the first turn," the Fairgrounds No. 2 jockey said following his victory. "She was a little tight at first, but once she got going she moved all right.

"I knew that if we could move on the pack in the backstretch we'd have it and we did."

Anderson said he was a little worried about Jujan who defeated Gracie C. over 5½ furlongs in their last start, and Nail Bluff, winner over Jujan at Ak-Sar-Ben, but said he didn't worry at all about Return Engagement.

"I rode her (Return Engagement) at Ak-Sar-Ben and she didn't impress me that much," he offered.

Gracie C's victory in the $3,000-added futurity brought her record to three wins, one place and two thirds out of ten starts and boosted 1971 earnings to $8,050 for owner R. W. Cole of Fairbury. Arian Ray's $2,433.75 share of the total $4,425 purse brought his 1971 earnings to $11,957.75 with three wins, one place and three shows out of 12 starts.

Disaster almost struck again during the eighth race when Sandozer struck the heels of the horse running in front of him and threw jockey Dennis Baxter.

Baxter emerged unscathed from the incident with only a few bruises.

BORNER, SHADE AT 68

...Pair Share Lead In State Men's Tournament

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Charlie Borner of North Platte, trying to keep the title, and Jim Shade of Norfolk, aiming to capture it after three straight years as a bridesmaid, Wednesday took the first round lead in the 64th annual Nebraska Men's State Amateur with four-under-par 68s over the Lincoln Country Club course

No one else in the 157-man field was able to better par over the 6,177-yard layout and only Tom Olson of Omaha was able to match the norm with a 72 that put him four back of the co-leaders going into today's second round of the 72-hole test.

Five strokes off the pace at 73 are Jim White of Hastings, Gary Teel of Nebraska City and Al Ludwig of Omaha while a trio at 74 consisted of Ed Smith of Lincoln, Lance Gloe of Lincoln and former champion Dean Wilson Jr. of Omaha.

Other former champions didn't fare so well with Dick Spangler Jr. of Lincoln shooting a 77, by Adams of Omaha an 81, Bob Astleford of Omaha an 84 and Bill Mowbray of Lincoln a 76.

Astleford, an eight-time champion, took triple-bogey-7s on the first and 18th holes en route to his 84.

Shade, the former Oklahoma State golfer, left his driver in his golf bag for the entire round and jokingly hinted he might leave it in his motel room today and take along a second putter.

"The key to playing this course (well) is to keep the ball in the fairway," he explained. "I haven't used my driver in Monday's pro-am, Tuesday's practice round or today's (Wednesday) first round."

Shade's 68 could well have been a 64 as he missed four birdie putts of four feet or less. He prepared for the tourney at the tight LCC layout by practicing hitting his 2-iron and wedge.

He used his 3-wood only four times, sticking primarily to irons and a 4-wood for his tee shots Wednesday.

One of those 3-wood shots came at the 274-yard second hole where he used it to drive the green, then two-putted for his first birdie after missing a four foot birdie putt at No. 1.

After he missed the green with his second shot to the third hole for a bogey and three-putted the fourth for another bogey, he got back to even par with a seven-foot birdie putt at the fifth.

Shade missed a four-footer for a birdie at the sixth, but tapped in a one-footer at the eighth and an 18-footer at No. 9 to go two under par at the turn.

He missed another four-foot birdie putt at the 10th, then two-putted the 565-yard 11th for a birdie after getting home in two with a 3-wood and a 4-wood.

He lost a stroke at the 13th, but got it back with a three-foot birdie putt at the 16th and came out of a sand trap at the 17th for another birdie, sinking a seven-footer.

But the Norfolk golfer figured his best shot was a 4-wood second shot to the 409-yard, par-4 seventh hole that saved him a par after his tee shot landed in the No. 8 fairway. To get home he had to hit the 4-wood over a line of trees.

Borner, with a different philosophy about his driver than Shade's, also came up with three bogeys and seven birdies during his round of 68.

"I figure if I'm hitting the ball good, I can do as well with the driver as with any club," he pointed out after hitting his big stick on the second, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, 11th, 13th, 15th, 17th and 18th holes.

"But there are some holes here where with the tees up front like they were today, there's no advantage to hitting the driver such as on Nos. 2 and 3," he added.

The two-time champion bogeyed the seventh when he missed a 10-footer, the 12th when he missed a two-footer and the 16th missing from five feet.

He carded birdies on the first three holes with putts of seven, five and 15 feet, missed a six-foot birdie putt at the fifth, then went four under par with a two-footer at the sixth.

He added birdie putts of four feet at the eighth, eight feet at No. 11, three feet at the 17th and 10 feet at the final hole.

Despite the 68, Borner was a bit disappointed with his putting, as was Shade.

"That was a good way to start," he admitted, "I hit some good shots and made the putts, but I was a bit disappointed later when I still hit some good shots, but couldn't get some putts down."

And while savoring a share of the lead, Shade had one thought uppermost in his mind — that runner-up finish of the past three years.

"I've done a lot of thinking about that," he points out, "And I don't want to be second again."

After today's round, the field will be cut to the low 54 and ties for the final two rounds Friday and Saturday.

Stander To Face O'Halloran

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Council Bluff's Ron Stander won't be fighting a rematch as originally expected with Manuel Ramos tonight, but he will be meeting an opponent who holds a knockout over the Mexican heavyweight champion.

Jack O'Halloran, who owns a 20-10-2 record with 10 KOs, will meet Stander, undefeated in 18 starts including a controversial draw with Ramos here last Sept. 17, in a 10-round match that headlines a five-bout card beginning at 8 at Civic Auditorium.

Although Stander was scheduled to fight Ramos tonight, the southern swinger competed in a preliminary bout to the Muhammed Ali-Jim Ellis fight Monday in the Astrodome. But O'Halloran has fought route-going performances against Joe Bugner and Tony Doyle and was taken out in the fifth round by 1970 Olympic heavyweight champ George Foreman.

In a middleweight contest, Gene Coon from Offutt Air Base will meet Frank Jiminez of Albert Lea, Minn., in a six-rounder. Coon has triumphed in both his previous Omaha contests.

Another six-rounder pits Morris Jackson against Harold Carter of Cleveland as Jackson tries to avenge the only loss in his career as Carter scored a TKO when Jackson injured his shoulder in the heavyweight match.

Last year's 165-pound Midwest Golden Glove champion Michael Reed will make his professional debut in a four-rounder against Frank Formaro of Des Moines. Formaro has won his last three outings and will be facing a local product who advanced to the national quarterfinals in Gloves competition.

Veteran heavyweight Lou Bailey meets Cleveland's Joey Ray in a six-round tilt to complete the card.

Aunt Priscilla Hopes Answer In Crystal Ball

Dearie me! Your dear old Aunt Priscilla has lost again. It's been five days now since I had a winner at the race track.

My $2 losses on Olywee Hy in the fifth and Rip To Market in the eighth 'shrunk' my $100-spree fund to $161.80. Since I'm riding a losing streak, I dug out Uncle Charlie's old crystal ball and decided to try that.

Priscilla

A peek at that rusty relic informs me that I should place $2 win tickets on Rusty Raleigh in the third and Hidden Valley Girl in the seventh.

Cardinals Hit Mets, Giants Win

By Associated Press

Joe Torre and Jose Cruz walloped home runs Wednesday afternoon, helping the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-3 victory over the New York Mets.

Torre, who went into the game leading the National League with a .370 batting average, hit a towering two-run homer in the fifth inning and Cruz connected in the eighth.

Left-hander Steve Carlton, 14-6, beaten three times by the Mets this season, spaced eight hits to earn the victory.

The Cardinals gave Carlton a quick three runs when they bunched four hits in the second inning

New York got two back in the fourth on a bases-loaded, two-out single by Duffy Dyer that took a bad hop over shortstop Maxvill's head

But Torre restored the three-run bulge with his 17th homer of the year in the fifth after Luis Melendez had walked

The Mets loaded the bases with none out in the seventh but managed only one run in the rally. Cruz got that one back quickly, opening the eighth with his homer.

The loss was the 19th in the last 26 games for the Mets

And Alan Gallagher belted a run-scoring double in the sixth inning and drove in the winning run with an eighth-inning single, boosting the San Francisco Giants to a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Dick Dietz belted a one-out double off reliever Jim Nash, 6-7, who came on in the eighth, and Ken Henderson walked. With two out, Gallagher lined his tie-breaking single to right-center.

Frank Robinson blasted reliever Roland Fingers' first pitch into the right-field bleachers for a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning Wednesday

Cardinals Hit Mets, Giants Win

By Associated Press

Joe Torre and Jose Cruz walloped home runs Wednesday afternoon, helping the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-3 victory over the New York Mets.

Torre, who went into the game leading the National League with a .370 batting average, hit a towering two-run homer in the fifth inning and Cruz connected in the eighth.

Left-hander Steve Carlton, 14-6, beaten three times by the Mets this season, spaced eight hits to earn the victory.

The Cardinals gave Carlton a quick three runs when they bunched four hits in the second inning.

New York got two back in the fourth on a bases-loaded, two-out single by Duffy Dyer that took a bad hop over shortstop Maxvill's head.

But Torre restored the three-run bulge with his 17th homer of the year in the fifth after Luis Melendez had walked.

The Mets loaded the bases with none out in the seventh but managed only one run in the rally. Cruz got that one back quickly, opening the eighth with his homer.

KU Has Secret Weapon

. . . FAMBROUGH'S NEWEST ASSISTANT PLAYS DUAL ROLE

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Don Fambrough, wife of the new head football coach at the University of Kansas, hopes the feminine touch will aid in luring more and better players for the Jayhawks.

Mrs. Fambrough, a pretty brunette whose given name is Del, will go all out toward helping her husband when recruiting time rolls around again. She has resigned her position after 14 years as an English teacher at Lawrence High School.

That was one of her first moves when her husband was selected to succeed Pepper Rodgers as coach last January. She finished out the school year and submitted her resignation. Rodgers quit to go to UCLA.

"I felt I'd need to be available to help Don, especially during recruiting season," Mrs. Fambrough explains. "When we contact a good prospect, I think it's good for the coach's wife to be present so that the boy's mother can see her, too.

"I helped him a little in recruiting last season. I even went scouting with Don. When we go scouting, Don will say, 'You watch this one, and I'll watch that one.'

"I got in on some of the recruiting during the last basketball season. I got to know the mothers so well that if a boy didn't decide to come to Kansas, I felt like I had lost a friend."

Thirty years of marriage to a man who has lived and breathed football for all of those years as a player and assistant coach have given Mrs. Fambrough what she reluctantly regards as a pretty thorough knowledge of the game.

"When I met Don and started dating him," she says, "I didn't know a thing about football. I had to find out about football quick when we started dating."

That was in Longview, Tex., when both of them were in high school. Fambrough was a backfield player at Longview. When he enrolled at Kansas, he was shifted into the line.

"It took me almost the entire first season even to find Don after he became a lineman," Mrs. Fambrough laughs. "I wasn't used to watching the linemen play. I always watched Don in the backfield."

As a football observer, Mrs. Fambrough admits she gets "really excited at the games. I'm not a football scientist. I look at it strictly from the feminine view. I enjoy football personalities.

"For a long time, I was mystified by the language. For example, the Sally Rand . . . you know, the naked reverse.

"And once when I was typing some orgainzational plans for Don, he was dictating to me, and when he said something about a 'forearm drill', I typed 'four, armed drill.' "

Mrs. Fambrough, looking forward to her role as a recruiter, thinks "the recruiting is the most nervous, intense and exciting time" in football. "Sometimes Don's on the phone half of the night.

"I remember a couple of years ago, Don was to be picked up to dash somewhere to see a boy at 6 in the morning. He didn't sleep all night. He lay there like a race horse waiting to go."

Since her husband's elevation to head coach, Mrs. Fambrough says people say to her, "Don't you hate for Don to be under all that pressure?"

"I always tell them," says Mrs. Fambrough, "that Don is a real competitor. I don't see how he can be under any more pressure. Don doesn't talk football at home very much. He pretty much leaves it at the office."

A gleam comes to Mrs. Fambrough's eyes as she thinks about her husband's new role with the Jayhawks.

"He'd been an assistant coach 23 years," she smiles. "That's a long time. It's nice for him to get his chance. He has ideas of his own, and he should have a chance to try them."

Mrs. Fambrough's biggest thrill in football came in 1950 when Colorado played Kansas at Lawrence. Kansas spotted the Buffs a 21-0 lead and stormed back in the final 20 minutes for a 27-21 victory.

Her biggest disappointment came on Jan. 1, 1969, when the Jayhawks bowed to Penn State 15-14 in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

"It was the way we lost that game," explains Mrs. Fambrough, her eyes still showing disappointment as she speaks. "In the last few minutes."

Mrs. Fambrough, like her husband, is a Kansan all the way now, and Texas is a long way away.

"Kansas was really our first home after we were married," she says. "When we came to Lawrence in 1946, all I knew about Kansas was from "The Wizard of Oz' and I expected to see a wild, plains country. We have been away from Kansas only four years since then.

"And, like Don, it's easy for me to get involved in the feeling that this is the greatest school . . ."

She looks off into space and reiterates:

"Now Don's the head coach, and I'm going to help him." Mrs. Fambrough knows a lot of the answers coaches give to questions.

Asked for a prediction about the coming season, Mrs. Famrbough replies without flinching an eyelash:

"Even I know that Nebraska will be favored"

But what about Kansas?

"If we don't have any key injuries," Mrs. Fambrough grins, "I think we might surprise somebody."

Tiemann, Mates 15th Best Team

Honolulu, Hawaii — Nebraska's billfish team, which included former Gov. Norbert Tiemann, finished 15th in a field of 78 here in a five-day tournament off the Kona Coast.

Tiemann caught a 130-pound marlin while teammate Ray Gottner of Lincoln landed a 409-pounder.

Gottner caught his marlin on a 130-pound test line and needed only 37 minutes to land him.

Palmer-Nicklaus Twosome Top Choice In Team Event

Ligonier, Pa. (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, each challenged in his own way by the immense success of Lee Trevino, ranked as the heavy favorites to repeat as the title-holders in the $200,000 National Team Championship.

Trevino, the gregarious Super Mex who swept the U.S., Canadian and British Open golf titles and emerged as the dominant figure in the game this year, is threatening on two fronts.

He's pushing Nicklaus as the game's greatest performer and Palmer as its most popular player.

Neither has made direct reference to the challenge, but it's obviously there.

"Lee who?" Palmer grinned when asked a question about Trevino's recent triumphs.

"Lee's been playing super golf, but it finally caught up with him," Palmer said, referring to last week, when Trevino's hectic, non-stop pace caught up with him and he missed the cut for the final two rounds in the rich Westchester Classic.

"With the pressures of playing every day, there just comes a time when you have to relax," said Palmer, who picked up the $50,000 first prize last week as he scored his third victory of the season.

Trevino did just that, taking a rest for the first time in almost four months.

"I just went fishing for a couple of days," Trevino said. "I feel fine now. It's surprising how much a couple of days off will help."

He has 45-year-old Howie Johnson, a non-winner since 1959 but a consistent money winner in recent years, as his partner in this event, in which scoring is based on the better ball of each two-man team.

The 72-hole test begins Thursday on the scenic, 7,045 yard, par 36-35-71 Laurel Valley Golf Club layout, Palmer's home course in these rolling hills of western Pennsylvania and the site of the Palmer-Nicklaus victory a year ago.

Among the leading contenders in the field of 64 teams are the three pairs who tied for second last year, former champions Bobby Nichols and George Archer, Gardner Dickinson and 59-year-old Sam Snead, and Orville Moody and Australian Bruce Crampton.

Other standouts include CBS Classic champs Bert Yancey and Tom Weiskopf, Ken Still and Gene Littler, veterans Miller Barber and Don January and brothers Dave and Mike Hill.

Nicklaus and Palmer are the top-heavy choices, however. They've won this event two of the last three times it has been played and have teamed to win four World Cup titles for the United States.

And each is enjoying an excellent season. Each has won three titles and they rank second and third behind Trevino on the money list, Nicklaus with about $167,000 and Palmer with about $164,000, the second best in his 17 year career.

Among the missing are Billy Casper, competing in the Swiss Open, South African Gary Player and England's Tony Jacklin.

The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by NBC.

KU Has Secret Weapon

. . . FAMBROUGH'S NEWEST ASSISTANT PLAYS DUAL ROLE

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Don Fambrough, wife of the new head football coach at the University of Kansas, hopes the feminine touch will aid in luring more and better players for the Jayhawks.

Mrs. Fambrough, a pretty brunette whose given name is Del, will go all out toward helping her husband when recruiting time rolls around again. She has resigned her position after 14 years as an English teacher at Lawrence High School.

That was one of her first moves when her husband was selected to succeed Pepper Rodgers as coach last January. She finished out the school year and submitted her resignation. Rodgers quit to go to UCLA.

"I felt I'd need to be available to help Don, especially during recruiting season," Mrs. Fambrough explains. "When we contact a good prospect, I think it's good for the coach's wife to be present so that the boy's mother can see her, too.

"I helped him a little in recruiting last season. I even went scouting with Don. When we go scouting, Don will say, 'You watch this one, and I'll watch that one.'

"I got in on some of the recruiting during the last basketball season. I got to know the mothers so well that if a boy didn't decide to come to Kansas, I felt like I had lost a friend."

Thirty years of marriage to a man who has lived and breathed football for all of those years as a player and assistant coach have given Mrs. Fambrough what she reluctantly regards as a pretty thorough knowledge of the game.

"When I met Don and started dating him," she says, "I didn't know a thing about football. I had to find out about football quick when we started dating."

That was in Longview, Tex., when both of them were in high school. Fambrough was a backfield player at Longview. When he enrolled at Kansas, he was shifted into the line.

"It took me almost the entire first season even to find Don after he became a lineman," Mrs. Fambrough laughs. "I wasn't used to watching the linemen play. I always watched Don in the backfield."

As a football observer, Mrs. Fambrough admits she gets "really excited at the games. I'm not a football scientist. I look at it strictly from the feminine view. I enjoy football personalities.

"For a long time, I was mystified by the language. For example, the Sally Rand . . . you know, the naked reverse.

"And once when I was typing some orgainzational plans for Don, he was dictating to me, and when he said something about a 'forearm drill', I typed 'four, armed drill.' "

Mrs. Fambrough, looking forward to her role as a recruiter, thinks "the recruiting is the most nervous, intense and exciting time" in football. "Sometimes Don's on the phone half of the night.

"I remember a couple of years ago, Don was to be picked up to dash somewhere to see a boy at 6 in the morning. He didn't sleep all night. He lay there like a race horse waiting to go."

Since her husband's elevation to head coach, Mrs. Fambrough says people say to her, "Don't you hate for Don to be under all that pressure?"

"I always tell them," says Mrs. Fambrough, "that Don is a real competitor. I don't see how he can be under any more pressure. Don doesn't talk football at home very much. He pretty much leaves it at the office."

A gleam comes to Mrs. Fambrough's eyes as she thinks about her husband's new role with the Jayhawks.

"He'd been an assistant coach 23 years," she smiles. "That's a long time. It's nice for him to get his chance. He has ideas of his own, and he should have a chance to try them."

Mrs. Fambrough's biggest thrill in football came in 1950 when Colorado played Kansas at Lawrence. Kansas spotted the Buffs a 21-0 lead and stormed back in the final 20 minutes for a 27-21 victory.

Her biggest disappointment came on Jan. 1, 1969, when the Jayhawks bowed to Penn State 15-14 in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

"It was the way we lost that game," explains Mrs. Fambrough, her eyes still showing disappointment as she speaks. "In the last few minutes."

Mrs. Fambrough, like her husband, is a Kansan all the way now, and Texas is a long way away.

"Kansas was really our first home after we were married," she says. "When we came to Lawrence in 1946, all I knew about Kansas was from "The Wizard of Oz' and I expected to see a wild, plains country. We have been away from Kansas only four years since then.

"And, like Don, it's easy for me to get involved in the feeling that this is the greatest school . . ."

She looks off into space and reiterates:

"Now Don's the head coach, and I'm going to help him." Mrs. Fambrough knows a lot of the answers coaches give to questions.

Asked for a prediction about the coming season, Mrs. Famrbough replies without flinching an eyelash:

"Even I know that Nebraska will be favored."

But what about Kansas?

"If we don't have any key injuries," Mrs. Fambrough grins, "I think we might surprise somebody."

Tiemann, Mates 15th Best Team

Honolulu, Hawaii — Nebraska's billfish team, which included former Gov. Norbert Tiemann, finished 15th in a field of 78 here in a five-day tournament off the Kona Coast.

Only a total of 60 marlin were landed by the 78 teams during the entire tournament. The winning total of 782 pounds was recorded by a Saratoga, Calif., team.

Gottner caught his marlin on a 130-pound test line and needed only 37 minutes to land him.

Federal Government May Not Take Action Against Teaford Feedlot

U.S. Assistant Attorney General John Gale said Wednesday federal action may not be taken against a feedlot charged with polluting Long Pine Creek in northern Nebraska.

Gale said the decision whether remedies would be sought under an 1899 Federal Refuse Act "will probably" hinge on whether the state decides to file suit.

A report received from the Federal Environmental Protection Agency said the Nebraska Water Pollution Control Council, a predecessor to the state's new Environmental Control Department, cited the Teaford Feedlot for polluting the creek, the attorney said.

A check with the state agency revealed the feedlot is located in Brown County and the citation was issued in June following a hearing on the matter held at Ainsworth.

However, Gale said, just because state action may have been initiated, federal involvement would not automatically be ruled out.

"I won't commit myself to that," he said.

"The final decision would be based on just how blatant the pollution has been, and whether state action is effective," Gale said.

The federal government, the attorney said, "is more interested in abatement" of pollution than in court action.

The complaint against the feedlot was lodged with the U.S. Justice Department by the Nebraska Izaak Walton League in early June.

Gale also said his office is awaiting a report from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on the matter.

Mentally Retarded Children To Be Moved From Kearney

About 30 mentally retarded children will be transferred as soon as it is practical from the Kearney Tuberculosis Hospital, which was ordered closed, to the Hastings Regional Center, State Director of Institutions Michael LMontia said Wednesday.

The other 13 retarded children at Kearney will be moved to community related centers such as Encore in Omaha.

The reason for the transfer is that there are no programs at Kearney equipped to handle the mentally retarded.

'Not Vegetables'

"These children are not vegetables; they do have the ability to learn. At Kearney they will not be able to realize their maximum potential," LaMontia said.

"I don't know why they were sent to Kearney in the first place. I visited the hospital on the eleventh of May, and on May 12 I decided they should be moved," he said.

LaMontia said the tuberculosis patients will also be moved, but not immediately.

Adequate Space

At the Hastings Regional Center LaMontia said there is adequate space for the children with some potential for expansion.

"The nucleus of psychologists, nurses and doctors exists there that will allow augmentations and additions in care and training," he said

The children range in age from 2½ to 12 years.

Petitioners Allege Local Firm Owes $3,500 In Wages

A petition in bankruptcy against the Mid-Continent Laboratories Inc. of Lincoln was filed Wednesday in U.S. District Court by Four Lincoln men.

The petitioners, Terrance P. Lyons, Johnnie A. Summers, Kenneth R. Janssen and Oran A Breeze, allege the corporation owes them nearly $3,500 in wages.

Their petition alleges that Mid-Continent committed an act of bankruptcy within the past four months by transferring a security agreement to Wes-K Associate of Van Nuys, Calif., at a time when Mid-Continent was insolvent to obtain a greater percentage of the indebtedness for that class of creditor.

Federal Government May Not Take Action Against Teaford Feedlot

U.S. Assistant Attorney General John Gale said Wednesday federal action may not be taken against a feedlot charged with polluting Long Pine Creek in northern Nebraska.

Gale said the decision whether remedies would be sought under an 1899 Federal Refuse Act "will probably" hinge on whether the state decides to file suit.

A report received from the Federal Environmental Protection Agency said the Nebraska Water Pollution Control Council, a predecessor to the state's new Environmental Control Department, cited the Teaford Feedlot for polluting the creek, the attorney said.

A check with the state agency revealed the feedlot is located in Brown County and the citation was issued in June following a hearing on the matter held at Ainsworth.

However, Gale said, just because state action may have been initiated, federal involvement would not automatically be ruled out.

"I won't commit myself to that," he said.

"The final decision would be based on just how blatant the pollution has been, and whether state action is effective," Gale said.

The federal government, the attorney said, "is more interested in abatement" of pollution than in court action.

The complaint against the feedlot was lodged with the U.S. Justice Department by the Nebraska Izaak Walton League in early June.

Gale also said his office is awaiting a report from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on the matter.

Mentally Retarded Children To Be Moved From Kearney

About 30 mentally retarded children will be transferred as soon as it is practical from the Kearney Tuberculosis Hospital, which was ordered closed, to the Hastings Regional Center, State Director of Institutions Michael LMontia said Wednesday.

The other 13 retarded children at Kearney will be moved to community related centers such as Encore in Omaha.

The reason for the transfer is that there are no programs at Kearney equipped to handle the mentally retarded.

'Not Vegetables'

"These children are not vegetables; they do have the ability to learn. At Kearney they will not be able to realize their maximum potential," LaMontia said.

"I don't know why they were sent to Kearney in the first place. I visited the hospital on the eleventh of May, and on May 12 I decided they should be moved," he said.

LaMontia said the tuberculosis patients will also be moved, but not immediately.

Adequate Space

At the Hastings Regional Center LaMontia said there is adequate space for the children with some potential for expansion.

"The nucleus of psychologists, nurses and doctors exists there that will allow augmentations and additions in care and training," he said

The children range in age from 2½ to 12 years.

Narcotics Being Smuggled Into Army's New Drug Detoxification Center

Saigon (UPI) — American soldiers being treated for heroin addiction at the U.S. Army's drug detoxification center are receiving narcotics smuggled to them through the center's elaborate security cordon, United Press International learned Wednesday.

Military sources said a report on the narcotics traffic into the center at Cam Ranh Bay was delivered Tuesday to ambassador Ellsworth C. Bunker by the U.S. Command.

"It almost did the ambassador in," said one source.

Military authorities reportedly were basing an investigation of the smuggling on a theory that the center's staff members were obtaining heroin and other narcotics for the addicts there. Actual source of the smuggled narcotics has not been determined, however, the military sources said.

In other developments Wednesday involving narcotics:

—South Vietnamese police reported breaking up a narcotics smuggling ring, arresting 26 persons and confiscating opium and heroin worth $3.6 million.

—Adm. Bernard A. Clarey, commander of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, said in an interview following a visit to the Navy's drug detoxification center at Nha Be that he believes the narcotics addiction rate among Navy personnel is "probably a little lower" than that of the U.S. civilian population.

—In Bangkok, the official spokesman for the U.S. Embassy announced that a drug ring smuggling opium and heroin from Thailand into South Vietnam was cracked in Saigon with the arrest of 19 persons. The spokesman said 97 pounds of heroin and 640 pounds of opium were seized.

The Army detoxification center at Cam Ranh Bay was opened last month in quarters formerly occupied by a convalescent center for Americans wounded in the Vietnam fighting. It is staffed by former members of the convalescent center staff and a special team of laboratory experts from the United States.

There was no immediate indication of how Army authorities learned of the narcotics smuggling into the center, but the data probably was obtained as a result of daily urine tests given addicts under treatment at the center, military sources said. Heroin usage shows in the urine.

It was virtually certain, military sources said, that the addicts under treatment at the center did not themselves smuggle the drugs into the facility. When they are admitted, they are thoroughly searched and their personal belongings, except for shaving gear and "one item of personal significance," is impounded. They are issued pajamas and rubber shower shoes, their only garments while in the center.

The addicts are not permitted to leave the center while under treatment, and staff members and officially approved visitors are the only others allowed inside the compound.

The Cam Ranh facility receives U.S. Army drug addicts from throughout South Vietnam. It has a capacity of 300 patients, but the Army says it never has been filled. Addicts are kept there a week to 10 days before being returned to the United States for either additional medical treatment or counseling.

The U.S. command, meanwhile, in an attempt to make the Cam Ranh facility more effective, has ordered urine tests for all soldiers who extend their Vietnam tours as well as for those leaving Vietnam at the completion of their duty tours.

South Vietnamese national police, in announcing arrest of 26 persons and seizure of $3.6 million worth of narcotics, said the drugs were being smuggled into Vietnam by sea through Rach Gia province on the Gulf of Thailand and sent to Saigon by truck. They said a Chinese citizen headed the ring. Drugs seized included 220 pounds of heroin and 594 pounds of opium.

Narcotics Being Smuggled Into Army's New Drug Detoxification Center

Saigon (UPI) — American soldiers being treated for heroin addiction at the U.S. Army's drug detoxification center are receiving narcotics smuggled to them through the center's elaborate security cordon, United Press International learned Wednesday.

Military sources said a report on the narcotics traffic into the center at Cam Ranh Bay was delivered Tuesday to ambassador Ellsworth C. Bunker by the U.S. Command.

"It almost did the ambassador in," said one source.

Military authorities reportedly were basing an investigation of the smuggling on a theory that the center's staff members were obtaining heroin and other narcotics for the addicts there. Actual source of the smuggled narcotics has not been determined, however, the military sources said.

In other developments Wednesday involving narcotics:

—South Vietnamese police reported breaking up a narcotics smuggling ring, arresting 26 persons and confiscating opium and heroin worth $3.6 million.

—Adm. Bernard A. Clarey, commander of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, said in an interview following a visit to the Navy's drug detoxification center at Nha Be that he believes the narcotics addiction rate among Navy personnel is "probably a little lower" than that of the U.S. civilian population.

—In Bangkok, the official spokesman for the U.S. Embassy announced that a drug ring smuggling opium and heroin from Thailand into South Vietnam was cracked in Saigon with the arrest of 19 persons. The spokesman said 97 pounds of heroin and 640 pounds of opium were seized.

The Army detoxification center at Cam Ranh Bay was opened last month in quarters formerly occupied by a convalescent center for Americans wounded in the Vietnam fighting. It is staffed by former members of the convalescent center staff and a special team of laboratory experts from the United States.

There was no immediate indication of how Army authorities learned of the narcotics smuggling into the center, but the data probably was obtained as a result of daily urine tests given addicts under treatment at the center, military sources said. Heroin usage shows in the urine.

It was virtually certain, military sources said, that the addicts under treatment at the center did not themselves smuggle the drugs into the facility. When they are admitted, they are thoroughly searched and their personal belongings, except for shaving gear and "one item of personal significance," is impounded. They are issued pajamas and rubber shower shoes, their only garments while in the center.

The addicts are not permitted to leave the center while under treatment, and staff members and officially approved visitors are the only others allowed inside the compound.

The Cam Ranh facility receives U.S. Army drug addicts from throughout South Vietnam. It has a capacity of 300 patients, but the Army says it never has been filled. Addicts are kept there a week to 10 days before being returned to the United States for either additional medical treatment or counseling.

The U.S. command, meanwhile, in an attempt to make the Cam Ranh facility more effective, has ordered urine tests for all soldiers who extend their Vietnam tours as well as for those leaving Vietnam at the completion of their duty tours.

South Vietnamese national police, in announcing arrest of 26 persons and seizure of $3.6 million worth of narcotics, said the drugs were being smuggled into Vietnam by sea through Rach Gia province on the Gulf of Thailand and sent to Saigon by truck. They said a Chinese citizen headed the ring. Drugs seized included 220 pounds of heroin and 594 pounds of opium.

Business News Lowers Market

New York (AP) — A drop in the government's "leading" economic indicators added to the discouraging business news picture Wednesday and pressed stock market prices sharply lower.

"There is enough negative news to create worry among investors," said Charles M. Lewis, analyst for Treves & Co.

He said the announcement by U.S. Steel that it was cutting its dividend, the over-all strike situation, and the decline of the "leading" economic indicators all put "a terrible damper" on the market.

Technically, Lewis said, the market was in a negative position, with 850 the possible next resistance level in the Dow Jones Industrial average.

The Dow average of 30 industrials finished the day down 8.69 at 872.01.

Of the 1,656 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 1,040 declines, and 323 advanced. Volume of 13.94 million shares compared with Big Board turnover of 11.56 million shares Tuesday.

The New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,300 common stocks dropped .43 to 53.70. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell .71 to 97.07.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed down 3.2 at 313.0 with industrials off 4.9, rails down 1.8 and utilities off 1.3.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index slipped .18 to 25.00 as 3.03 million shares changed hands, compared with Tuesday's turnover of 3.34 million shares. Declines outnumbered advances 652 to 206 among the 1,098 Amex issues traded.

The most-actively traded Big Board stock was U.S. Steel, off 1⅜ to 29¾ on 310,600 shares. Included in the trading was a block of 208,300 shares at 30.

General Electric was the second-most-actively traded issue, closing down ¾ at 53¾ on 173,400 shares, followed by Texaco, off ⅜ to 35⅛ on 144,800 shares. Trading in Texaco included a block of 100,000 shares at 35⅜.

A total of 114 blocks of 10,000 shares or more were traded on the Big Board, compared with a revised 75 such blocks

Business News Lowers Market

New York (AP) — A drop in the government's "leading" economic indicators added to the discouraging business news picture Wednesday and pressed stock market prices sharply lower.

"There is enough negative news to create worry among investors," said Charles M. Lewis, analyst for Treves & Co.

He said the announcement by U.S. Steel that it was cutting its dividend, the over-all strike situation, and the decline of the "leading" economic indicators all put "a terrible damper" on the market.

Technically, Lewis said, the market was in a negative position, with 850 the possible next resistance level in the Dow Jones Industrial average.

The Dow average of 30 industrials finished the day down 8.69 at 872.01.

Of the 1,656 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 1,040 declines, and 323 advanced. Volume of 13.94 million shares compared with Big Board turnover of 11.56 million shares Tuesday.

The New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,300 common stocks dropped .43 to 53.70. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell .71 to 97.07.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed down 3.2 at 313.0 with industrials off 4.9, rails down 1.8 and utilities off 1.3.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index slipped .18 to 25.00 as 3.03 million shares changed hands, compared with Tuesday's turnover of 3.34 million shares. Declines outnumbered advances 652 to 206 among the 1,098 Amex issues traded.

The most-actively traded Big Board stock was U.S. Steel, off 1⅜ to 29¾ on 310,600 shares. Included in the trading was a block of 208,300 shares at 30.

General Electric was the second-most-actively traded issue, closing down ¾ at 53¾ on 173,400 shares, followed by Texaco, off ⅜ to 35⅞ on 144,800 shares. Trading in Texaco included a block of 100,000 shares at 35⅞.

A total of 114 blocks of 10,000 shares or more were traded on the Big Board, compared with a revised 75 such blocks

Federal Reserve Board Expansion Is Suggested

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon has been urged by high level economic advisers to double the membership of the seven-man Federal Reserve Board on grounds it has become "too much of a closed club," an administration spokesman said Wednesday.

At the same time, administration officials said Nixon rejected a request from Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns for administration support for legislation that would increase Burns' salary from $42,500 to $62,500 a year. Burns denied making any such request.

The disclosures apparently were intended as a rebuff to Burns and his colleagues for their criticism of administration economic policies. Burns — Nixon's only appointee on the board — has been increasingly outspoken in recent weeks.

If the administration decided to ask Congress to increase board membership from 7 to 14, it could touch off a controversy rivaling the furor that blocked President Franklin D. Roosevelt's effort nearly three decades ago to "pack" the Supreme Court and dilute its conservative majority.

Doubling the membership would give Nixon the authority to appoint seven new members to the independent board which controls the nation's basic money and credit policies. But the chances of passage of such a bill in Congress appeared to be slim at best.

"The president has received several requests from high level economic advisers that he expand membership of the Federal Reserve Board," an administration spokesman, who declined to be identified further, told UPI. "There has been criticism that it is too much of a closed club and that only by doubling its size can it really function reliably."

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler later sought to soften the impact of the statement without denying the substance of the other spokesman's remarks.

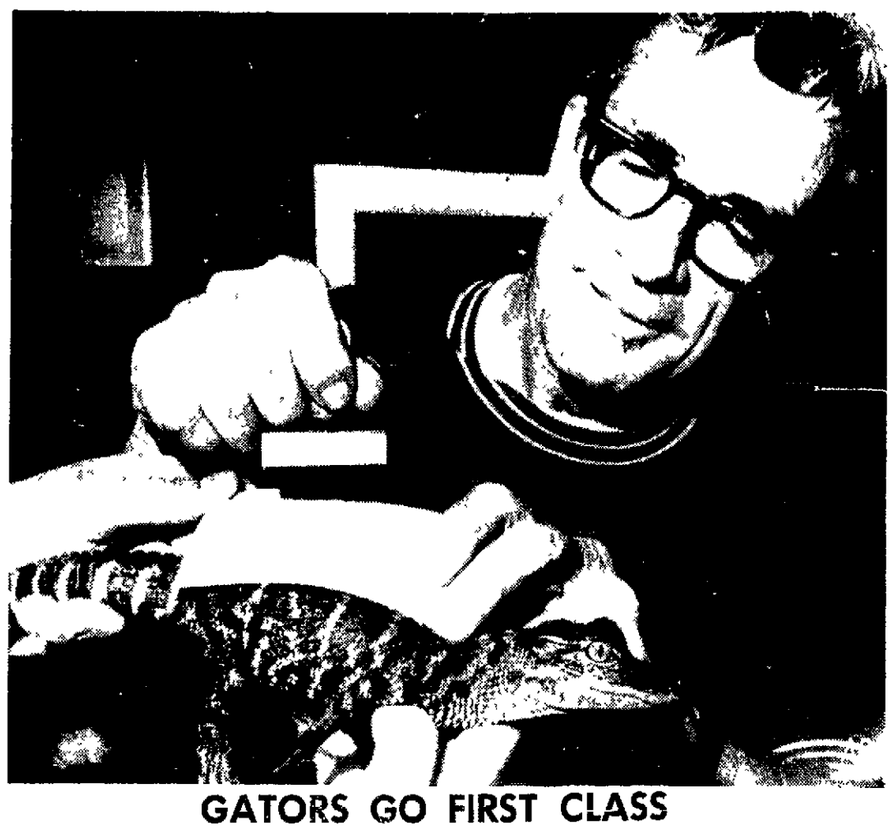

"The President is not giving consideration to that at this time," Ziegler said.

The press secretary frequently uses the phrase "at this time" to signal that his answers may be subject to change.

Ziegler did confirm that the administration had considered and rejected suggestions to boost the salary of Burns and Office of Management and Budget Director George P. Shultz to the cabinet level $62,500. Ziegler said the proposals were rejected because of budgetary stringency.

Computer Takes Toll

Frankfort, Ky. (AP) — One of the nation's first computer communications system is in operation on the Owensboro-Henderson toll road in Western Kentucky. It is supposed to reduce human error in the collection and analysis of tolls.

GATORS GO FIRST CLASS

These alligators are on the go. They arrived safe and lively at Environmental Information in Winter Park, Fla., after a postal flight from California. From Winter Park, they will be given a lift to Eay Callie by Florida Audubon Society President Martin Northrup and from there to the Everglades National Park by Jo Kellet, president.

Helicopters Removed From Bases

Saigon (UPI) — The United States Wednesday removed dozens of helicopters and other major support groups from two big military bases north of Saigon and near the Cambodian border because they were endangered by lax South Vietnamese security around them, field reports said.

The evacuation was ordered even as about 3,500 South Vietnamese troops backed by tanks and artillery thrust into Cambodia just west of the Parrot's Beak Wednesday in a new drive aimed at breaking up a Communist infiltration route into South Vietnam's Mekong Delta.

The South Vietnamese made only light contact in the first day of the operation — the third such drive underway in Cambodia — and reported killing 11 guerrillas and taking some Communist prisoners.

U.S. support units were ordered pulled out of the Tay Ninh West Base, 65 miles northwest of Saigon, and Lai Khe, 30 miles north, after Communist commando attacks blew up six U.S. helicopters and wounded six Americans at the two installations.

At Tay Ninh West, attacked July 23, commandos penetrated the barbed wire perimeter under cover of a mortar barrage. At Lai Khe, they walked unopposed through the perimeter early Tuesday, field reports said.

Following the second attack the orders to evacuate were given by Lt. Gen. J. J. Wagstaff, U.S. commander of Military Region III, the area around Saigon, officers reported.

Bodyguard Key Suspect In Killing

©The New York Times

New York — Philip Rossillo, described by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as a bodyguard of Joseph A. Colombo Sr., is a prime suspect in the killing of Jerome A. Johnson, the man the police have said shot Colombo last June 28.

Rossillo, 28 years old, was one of three associates of Colombo searched Wednesday by federal treasury agents who acted on reports from informants that the three men were carrying firearms. The agents said two guns had been found in the possession of one of the men, Paul Bevacqua, 32.

Later the police found a package in a car rented to Joseph A. Colombo Jr. that allegedly contained three loaded guns. A warrant will be sought for the arrest of Colombo on gun charges, federal agents said. He could not be reached for comment.

Sources close to the investigation of the shooting of Joseph Colombo Sr., who has been described as a mafia leader, said the police and federal agents were investigating the background of Rossillo and had been following his movements.

Although Rossillo has not yet been questioned by the police, the sources said, he is the prime suspect in their investigation of who killed Johnson after Johnson allegedly shot Colombo shortly before a rally of the Italian-American Civil Rights League in Columbus Circle. Rossillo could not be reached for comment.

An affidavit filed by an FBI agent, Raymond Talia, in Federal Court in Brooklyn in support of requests for warrants to search Rossilli and others, described Rossillo as "the bodyguard of Joseph Colombo Sr. and his immediate family."

"Philip Rossillo was photographed immediately prior to the shooting of Joseph Colombo Sr. carrying a black satchel," the affidavit said.

"Immediately after the shooting, a similar black satchel was found by the New York Police Department close to the point where Philip Rossillo was photographed. The New York Police Department found the black satchel to contain a fully loaded pistol."

Rossillo was described in the affidavit as being 5 feet, 10 inches tall and weighing 220 pounds. Recently, the affidavit said, he has served as driver and bodyguard of Anthony Colombo, son of the wounded reputed mafia leader.

Anthony Colombo is vice president of the Italian-American Civil Rights League, of which his father was one of the founders. Rossillo has frequently accompanied Anthony Colombo on visits to his father's bedside at Roosevelt hospital.

Doctors at the hospital said Wednesday that the condition of Joseph A. Colombo Sr. remained critical.

Berrigans Denied Bid For Early Release

Washington (AP) — The U.S. Board of Parole Wednesday denied the application by antiwar priests Phillip and Daniel Berrigan for early release from prison terms for destruction of draft records.

The case of Phillip Berrigan, who is accused of plotting to kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, will be reviewed by the board in January of 1973, board chairman George J. Reed said.

Reed said the board decided that Daniel Berrigan should remain in prison until his mandatory release with time off for good behavior on Nov. 23, 1972.

The Roman Catholic priests, brothers, are serving sentences in the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury, Conn. Both were convicted of destroying draft records at Catonsville, Md., in 1968 and Phillip was convicted of a similar raid at Selective Service offices in Baltimore.

The board's decision was made in executive session. Reed said the board gave "full review" to records of both.

One or both of the brothers could file a petition for appellate review of the board's decision. No further action could be taken by the board, however, until after 90 days.

Daniel would have been eligible for parole Aug. 10, at the expiration of one-third of his three-year term. Phillip would have been eligible in mid-September. He is serving concurrent six-and three-year terms.

Care Urged In Camper, Trailer Use; Three Died In Accidents Last Year

In 1970 three people were killed and 86 injured in 41 accidents involving campers or cabin trailers in Nebraska, according to Tom Ryan, supervisor of the Accident Records Division of the State Department of Roads.

"Inexperienced drivers" are the biggest cause of cabin trailer accidents, Ryan noted. "They enter curves at excessive speeds, causing the trailer to go over the curb and tip, or to cross the center line into on coming traffic," he said.

Drivers should enter curves slowly and then accelerate out of them for maximum control when towing a trailer, he advised.

Weaving, caused by improper loading, faulty trailer hitches or high winds often catches inexperienced drivers by surprise and causes accidents.

Trailer owners should learn to properly balance their rigs, he said. A common sense approach to loading and balancing gear can do much to prevent load shifting, he added.

A study of dealer recommendations also helps in arranging the interior cargo to minimize shifting and a sudden change in the rig's center of gravity, he said. The hitch should be firmly attached to the car, Ryan said, and be the proper type for the particular trailer. Nebraska law requires safety chains only on the interstates but their use at all times is recommended, he pointed out.

Wind is treacherous, especially when passing grain elevators, through overpasses and other areas where it is blocked, Ryan said. Drivers unconsciously compensate for wind and when its force is suddenly eliminated or lessened, they are prone to "drift" over either into oncoming traffic or over the edge of the highway, he cautioned.

According to Ryan, acceleration will be slower and stopping time increased due to the added weight. The experienced trailer tower allows for these situations and gives himself enough time and space to pass another vehicle or enter the traffic stream, he said.

Emergency stops are always difficult with a trailer, Ryan said, so drivers should be alert to possible panic situations and try to avoid them. He warned that downhill speeds have a way of creeping up without the driver realizing it. Steady application of the brakes will cause brake linings to fade, he said, and may trigger an uncontrollable skid. It's better to "pump" the brakes instead and prevent locking the wheels, Ryan advised.

Pre-trip preparation includes a lights check, a close inspection of the hitch for looseness or side sway and a double check to make sure that the trailer latch is closed and locked over the ball, he said. Trailer doors should be locked and windows closed when the rig is moving and tires should be inflated to the maximum allowable pressure, he said.

The speed limit in Nebraska for cabin trailers, 23-feet-long or more, is 50 miles per hour, the accident supervisor reminded motorists. Trailers less than 23-feet-long can be towed as fast as the posted speed limit, he said. Cabin trailers, 80 inches or more in width, must have clearance lights, Ryan said.

NHE Reports Earnings Rise

Milwaukee, Wis. — National Health Enterprises Inc., a Milwaukee-based operator of nursing homes and general hospitals, including Homestead in Lincoln, has reported a 16% earnings gain for the first quarter of 1971 ending June 30.

The report said the company's gross revenues have increased 17%.

NHE's after-tax profits rose to $303,083, equivalent to 5 cents a share, from $260,684 or 4 cents a share in the comparable three months of 1970.

Revenues for the quarter climbed to a record $6,716,272, up from $5,720,980 in the corresponding 1970 period.

The company, which also operates Lindenwood in Omaha, is in a period of registration before the Securities and Exchange Commission, covering a proposed public offering of $7,500,000 worth of convertible subordinated debentures maturing in 1986.

First Mid America Inc. of Lincoln and The Milwaukee Company are managing underwriters of the proposed financing in which bonds would be issued in denominations and multiples of $1,000.

Federal Reserve Board Expansion Is Suggested

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon has been urged by high level economic advisers to double the membership of the seven-man Federal Reserve Board on grounds it has become "too much of a closed club," an administration spokesman said Wednesday.

At the same time, administration officials said Nixon rejected a request from Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns for administration support for legislation that would increase Burns' salary from $42,500 to $62,500 a year. Burns denied making any such request.

The disclosures apparently were intended as a rebuff to Burns and his colleagues for their criticism of administration economic policies. Burns — Nixon's only appointee on the board — has been increasingly outspoken in recent weeks.

If the administration decided to ask Congress to increase board membership from 7 to 14, it could touch off a controversy rivaling the furor that blocked President Franklin D. Roosevelt's effort nearly three decades ago to "pack" the Supreme Court and dilute its conservative majority.

Doubling the membership would give Nixon the authority to appoint seven new members to the independent board which controls the nation's basic money and credit policies. But the chances of passage of such a bill in Congress appeared to be slim at best.

"The president has received several requests from high level economic advisers that he expand membership of the Federal Reserve Board," an administration spokesman, who declined to be identified further, told UPI. "There has been criticism that it is too much of a closed club and that only by doubling its size can it really function reliably."

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler later sought to soften the impact of the statement without denying the substance of the other spokesman's remarks.

"The President is not giving consideration to that at this time," Ziegler said.

The press secretary frequently uses the phrase "at this time" to signal that his answers may be subject to change.

Ziegler did confirm that the administration had considered and rejected suggestions to boost the salary of Burns and Office of Management and Budget Director George P. Shultz to the cabinet level $62,500. Ziegler said the proposals were rejected because of budgetary stringency.

Helicopters Removed From Bases

Saigon (UPI) — The United States Wednesday removed dozens of helicopters and other major support groups from two big military bases north of Saigon and near the Cambodian border because they were endangered by lax South Vietnamese security around them, field reports said.

The evacuation was ordered even as about 3,500 South Vietnamese troops backed by tanks and artillery thrust into Cambodia just west of the Parrot's Beak Wednesday in a new drive aimed at breaking up a Communist infiltration route into South Vietnam's Mekong Delta.

The South Vietnamese made only light contact in the first day of the operation — the third such drive underway in Cambodia — and reported killing 11 guerrillas and taking some Communist prisoners.

U.S. support units were ordered pulled out of the Tay Ninh West Base, 65 miles northwest of Saigon, and Lai Khe, 30 miles north, after Communist commando attacks blew up six U.S. helicopters and wounded six Americans at the two installations.

At Tay Ninh West, attacked July 23, commandos penetrated the barbed wire perimeter under cover of a mortar barrage. At Lai Khe, they walked unopposed through the perimeter early Tuesday, field reports said.

Following the second attack the orders to evacuate were given by Lt. Gen. J. J. Wagstaff, U.S. commander of Military Region III, the area around Saigon, officers reported.

Bodyguard Key Suspect In Killing

©The New York Times

New York — Philip Rossillo, described by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as a bodyguard of Joseph A. Colombo Sr., is a prime suspect in the killing of Jerome A. Johnson, the man the police have said shot Colombo last June 28.

Rossillo, 28 years old, was one of three associates of Colombo searched Wednesday by federal treasury agents who acted on reports from informants that the three men were carrying firearms. The agents said two guns had been found in the possession of one of the men, Paul Bevacqua, 32.

Later the police found a package in a car rented to Joseph A. Colombo Jr. that allegedly contained three loaded guns. A warrant will be sought for the arrest of Colombo on gun charges, federal agents said. He could not be reached for comment.

Sources close to the investigation of the shooting of Joseph Colombo Sr., who has been described as a mafia leader, said the police and federal agents were investigating the background of Rossillo and had been following his movements.

Although Rossillo has not yet been questioned by the police, the sources said, he is the prime suspect in their investigation of who killed Johnson after Johnson allegedly shot Colombo shortly before a rally of the Italian-American Civil Rights League in Columbus Circle. Rossillo could not be reached for comment.

An affidavit filed by an FBI agent, Raymond Talia, in Federal Court in Brooklyn in support of requests for warrants to search Rossilli and others, described Rossillo as "the bodyguard of Joseph Colombo Sr. and his immediate family."

"Philip Rossillo was photographed immediately prior to the shooting of Joseph Colombo Sr. carrying a black satchel," the affidavit said.

"Immediately after the shooting, a similar black satchel was found by the New York Police Department close to the point where Philip Rossillo was photographed. The New York Police Department found the black satchel to contain a fully loaded pistol."

Rossillo was described in the affidavit as being 5 feet, 10 inches tall and weighing 220 pounds. Recently, the affidavit said, he has served as driver and bodyguard of Anthony Colombo, son of the wounded reputed mafia leader.

Anthony Colombo is vice president of the Italian-American Civil Rights League, of which his father was one of the founders. Rossillo has frequently accompanied Anthony Colombo on visits to his father's bedside at Roosevelt hospital.

Doctors at the hospital said Wednesday that the condition of Joseph A. Colombo Sr. remained critical.

Berrigans Denied Bid For Early Release

Washington (AP) — The U.S. Board of Parole Wednesday denied the application by antiwar priests Phillip and Daniel Berrigan for early release from prison terms for destruction of draft records.

The case of Phillip Berrigan, who is accused of plotting to kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, will be reviewed by the board in January of 1973, board chairman George J. Reed said.

Reed said the board decided that Daniel Berrigan should remain in prison until his mandatory release with time off for good behavior on Nov. 23, 1972.

The Roman Catholic priests, brothers, are serving sentences in the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury, Conn. Both were convicted of destroying draft records at Catonsville, Md., in 1968 and Phillip was convicted of a similar raid at Selective Service offices in Baltimore.

The board's decision was made in executive session. Reed said the board gave "full review" to records of both.

One or both of the brothers could file a petition for appellate review of the board's decision. No further action could be taken by the board, however, until after 90 days.

Daniel would have been eligible for parole Aug. 10, at the expiration of one-third of his three-year term. Phillip would have been eligible in mid-September. He is serving concurrent six-and three-year terms.

Care Urged In Camper, Trailer Use; Three Died In Accidents Last Year

In 1970 three people were killed and 86 injured in 41 accidents involving campers or cabin trailers in Nebraska, according to Tom Ryan, supervisor of the Accident Records Division of the State Department of Roads.

"Inexperienced drivers" are the biggest cause of cabin trailer accidents, Ryan noted. "They enter curves at excessive speeds, causing the trailer to go over the curb and tip, or to cross the center line into on coming traffic," he said.

Drivers should enter curves slowly and then accelerate out of them for maximum control when towing a trailer, he advised.

Weaving, caused by improper loading, faulty trailer hitches or high winds often catches inexperienced drivers by surprise and causes accidents.

Trailer owners should learn to properly balance their rigs, he said. A common sense approach to loading and balancing gear can do much to prevent load shifting, he added.

A study of dealer recommendations also helps in arranging the interior cargo to minimize shifting and a sudden change in the rig's center of gravity, he said. The hitch should be firmly attached to the car, Ryan said, and be the proper type for the particular trailer. Nebraska law requires safety chains only on the interstates but their use at all times is recommended, he pointed out.

Wind is treacherous, especially when passing grain elevators, through overpasses and other areas where it is blocked, Ryan said. Drivers unconsciously compensate for wind and when its force is suddenly eliminated or lessened, they are prone to "drift" over either into oncoming traffic or over the edge of the highway, he cautioned.

According to Ryan, acceleration will be slower and stopping time increased due to the added weight. The experienced trailer tower allows for these situations and gives himself enough time and space to pass another vehicle or enter the traffic stream, he said.

Emergency stops are always difficult with a trailer, Ryan said, so drivers should be alert to possible panic situations and try to avoid them. He warned that downhill speeds have a way of creeping up without the driver realizing it. Steady application of the brakes will cause brake linings to fade, he said, and may trigger an uncontrollable skid. It's better to "pump" the brakes instead and prevent locking the wheels, Ryan advised.

Pre-trip preparation includes a lights check, a close inspection of the hitch for looseness or side sway and a double check to make sure that the trailer latch is closed and locked over the ball, he said. Trailer doors should be locked and windows closed when the rig is moving and tires should be inflated to the maximum allowable pressure, he said.

The speed limit in Nebraska for cabin trailers, 23-feet-long or more, is 50 miles per hour, the accident supervisor reminded motorists. Trailers less than 23-feet-long can be towed as fast as the posted speed limit, he said. Cabin trailers, 80 inches or more in width, must have clearance lights, Ryan said.

NHE Reports Earnings Rise

Milwaukee, Wis. — National Health Enterprises Inc., a Milwaukee-based operator of nursing homes and general hospitals, including Homestead in Lincoln, has reported a 16% earnings gain for the first quarter of 1971 ending June 30.

The report said the company's gross revenues have increased 17%.

NHE's after-tax profits rose to $303,083, equivalent to 5 cents a share, from $260,684 or 4 cents a share in the comparable three months of 1970.

Revenues for the quarter climbed to a record $6,716,272, up from $5,720,980 in the corresponding 1970 period.

The company, which also operates Lindenwood in Omaha, is in a period of registration before the Securities and Exchange Commission, covering a proposed public offering of $7,500,000 worth of convertible subordinated debentures maturing in 1986.

First Mid America Inc. of Lincoln and The Milwaukee Company are managing underwriters of the proposed financing in which bonds would be issued in denominations and multiples of $1,000.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
